—The Tableau Phantasma Matinee to be given Saturday afternoon, will afford an opportunity to those who cannot go out evenings, the pleasure of seeing a charming and lovely entertainment. —Ground has been broken for the new parochial school and convent, to be erected in connection with the Church of Our Lady on Adams street. The latter building is to be built at the expense of Fr. Dolan, pastor of the Church of Our Lady, who is deeply interested in the project. —Great interest is felt in the coming Tableau Phantasma, full fifty of our leading young ladies have been allotted in different parts, and every one is perfectly charmed with the beautiful ideas to be carried out by Prof. J. Springer, together with Mr. Barrett, have taken up a most attractive program for each evening and Saturday afternoon, and a circular containing the entire list of tableaux, and the names of nearly all of the participants is to be sent to the different houses all over the Newtons, that every one may have an opportunity of learning about the enterprise, and become interested in these decidedly novel and delightful entertainments.

—Mr. W. H. Emerson offers $50 reward for information that will lead to the detection of the parties who out and disgraced his fence last Friday night, in front of his house, corner of Hovey and Washington streets. They evidently used an axe or hatchet and every ten feet or so hacked out great chips. The fence is a new one and had just been painted, and is of such an elaborate pattern that the damage is serious. It is much to be hoped that the guilty parties can be detected, and made an example of, for the sake of the reputation of the city. Newton people take pride in making their homes attractive and if their improvements are to be ruined in this way, and the guilty parties escape, it will seriously injure the reputation of the city as a law abiding place.

—The following musical selections will be used in the service at Eliot church next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock. The choir will be assisted by Mr. T. E. Johnson, tenor: Organ Prelude, Offertory, Sanctus, Benediction, Gounod. From the St. Cecilia service. Soprano solo, "Praise ye the Lord." Tenor solo, "Sun of my Soul." Flynn, Waban Racquet Club; secretary, George A. Cabot, Wellesley Hills Tennis Club; treasurer, G. R. Beal, Waltham Lawn Tennis Association; executive committee, Arthur J. Cabot of Wellesley Hills Tennis Club. Play will commence Saturday, May 14.

—Mr. Ebenezer Whitney, a prominent resident of Natick, and the father of Past Commander S. S. Whitney of Charles Ward Post 62, died very suddenly at his home in Natick, Tuesday. The deceased was born in Natick, 71 years ago, and lived there all his life with the exception of a few years spent in Dedham. He went to Washington during the civil war with the 22nd Mass. Vol., as the confidante and advisor of the late Henry B. Wilson, a life-long friend. Mr. Whitney was engaged in the shoe business in Boston for 35 years, and retired from active business 19 years ago. He had been identified with the history of Natick during the past 50 years and was one of its most respected and honored citizens. He was a member of the Natick Congregational church, and a member of the local council of the Royal Arcanum of that town. A brother of the deceased, Dr. S. S. Whitney, formerly residing in Newton Upper Falls, a widow of the deceased, and her husband, Mr. Whitney, is in feeble health and her husband's death has been a very severe blow. In March of the present year the couple were celebrating their golden wedding. Mr. Whitney at that time being apparently in good health. The funeral occurred Thursday, the four sons and two sons-in-law, acting as pall bearers. A near relative of the deceased, who belonged to an old family, is Congressman George Fred Williams, a nephew.

THE TIDE OF FASHION.

The great variety of spring and summer wraps this year enables every taste to be suited, and at Springer Brothers' extensive show rooms in Boston, many beautiful styles are shown, which in spite of the McKinley bill are marked at unusually low prices.

Black lace is an important feature in the make-up of many of the capes, which are three-quarters in length, and let in a popular trimming. Some beautiful ones in a silk foundation are shown, which will make lovely and graceful wraps for warm days.

The more serviceable garments are of cloth, the tans being a very popular shade, but black and mode shades are much worn. A striking novelty is the double-faced cape, the cloth being gray on one side and old rose on the other, of pale tan and a line check. Of course these were not lined, as the cloth furnishes its own lining, and they were made up into a light circular with a shawl hood at the back, the collar formed by a closely gathered ruffle which, as it stood up about the neck, showed the double-face of the cloth to the best advantage. A cord and tassel to match the cloth fastened the cape at the neck. These capes, which will make remarkably pretty and light summer wraps for country or seashore, were only $15 and $18. The black cheviot capes are from $12 upwards, and are usually trimmed with embroidery, jet and braid.

In the spring coats, Springer Bros. display the new box coat, with loose or half fitting back, which is so popular abroad but they have also a great variety of jackets and reefer.

The firm have a new departure in the way of the popular outing suits, with gracefully hung belt skirts and jackets of an artistic cut, in fine flannel, serge and crepon, at prices ranging from $10 to $22, which is cheaper than one could buy the cloth. There is also a large variety of blazer waists to go with them, and the Norfolk waist is something new and very pretty.

Springer Brothers' stock of children's cloaks, jackets, etc., is complete and as fascinating as it always is, the only difference being that the variety of styles seems to be unusually large. It is a pleasure to visit an establishment where the attendance is so good and the comforts of the visitor so carefully considered as it is here, and one can see a great many beautiful garments without giving any trouble, as Springer Brothers have the good judgment to mark prices in plain figures on their goods, thus saving both customer and saleswoman a deal of bother and waiting.

Tableaux Phantasma.
This much talked of entertainment comes off May 11, 12 and 14th at Eliot Hall, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. A long list of prominent ladies are patronesses, and seventy-five of Newton's best known society people will participate.

Including the Saturday matinee there are four entertainments with a different program for each, and all promises with its dissolving views to be a very novel and attractive affair. Programs with full descriptions of the groups and pictures are being distributed, and tickets are being sold by the young ladies taking part, and can also be obtained at the box office at Eliot Hall, tomorrow, from 4 to 7 p. m., and daily thereafter, or at the drug stores. The entertainment will also include a full musical program, by orchestra, cornet and piano, and promises to be the great event of the year. See adv.

"The Players."
The sixteenth series of performances will be given at the City Hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings, May 16 and 17, on which occasion the following plays will be presented: "After-Thoughts" (By the kind permission of Mr. A. M. Palmer, and the author, Mr. Augustus Thorne); "The Mouse-Trap" (Adapted from the French by Mrs. Burton Harrison); "Ducketty's Picnic." The overture begins at 7.35.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB. The Tariff is a Tax.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms, and communications of every kind, whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders or High Protectionists. Address: Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

Interesting Facts about Wool.

(From the Boston Herald)

A few days since we referred to the Wool Book, prepared by Mr. S. N. D. North, the able and careful secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, in which he has collected a large number of facts relating to the wool and woolen industry. We said at the time that Mr. North was a statistician whose care and competency could not be too much admired, but that we found ourselves in frequent disagreement with him when it came to the question of drawing deductions from the data he and others had collated. The Wool Book furnishes a mine of useful information, and we have thought it well to consider a few of the facts derived out of its pages.

One interesting item is the price of wool at different periods in our history. It will be remembered that from the year 1846 to the outbreak of the civil war the tariff of the United States was on an admittedly revenue basis. A part of that time wool was subject to a relatively low duty, and part of the time many grades of wool were free. The result of this was, as given in Mr. North's tables, that during the years 1850 and 1860—that is, the years immediately preceding the war, and when the effect of the revenue tariff had had a full opportunity to develop itself—the average price of medium Ohio fleece wool was a little under forty-four cents. From that time until now such legislation as has been passed by Congress has been in the direction of protecting the wool grower, and in this way adding to his profits. But the result of this legislation has been obviously disappointing, for, although we had high wool duties in 1867, modified wool duties in 1883, and increased wool duties in 1890, the price of American grown wool has not responded to the application of these artificial stimulants. The average price of medium Ohio fleece wool from 1880 to 1891, inclusive, was less than thirty-seven cents, or, in other words, about 20 per cent less than the average price of this staple during what is termed the free trade period in our revenue system.

Now, we do not affirm that this low price was occasioned by the tariff, or that the previous higher price was occasioned by free trade; but we do assert that, while the duties on wool have very seriously embarrassed the operations of American manufacturers and have compelled every purchaser of woolen fabrics in the United States to pay more than he otherwise would for these articles of necessity, the effect has been to give, as it was assumed it would, larger profits to the wool grower. It costs more, and not less, than it did thirty years ago to raise sheep in Ohio; that is, the value of the land is higher; and, although the average yield of wool per sheep is greater, it is questionable whether this offsets the increase in the price of labor and the added value of land. But the tariff tax has not stimulated prices, which have, as Mr. North has pointed out, followed the general range of prices in the great wool trading centers of the world.

But, it may be said, the effect of this tariff has been to prevent the annihilation of the wool growing industry of the United States. It will be remembered, however, that fifty years ago the English farmers made precisely the same appeal or protest when it was proposed in that country to put wool upon the free list. But Mr. North's handbook shows that the number of sheep in the United Kingdom in 1801 was 33,533,988, while the number of sheep in the United States at the same time is set down as 43,419, 136; that is, taking population into account, the English, in spite of the free competition with the rest of the world, have a larger per capita showing of sheep than is to be found in this country. It may be said that this is a foreign showing, which cannot be applied with advantage in this country. Assuming this to be the case, take the contrast shown by the American record. The high duty upon wool was imposed in 1807; that is, before that time the duty was by comparison moderate. But in 1807 the per capita number of sheep in the United States was 1.9-100, while in 1892 it was 72-100. That is, before the high protective duty on wool we had more than one sheep for each inhabitant of our country, while now we have not quite three-quarters of a sheep for each inhabitant. This certainly cannot be considered a satisfactory exhibit.

Education Needed.

The Boston correspondent of the Springfield Republican takes a rather pessimistic view of the political situation and says:

If ever there was any hope for the success of a campaign of education, the time is now. The Republican masses are protectionists because their leaders are, and the leaders are protectionists, I believe, not because they have any intelligent idea on the subject, but because some wealthy men who subscribe large sums to the Republican campaign fund are afraid to trust themselves to their own ability in the conflict of trade, but are fearful that they will fail in business unless they have the power of taxing their fellow-citizens for their own benefit, and are able to fall back upon the prodigious compulsion of the national authorities in carrying out their scheme. The manufacturers use the politicians to get the votes which will keep the taxes on, and the politicians use the money which is gathered by the taxes (such part of it as the manufacturers choose) to subscribe to the campaign fund) to keep themselves in office, while the people are humbugged both into paying the taxes and voting for the politicians. As to an intelligent understanding of the tariff question, it is in the future. The Republicans are protectionists because the combination of manufacturers and politicians has led them to that point, while the Democrats are against the high tariff because something is wrong, and they have an idea, given them gratis by their leaders, that the tariff is in some way responsible for their troubles.

My observations of the thinking of the Democratic masses is one reason for saying this of them, while a conversation today with some Republicans is ample justification of my remarks about the Republicans. There were two of them. They have recently been, both of them, members of the Senate. One of them is in the iron business and believes he knows something about the effect of the tariff upon him. Both of them said that

Oliver Ames is just right in his ideas about the tariff and its relation to New England. This part of the country would be a great deal better off if coal and iron ore could be obtained from the provinces north of us. This manufacturer had no doubt of that, in spite of all that has been said to show that if this material were free New England would reap no benefit. "I know who Ames wants," said one. "I use just the same kind of iron as he does. 'I know just where the saving would come in. He is right in his idea.' But both of these men were Republicans and had no more idea, apparently, of lifting a finger against the tariff, which was hurting them, than they had of trying to establish negro slavery in Massachusetts. They were Republicans, and were going to vote the party ticket, of course, and no more dreamed of being independent than of committing forgery. It would not be respectable, in their eyes, to be so, and it came to the question of Ames's nomination to Congress. 'If he had not come out quite so soon,' they said, he might have got the nomination without any trouble. Now it is a question.

Civil Service Reform.

Rev. Henry Lambert, president of the National Civil Service Reform Association, delivered an address, at the annual meeting of that association, upon civil service reform prospects in this country, which ably recounted the advances it has made, and did not fail to rebuke whatever remissness there had been in high quarters in extending the operations of the civil service law. He commended the bills introduced into the House by Representatives Lodge, Hoar and Andrews, and declared that "should these bills be passed, they will warrant a well-founded expectation that the whole public service, wherever it is practicable, will be brought into harmony, with the merit system in due time."—Boston Transcript.

The English Sparrows.

To the Editor of the Graphic: We read with interest the article signed "Observer" which appeared in a recent number of your paper, on "The Cat Question."

The Newton Horticultural Society is evidently doing all in its power to protect the trees of our city. Who will rally to defend our native birds?

We have seen on our grounds this spring no chipping sparrows, only one blue bird and a few robins; but English sparrows, pet cats and wild cats are numerous.

Why not tax cats as well as dogs, and have stray felines disposed of as are canines?

Every cherished cat should be provided with a bell which may serve as a warning to birds, when approached.

The sparrow is an enemy of our native birds, and being known as such, why is it tolerated within our borders?

Newton, April '92.

Arsenic Wall Papers.

Dr. C. H. Osgood of Wellesley, formerly of Newton, has been in poor health for some time, owing to arsenic in the wall papers in his house on Blue Hill avenue, Wellesley Hills.

Paper from his house has been examined and found to contain large quantities of arsenic.

It is the opinion of many physicians that the present law in regard to the use of arsenic in wall papers is ineffective.

In a conversation with a GRAPHIC reporter said that, in his opinion, it was imperative that the Legislature should take such action in the matter as would insure the manufacture of wall paper without the use of arsenic.

"I believe," he added, "that it is the duty of the state to appoint expert examiners, and that some of the manufacturers are not safe parties to be trusted with the examinations."

He cited the case of Judge White's daughter, "Judge White," he said, "is my neighbor, and the illness of his daughter was found to be due to arsenic in wall paper. The paper examined was stamped 'Tested for arsenic,' and was supposed to be free from that insidious poison, yet upon examination it was found to contain arsenic in large quantities. 'This shows,' continued Dr. Osgood, "how little the state law amounts to."

"In my own case I had samples of my paper sent to a chemist, who pronounced them all right. The paper was afterward examined by Prof. Wood of Harvard, and found to contain arsenic in large quantities."

"My only object in giving these facts," said Dr. Osgood in conclusion, "is to show the need of some better laws in the interest of the health of persons unsuspecting of danger from the use of arsenic in wall paper manufacture."

Dr. Osgood's condition is still very critical, but Dr. Blodgett said that he was now, he thought, on the road to recovery.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the gripe is Kemp's Balsam, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use when the need is needed. If neglected the gripe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balsam.

Mrs. Naggor (angrily). "I'll let you know, sir, that I always have governed in this house, and I always mean to."

Why Not Every Sunday?

To the Editor of the Newton Graphic: Every place of worship in the city of Newton was filled on Easter Sunday. Some were crowded. In view of large numbers attending the Easter services, the questions have been asked:—Where did all the people come from? and Why do they not attend services every Sunday?

I beg to suggest that we have in our city a considerable number who do not realize how welcome they are at all times in our churches, not only on special occasions but every Sunday.

I can speak more particularly of Grace church, and take pleasure in saying that the members of the Vestry are in attendance every Sunday morning to welcome strangers. To make it still more easy for all the seats at night have been declared free to every one.

It is very gratifying to see large congregations present every Sunday night but so long as there is a single seat vacant we are not quite satisfied, we want every one, within reaching distance of Grace Church, who has no regular church home on Sundays, to feel that he is welcome here.

It does not matter who he is, or how poor he may be, or whether he has been brought up in our faith or not. If he would like to unite with us in worshipping God, and to hear the preaching of the Gospel let him come whenever he will and as often as he will. We do not want Grace Church to be the church of a select few, but are doing all we can to make it a church for the people.

Yours Truly,
GEO. W. SHINN.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morn., in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Tobsery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

Nothing, Let's Hope.

He—"Do you ever mean to marry?"
She—"Perhaps I may sometime."
He—"Have you made up your mind whether the man will be?"
She—"Mercy, no!"
He—"Still you think you will marry somebody sometime?"
She—"I may."
He (desperately)—"Well,—what's the matter with me?"

Hortense. "Not exactly, but I got a note from the editor, in which he spoke very flatteringly of it. He said it would be a fine poem if I would only change all the words and pay a more strict attention to the rules of prosody. Oh, you can't imagine how his kind words have encouraged me!"

WASHINGTON STREET AGAIN.

That the movement to widen Washington street is something more than mere talk was shown at the meeting of the board of aldermen Monday night, when a petition was presented, signed by a great number of the solid men of Newton, including many of the largest property holders on the north side of the track. It produced an effect upon the board and a hearing was appointed for Monday evening, May 16th, when the project will be fully ventilated. The petitioners asked for 100 feet, and now now that we are about it, no less number of feet should be accepted.

We want one street that will be a credit to the city, and with a hundred foot driveway between Newton and West Newton, we would have a drive that every citizen would be proud of, and that would advertise the city to every one that passed through on the trains of the Boston & Albany.

The figures of the probable cost are very reasonable, and now that the Boston & Albany corporation is willing to pay a share of the cost, no better opportunity could be found, and the expense would scarcely be felt by any taxpayer.

No improvement has been talked of in a long time has met with such a cordial endorsement from all classes of citizens, and very hearty words of approval are heard from every side. The value of property all along the line would be increased, and real estate men say it would bring a boom to the north side of the city, that would be felt all along the line. There are many fine building lots north of the railroad and near Washington street, which have not been sold because the approach to them by way of Washington street has been so forbidding. Prospective purchasers could not be blindfolded while being taken along this thoroughfare, and hence they could not be induced to buy, although in all other respects the property was just what they desired, within easy reach of the depots and street cars, healthy location, and moderate in price.

With a wide and handsome thoroughfare, all this would be changed, and land all along the route would immediately become valuable.

Judging from the men who have taken hold of this project, it will be carried through, as they are men who are not easily discouraged, and are not used to giving up when they once become interested in an enterprise. They are certainly in a fair way to earn the title of public benefactors.

THE SIDEWALK ORDINANCE.

The movement to secure some law by which property owners or abutters can be made to keep their sidewalks in a passable condition has struck another snag in the board of aldermen, and the common council amendment was defeated Monday night. We do not claim that this amendment was all that it should have been, but it was a step in the right direction, and much better than nothing.

This agitation of this subject and the public sentiment that has been aroused had some effect, however, and every speaker professed the utmost devotion to the cause of clean sidewalks, only they did not like the proposed ordinance. Whether they would like any ordinance remains to be seen, as no one proposed any amendment. Many of them said that they thought the city should do the work, just as we keep the streets in order, have them sprinkled and lighted, and perhaps this might be a good plan, if it was adopted. But no move was made to present an amendment embodying this plan, and all that was done was to defeat the only plan that had been presented.

A German Shepherd favored the amendment, and expressed the situation when he said that most people now clean their sidewalks, and what was needed was some way of reaching the one or two exceptions who utterly neglected the matter and seemed to care nothing for the comfort of the public. Perhaps it was stating it a little strong to say that "every decent man cleans his sidewalk," but when you have cleaned your own walk, and find all your neighbors but one have done the same, it is rather aggravating to have to wade through a hundred or more feet of snow and water every time you go to or from the railroad station or the store. When you have wet feet daily as the result of one man's neglect you don't feel like calling him by any gentle name.

It makes very little difference whether the citizens do the work or the city does it, provided that it is done, but the condition of some portions of the sidewalks on our main streets have been a disgrace to the city every winter, and the citizens in many of the wards are determined that such a state of things shall not continue. They are even prepared to make that the chief issue in the next election, and to vote for no man for any city office who can not be trusted to work openly and earnestly for the passage of some measure that can be enforced.

Other cities have laws that they enforce, and citizens who leave their walks encumbered with ice and snow are arrested and fined in the police courts. There are some men who can only be reached by such a summary method as this, and if we had had such a law, the comfort of all pedestrians would not have been interfered with at every snow storm.

Our State Legislature is not receiving very much praise for its work, and a whole chorus of censure has gone up for its very gentle treatment of the endowment orders, for its kindness to railroad and corporate interests, and in general for its lack of ability to take hold properly of the many very important questions that have come before it. Such a legislature as the present one furnishes an able argument against biennial elections, as most people think one year of such a body is enough. One of the specimen bills is that providing for the proper representation of the state at the World's fair, which plans to have Massachusetts represented there by the governor and 10 of his staff, the lieutenant-governor, council, state secretary, treasurer, auditor, attorney-general, the brigade and battalion commanders of the state militia, president of the Senate, speaker of the House, committee on federal relations, a special committee of seven from the Senate and 15 from the House, clerks of the two branches, sergeant-at-arms and a representative from each Boston daily paper. Why they did not go on and include one representative from every paper in the state, daily and weekly, in their list of dead-heads, is a wonder, but it would have been just as sensible. A smart man with a big blue pencil would fill a long felt want in the legislature, and the whole proceedings show the necessity of a more careful scrutiny of candidates, when the successors of these legislators are chosen.

A CORRESPONDENT suggests that all the cats in the city ought to wear a bell, so as to give warning to the robins and other birds. If the cats would only kill the English sparrows no one would object to their spending all their time hunting, but the trouble is they do not distinguish between birds that are a nuisance and those that are not.

The rural weeklies are now supplied with a Boston letter from the Republican campaign committee, which contains very stale news by the time it is issued. So far only one suburban paper has been prevailed upon to give space for it.

COAL has gone up 50 cents a ton for stove size, and 25 for larger sizes, owing to the exactions of the coal trust. Evidently every family in the land will have to contribute to the profits of this great monopoly.

The Blue Book of Newton for 1892 is just out, and is a marked improvement on all former editions.

It has all the recent changes of residence, which are so many that the Newton Directory, published a year ago, is now a back number, and is remarkably free from errors. It has an alphabetical list of the inhabitants, which answers every purpose of a directory, and the street directory is continued and made more complete than previously, as it gives the residents of every house, with new features, the days on which the ladies are at home, and the summer residence of the family. These features will make the book popular with society people.

The street directory gives the residents of each village separately, and there is a well filled list of Newton business men which will be useful for reference. The book also contains a large and complete map of Newton, and other things of interest, which will make it a necessity in every house, where a directory is wanted. The book is very handsomely gotten up and is published as usual by Mr. E. A. Jones, of 79 Milk street, Boston. It is for sale at all the Newton Newsdealers.

Their Work Appreciated.
Each representative and our senator have received a copy of the following:
Dear Sir,—At the meeting of the officers and executive committee of the Newton Woman Suffrage Association it was voted, and I was instructed to write to you with one other representative, a letter of appreciation and gratitude for the stand you took in favor of our cause, in its recent hearing before the General Court of Mass.

We are proud to number you among the friends of such a just reform, and hope that your influence will always be used against injustice and oppression.

Yours very respectfully,

Housekeepers
are Warned

Against the impositions of a company of females, who, under the lead of a male agent, are infesting different sections of the country, performing a trick which they pretend is a test of baking powders.

It having been intimated that these persons are the paid agents of the Royal Baking Powder Company, this is to advise all concerned that this Company has no relation whatever to them, that their so-called test is a sham, and that the females are instructed and employed to perform these tricks, and make false statements in all kitchens to which they can gain access, by concerns who are trying to palm off upon housekeepers an inferior brand of baking powder through the operation of fallacious and deceptive methods.

The Royal Baking Powder Company in no case employs such agents, and whenever the name of this Company is used to gain entrance to houses, the applicant, no matter how respectable in appearance, should be regarded and treated as an impostor.

—Rev. Ira Priest spoke on Sunday morning on "The Church of To-morrow." Driving a stake to mark the position of the church of the future, he pointed forward to the maybe of future days. From the pyramids and the sphinx of whom no man can tell us, from the time when we find God one must journey to Jerusalem, and the present, when one may find Him at all times and places where there is an aspiring soul. The time has come when the preacher is no longer the only moral teacher, when the public, the pews, the daily papers, the magazines have taken the work from his hands. Shakepeare is no longer the much read author, but Edward Bellamy and Thomas A. Edison are the leaders in the new science of today, the science of living. Twenty-five years ago "Looking Backward" would have fallen flat, no one would have read it. Today it is read everywhere and men are longing for the fulfillment of its suggestions. The work of the preacher is that of leading, souls upward, of teaching the way to the higher, truer life, to all who are in character, weak in spirit, blind in conscience, and while the press and the schools are doing grand work and the old methods have fallen away like the useless fables of the old wayside inn, and the superseded stage coach. While needy souls exist the work of the preacher will not be in vain.

—It was stated in some of the Boston papers this week that Judge Kennedy administered a severe reprimand to a lady and that she was so offended that she fainted. The lady referred to was Mrs. Richardson and the statement was absolutely false having no basis of truth whatever.

—The history of the case may be summed up briefly as follows: Mrs. Richardson went to Judge Kennedy and secured a complaint against her husband for non-support. When the case was called, Mrs. Richardson failed to appear and the case was continued until Monday. On Saturday Mrs. Richardson went to see Judge Kennedy in his Boston office and said that she did not appear in court upon Friday, the day fixed for the trial, on account of illness. In subsequent conversation she asked if she must reply to questions and was informed that it was customary. She said then "I shall faint for I am subject to fainting spells and unable to stand excitement of any kind."

Judge Kennedy suggested bringing a companion with her and she did so, coming in to court Monday morning accompanied by her sister-in-law. When questioned by her husband's lawyer she fainted and was taken into Judge Kennedy's private room where she was attended by Dr. Nott. Judge Kennedy continuing the case again until the following day. The final examination was private and after finding Mr. Richardson guilty of the charge brought in the complaint, Judge Kennedy ordered him to be committed to the house of correction and sentenced the accused when his lawyer in his behalf submitted a proposition offering to contribute a sum weekly toward her support. Mrs. Richardson was never in the slightest degree reprieved by Judge Kennedy and the lady has written a letter to that effect for publication in the Boston Journal. Her testimony is corroborated by City Marshal Richardson and Probation Officer Laffie present in court at the time of the trial. The reprimand story was a fabrication pure and simple, devoid of truth in every particular.

—The Auburndale Village Improvement Society will meet at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening, May 12, to listen to the report of the committee on the river park. It will be remembered that efforts have been made to open to the public a tract of land along Charles River near, and below, Islington, to combine the attractions of a wooded park, with those of a ballground and a boating place. This park would be in line with the improvements lately made and still going on from the direction of Waltham. Another move due to the society is the opening of the closed path to Charles River from the foot of Islington park. People may walk to the river without fear of trespassing, which has not before been possible, off the highway.

There is no place available for public purposes along the river in this vicinity except the one under consideration, and the committee have made some long steps towards securing it. Another move due to the society is the opening of the closed path to Charles River from the foot of Islington park. People may walk to the river without fear of trespassing, which has not before been possible, off the highway.

—The Auburndale Village Improvement Society will meet at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening, May 12, to listen to the report of the committee on the river park. It will be remembered that efforts have been made to open to the public a tract of land along Charles River near, and below, Islington, to combine the attractions of a wooded park, with those of a ballground and a boating place. This park would be in line with the improvements lately made and still going on from the direction of Waltham. BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

SCRIBNER'S.

Scribner's Magazine for May opens with the second article in the series on "The Poor in Great Cities," by Jacob A. Riis. This time he finds a subject in "The Children of the Poor" in New York—a phase of life to which his sympathies strongly attract him. Mr. Riis knows the gamins at first hand, through his many years of newspaper work at police headquarters. There is nothing farther from professional philanthropy than the spirit of Mr. Riis's article, and it appeals strongly to all right-thinking people by its humanity. The many illustrations in the article are made from photographs taken by Mr. Riis of actual characters and scenes referred to in his text. The next article in this series is Rev. William T. Elsing's account of "Life in New York Tenements as Seen by a City Missionary," which gives an actual picture of the surroundings in which the children of the poor are bred.

THE CENTURY.

The new volume of the Century will begin in May with a number of unusual interest. Three important serial features will be commenced in this number, namely: "The Chosen Valley," a novel of Western life, by Mary Hallock Foote; and the series of articles describing the architectural features of the World's Fair, which a well-known architect is to contribute. The May Century, in serials now running, which contain complete stories by Thomas Nelson Page and Wolcott Balestier, and a humorous skit by Harry Stillwell Edwards, author of "Two Runaways."

THE ATLANTIC.

Mr. Scudder should be congratulated on his success in obtaining for The Atlantic the brilliant correspondence of Ralph Waldo Emerson and Thoreau, which occupies the first place in the issue for the month of May. The letters are edited by Mr. F. B. Sanborn, of Concord, and they give characteristic glimpses of the life, physical, mental, and spiritual, of the two friends during "the Dial" period, as the editor calls it—in other words, 1843. Roman Journals of Severn, the friend of Keats, give quite a thrilling picture of the events leading to the fall of Pompeii. Harriet Waters Preston and Louise Dodge contribute the first of a series of articles on "Private Life in Ancient Rome," and Mr. Crawford continues his Italian serial, "Don Orsino." The short story of the number, with the odd title "A Cathedral Courtship," is furnished by Kate Douglas Wiggin. Other valuable papers, some poetry, and reviews, including of course the inevitable criticism of Mrs. Ward's "David Grieve," and Hardy's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," complete a strong number of this standard magazine. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

Literary Notes.

Hamilton Aide, the author of A Voyage of Discovery, is to be published by Harper & Brothers, is the son of a Greek diplomatist, and was born in England in 1830. He was educated at the University of Bonn, Germany, and was for some time an officer in the British army. He was the friend of Thackeray and the Brownings, and has written several successful books, chiefly works of fiction. In 1891 he accompanied Mr. Henry M. Stanley on his lecturing tour in the United States, and the results of some of the observations which he made at that time are said to be embodied in his new story, which is described as a novel of American society.

"The Pansy, Our Little Men and Women, and Babyland for May are filled with reading matter and pictures for the little people." "Pansy," Margaret Sidney, and a host of other writers for children make charming reading for all these magazines. (D. Lothrop Co., Boston.)

Harper & Brothers announce the following books as nearly ready for publication: The Letters of Samuel Johnson, edited by G. Birkbeck Hill; A Voyage of Discovery, a novel of American society, by Hamilton Aide; The Technique of Rest, by Anna C. Brackett; The Heresy of Melchizedek, by Annie Trumbull Slosson; and Flying Hill Farm, a story for young people by Sophie Swett. They also announce a new and revised edition of William Black's In Silk Attire.

The sudden and unexpected death of Amelia B. Edwards recalls her last literary work, Pharaohs, Fellahs, and Explorers, which has met with such popular favor in this country and in England as to oblige the publishers, Messrs. Harper & Brothers, to put the book to press several times for new editions. The world of letters and of science has met a great loss in Miss Edwards's death, as she was regarded as a leading authority on Egyptology.

Summer Opera at the Tremont.

The Tremont Theatre will offer for a summer attraction, a new opera with music by Edgar S. McLellan, written expressly for Pauline Hall, and it will receive its initial presentation at the Tremont on Monday, June 13th. The title is "Puritania or the Earl and the Maid of Salem." The time is about 1640, during the reign of Charles II in England. The first scene is laid on the seashore at Salem in the old Colonial days, and a man-of-war will be pictured in the harbor. This ship is brought to this country a young Earl, commissioned by Charles II to arrest a young and beautiful lady who is expected to have supernatural powers. Miss Hall will be the young and dashing officer and Juliet Gordon the young lady in question. Act 2nd finds the Earl's commission executed and shows how the Earl extricates the woman whom he has learned to love from the perilous position he has brought her into. It is too early to give the plot of the comic opera but with the guarantee of Wm. Seymour for its stage direction and the assurance from Miss Hall and Messrs. Abbey & Schofield that everything will be done that vast experience and money can accomplish to make the production a pronounced success the patrons of the Tremont will crowd that handsome theatre during the hot months.

National Base Ball Schedule.

A very neat pocket schedule of the National League ball games for 1892 has been issued by the proprietors of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment as one of their "Pleasure Series." The schedule is arranged after the plan of the New England League Schedule, published last year by this same firm for which they own the copyright. It shows at a glance where each game for any day of the season is to be played. The price of this schedule is ten cents and ought to be obtainable of any news dealer. If not, by courtesy of the publishers, J. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass., the readers of this paper can obtain a copy by enclosing five cents in stamps with their address in an envelope, directed to Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, Boston, Mass. Everybody will want one for daily reference.

THE MOCK TRIAL.

A CROWDED HOUSE HAVE GREAT FUN.

A mock trial was given Wednesday evening in City Hall under the auspices of Gen. Hull Lodge, A. O. U. W. An orchestra of three pieces furnished music, and the trial was evidently listened to with rare enjoyment by the large audience present.

Court opened at 8 o'clock with Judge W. F. Slocum on the bench. The prosecuting attorney, A. S. Perry, Esq., and counsel for the defence, Capt. A. V. Newton, took their places in silence, and the prisoner, in some trepidation, was ushered in by Capt. Davis.

The court crier, Mr. F. T. Benner, called the court to order, and clerk W. S. Slocum read the court docket.

The case of Prof. J. B. Taylor vs. Edward Sands for the larceny of a Plymouth Rock rooster, on the night of Dec. 24, of the value of $10, first came before the court.

The prisoner, a colored gentleman, pleaded not guilty.

The jury were then impaneled as follows: Benj. Harrison, foreman, (Rev. H. B. Patrick), James G. Blaine, (Hon. James W. Dickinson), Jay Gould, (Rev. J. M. Dutton), D. B. Hill, (Geo. Walton), Thomas B. Reed, (E. W. Redpath), Wm. McKinley, Jr., (N. H. Chadwick), B. F. Butler, (Thomas Emerson), Rising Sun Morse, (E. E. Stiles), John L. Sullivan, (G. P. Churchill), Geo. Fred Williams, (H. R. Thompson), Henry Cabot Lodge, (Dr. F. E. Crockett).

The jury was then sworn.

Just at this time some commotion was caused by the prisoner forcing his way to the jury box and trying to bribe the jury by treating them to cigarettes, but Capt. Davis soon marched the man of color to his place again.

The witnesses for the plaintiff were sworn and Prof. J. B. Taylor, the complainant, was first called. He testified to living in Newtonville as a teacher by vocation, and poultry raising was his avocation. Had an ancient Plymouth Rock, an heirloom in the family named Miles Standish, thought a great deal of him. This fowl was stolen by Sands on the night of Dec. 24. Witness returned late from a meeting of Gen. Hull lodge, was awakened by his dog, and investigation revealed his beloved rooster encircled by treacherous Sands. The alleged thief got away.

On cross-examination he admitted knowing of a cock fight at Nonantum.

Reginald Howard Turner swore to being a married man, was out on the night in question, and returning about 11 o'clock saw a man with a sack. Followed him up Court street, to Sands' house and saw the rooster placed in the sack. The rooster was Prof. Taylor's and the man was Sands.

He went to the rooster fight at Nonantum, purchasing a ticket of Mr. A. R. Mitchell. Saw Sands and the Plymouth Rock. The prisoner was backing the bird for $10. Saw Messrs. Dearborn, Fitch and other well-known men. All were betting. As fight was about to commence, Officer Davis appeared and the crowd fled. The defendant ran too.

At this point the Plymouth Rock (?) rooster was brought in by Officer Davis and identified by the witness and Prof. Taylor.

Elbridge Bradshaw had no middle name neither had George Washington. Lived at Newtonville where everybody of any account lives.

He read a paper which threw much light on the antecedents and character of the prisoner as evinced by the frequent rounds of applause and laughter.

Continuing his direct testimony he said he was married, and as he had been house cleaning he knew the nature of an oath. First knew Sands in Jerico, N. H. Bad reputation among fowl, mothers even refusing to call their sons Henneery. Been tried and sentenced several times, last time to Newtonville, hoping the high moral tone of that place might inspire his character. Witness was at the rooster fight. Mrs. Morse came to his house and wanted him to find her husband, and later Mrs. Hunt came, so he went to oblige these ladies. Found the objects of his search at the cock fight. Cross-examined—saw Messrs. Gilbraith, Dearborn, Wellington and about 60 others. The jury were there to a man. Mr. Morse was the referee.

Capt. Davis said he was the captain of the police force, a profession and business, half and half. He arrested prisoner but not at the fight. He got a tip from one of the boys, Arthur Chisholm, about the fight, who saw Turner buy a ticket a little too late, as usual. He managed to catch the smallest man, Bert Bridgman, on the fence. He didn't know which side to get down. Found the prisoner under the bed. Found on him, bunch of matches, package of cigarettes, pack of cards, some lozenges, Bijou ticket, two postage stamps and a pen knife. Witness picked up the knife at the place of the fight. Prisoner claimed it so gave it to him, and then took it back when he made the arrest.

Mrs. Taylor as Johanna Norah McGillicuddy, a girl from the Emerald Isle, was unusually taking in her character as a witness. She testified, am 10 years old and know Mr. Taylor, having lived in his family for 12 months. Know nothing about the case on trial. Mr. Sands hired her to say nothing about it, and promised to give her two tail feathers of the Plymouth Rock. He only gave her one feather, and she'd only be telling the half of what she didn't know. Prof. Taylor promised her three yards of green ribbon if she would tell all she knew about the case, but he only gave her 1 1/2 yards, and she would only tell the half of what she did know.

Witness described as her duties, polishing Mr. Taylor's boots, tending the goats, bringing the shaving water, etc. On Dec. 24 she was at the dump looking for a boot the billy goat had been chewing.

The witnesses for the defence were sworn.

Prisoner Sands was born in Maine, age 19. On night in question, been to see a sick Odd Fellow's widow. On way home saw T. E. Stutson and Turner near Central avenue, inebriated. Helped Turner home. This made Turner revengeful. Witness bought the rooster of Deacon Greene on recommendation of Samuel Brewer. Was at fight but did not bet.

Dr. G. W. Morse was an expert on monomania, a disease of the mind. Was positive that Prof. Taylor was subject to it. His hobby is fowl. Asked me once, if he would have wings like a hen when he became an angel, and also wanted a nest, a hen and a peck measure, henpecked.

Cross examined—Never saw a mind, didn't know where it was situated.

Mr. Samuel Brewer, a shoe pegger, knew the complainant and defendant. Knew Mr. Taylor to be insane on Plymouth Rock. Had known him to accompany the judge, clerk and members of the jury of stealing his rooster. Recognized rooster as property of defendant. Sold it to him.

Mr. A. W. Sherman, had known Taylor to accuse S. of 12 persons of thefts in a single day. Listened at the door of Mr. Bradshaw's store and heard him and Turner arrange a conspiracy to make Prof. Taylor believe Sands stole his rooster. Arranged also to have the officer arrest Sands in consideration of a $50.00 bill.

This closed the case for the defence and the counsel made their arguments.

The judge then charged the jury, and after a few moments deliberation they brought in a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

A CHANGE.

Within the pew in front she sat. An exquisite new Easter hat. With its decorative crown, perhaps to see how much her style was wondered at, once in a while she looked around.

He sat behind her, and her glance suggested thoughts of sweet romance. With his son.

To think, to act, with him were one. She whispered, "Yes, the thing was done. Beyond control."

That was a year ago. This year they sit together, but a tear. Blinds her eye. The hat she wears is out of date. Her heart throbs since have kept. She'd like to cry.

Within the year they both have learned That luxuries are hardly earned. And cost a heap. Last year her pa paid all the bills. This year she has to give up frippery. And get things cheap. —E.

A Real Idea.

Dealer—"Yes, sir, that's a genuine Murillo. I'll stake my reputation on its value."

Mr. Newrich—"Yes, of course, but how is anybody going to know unless you tell 'em. Can't you take it back and get the fellow to sign it?"

The man who spends much time thinking enviously of his neighbor's big salary is likely to think enviously of it all his life. While he is looking to see how much money the other fellow is making he can't make much himself.

Some people are born unfortunate. It is unfortunate that some other people are born.

It is astonishing how much self-control it takes sometimes to keep from telling people what they ought to do.

Tells of His Fearful Sufferings After Gastric Fever and His Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla

All who know Mr. W. D. Wentz give him the best of recommendations for honesty and integrity. For many years he has worked for Mr. D. P. Wilson, the harness maker and member of the Geneva Board of Health. He says:

"I was taken sick last October with gastric fever and my chance for recovery was considered almost hopeless. After seven weeks the fever slowly left me, but I could not eat the simplest food without terrible distress. It seemed that I had recovered from the fever to Die of Starvation."

I took pills, compounds, blinism, charcoal, cod liver oil and much until my physician confessed that his skill was about exhausted and he did not know what else to try. Everything I took seemed like poison. I had no appetite, and I began taking it. I had been in the house for two or three years, that I found had benefited me previously for dyspepsia. I began taking it and soon began to feel better. I have now taken a little over two bottles and can truthfully say I feel well again and can eat anything without distressing me, even to Pie and Cheese."

which I have been unable to touch for years. The English language does not contain words enough to permit me to express the praise I would like to give to Hood's Sarsaparilla. W. D. WENTZ, 181 Castle St., Geneva, N. Y.

if it is made with Cottolene, the new pure substitute for lard. Cottolene is simply pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suet, two of the healthiest foods known.

Properly combined they are better than lard for all kinds of shortening, and everyone can eat, digest, and enjoy food cooked with it. Food that was indigestible when cooked with lard is easily digested when cooked with Cottolene, and many of the leading housekeepers of the land say they can make nicer bread, rolls, biscuit, cakes, cookies, ginger bread, pies, patties, tarts, griddle cakes, croquettes with Cottolene than with either lard or butter. Cancer Can be Cured, and by Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr., 73 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my hip of seventeen years' standing. It was cut out twice, by what they call eminent surgeons, at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not delay, but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart.

A Hair Raiser.

"I never believed in that old superstition," said the orator of the evening, "about getting so frightened that your hair would stand on end until I had a practical experience of it. I, gentlemen, tell you it is true, and none of your figurative yarns, as some folks insist upon."

"Tell us about it," said one of the crowd, while they all exchanged sly winks.

"Why, you see, it was this way. I was out in Arizona up on the Mongolian Mountains hunting elk and deer, when one day I left camp to get some water from a spring a quarter of a mile away. I didn't carry my rifle along because I wanted both hands to fetch the water, and I wasn't afraid of Indians 'cause the Apaches were friendly. But just as I went around a bend of rocks close to the spring I fronted a mountain lion so close that I felt his hot breath on my face."

"That was a close call," remarked one of the company.

"It was, gentlemen, it was! And I was that scared that my hair, which was long—they wear their hair long out there—rose right up on my head, and my hat rose up with it, and that there wonderful feat of nature scared the lion as bad as it did me. Gentlemen, he turned and ran like a deer, and my hair settled down again, but I was weak as a child when I got back to camp."—Detroit Free Press.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly recommend its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

The Etiquette of the Table.

As a people, we Americans have been laughed at for eating too fast, and we are credited as being a nation of dyspeptics, writes Ruth Ashmore in her interesting department "Side Talks with Girls" in the May Ladies' Home Journal. Now, of course, this is generalizing, but you, the eldest daughter, have it in your power to make the hour at the dinner or tea-table one of real delight. It is an easy matter, you will find, to start some pleasant topic; to get your father and brother interested in the talk of the day, so that you will eat your food more slowly, and you will achieve what the Frenchmen consider the great aim—you will dine not merely feed yourself. But there are a few little questions about the etiquette of the table that some girls want to know, and these I am going to tell her. She must hold her knife by its handle, and never let her fingers reach up to its blade. Whenever it is possible, a fork must be used in place of a spoon, and that same spoon, by the by, must never be left in a coffee or tea cup, but laid to rest politely, and securely in the saucer. Glasses with handles are held by them. A goblet should be caught by the stem, the fingers not entwining the bowl part. Don't butter a large piece of bread and take bites from it; instead, break your bread in small pieces, one at a time, and butter it, that is, if you are eating butter, and convey it to your mouth by your fingers. Olives, celery, radishes, strawberries, with stumps, and asparagus, are all eaten from the fingers. The old method of eating cheese with a knife has been given up, a fork being used in its place. The use of many small dishes for vegetables is not in good taste; indeed, many vegetables should not be served at one time.

An editor is expected to know everything, and sometimes he seems to think he does.

—the great, gripping, old-fashioned pill. There's too much unpleasantness for the money. Ought to be better, too. They're big enough, and make trouble enough, to do more good.

That's just what Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do,—more good. Instead of weakening the system, they renovate it; instead of upsetting, they cleanse and regulate it—mildly, gently, and naturally. They're the original Little Liver Pills—the smallest but most effective, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and easiest to take. Only one little Pellet for a gentle laxative—three for a cathartic. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

They're the cheapest pills you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. It's a pill peculiar to Dr. Pierce's medicines.

ing school at Springfield, will spend Sunday in town and is to address both the men's and boys' meetings at Y. M. C. A.
Hall. Mr. Rideout has been under the instruction of the celebrated Athlete A. A.
Stagg during the past year.

—The annual meeting of "The Entertainment Club" was held last Friday evening, and the following board of officers were elected for the ensuing year: Pres.
and Treas., H. E. Bothfield; Vice-Pres., Miss Alice Angier; Sec., Miss Clara Soule.
The above, with Miss Isabel Cole and Mr.
L. A. Hall, constitute the executive committee.

—Mr. E. P. Burnham rode his second Century last week, going to Newburyport,
a distance of 50-1-2 miles. The trip down was made in three hours and nineteen minutes, and the round trip in 7-54 actual riding time. Mr. Burnham is now riding a thirty-two pound safety, made by the Centaur Cycle Co. of England, for which he is agent.

—The annual festival of the vested choirs will be held in Boston next Tuesday evening. This year the choirs are divided into two sections, one in charge of Mr.
Whitney at the Church of Emmanuel, and the other under the charge of Mr. Warren Locke at St. Paul's church. The Newton choir sings at the latter church and Mr. H.
B. Day presides at the organ.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. S. Pearce gave an exhibition of their winter's work in oil and china painting this week in Boston, which was attended by a large number of their friends. Some beautiful specimens of decorated china were shown by Mrs.
Pearce, and Mr. Pearce exhibited among other things a number of sketches of Newton scenery and residences, which were much admired.

—Abner Trowbridge & Co. have rented
the house on the north east corner of Boyd and Jewett streets to Mrs. L. D. Wright of Jamaica Plain; also the Hubbard house, 31 Jefferson street, to C. S. Spencer of the Atlantic Express Co.; also the Lentel house, 49 Pearl street, to Chas. Snow of New Hampshire; also No. 71 Boyd street, to Mr. McAndrews of the Eliot Bicycle Co.

—Mr. Henry E. Cobb was given a surprise by a large number of his gentlemen friends and neighbors, one evening last week, who gathered to welcome him back to Newton, and by a concerted action decide to carry their own refreshments, each man taking a squash, or pumpkin, or potatoes or some light refreshments of that kind, which made a very amusing sight when collected, and they all enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

—A new steam roller is being tried on Fairmont avenue this week, one roller not being able to do all the work needed. It comes from Springfield, O., and weighs 16 tons. It was interesting to see the ease with which it climbed Newtonville avenue from Newtonville, the steepest grade in the city. The old roller is an English machine and there is a good deal of curiosity to see if the Ohio roller can do as good work.

—The following musical selections will be used in the service at Eliot church next Sunday evening, May 15th, at 7.30 o'clock.
Organ Prelude. Adagio. Merkel
Anthem. "From Thy Love as a Father." Gounod
Solo. "There is a Green Hill." Gounod
Anthem. "An Humble Faith and Holy Love." Garrett
Chorale. "Cast Thy Burden upon the Lord." Mendelssohn
From "Elijah." Mendelssohn
Sanctus. From the Mass in G. Weber Benedictus. From the Mass in G. Weber
Organ Postlude. Lemmens Marche Pastorale.

—At the production of the "Tableaux Phantasma," last night, when a green light was being used, a spark set fire to a dish of red light, and a frightened boy threw some water on it, which made a great smoke and caused some alarm among the audience. The gentlemen present called out to the people to sit down, and the thing was over in a moment. As some might be timid about the colored lights, the ladies in charge have decided not to have any used at the Saturday performances, so there may be no possible cause for apprehension.

—Mr. William F. Hahn, formerly in business at Newton Centre, opened his new pharmacy in Sumner's block on Monday morning, and with Mr. William Snow, who has been in the drug business for four years as assistant, is ready to cater to the public of Newton. The store presents a very neat appearance the fixtures being entirely of solid quartered oak with tasty ornamental pieces and showcases of extra height. One of Tufts best soda fountains with cherry top and mirror has been put in and with the light tone of the wall and ceiling decoration the store throughout is natty and attractive.

—The Newton Boat Club are contemplating giving the dance "Living Whist"
at their clubhouse. It is proposed to give it by subscription among the members. It will be a full dress affair, and the members are taking great interest in it. The matter is now under consideration by the committee, and it is hoped that they will give it,
as it will certainly be an attractive and entertaining opening, as the Club are now fully prepared to give such things, owing to their additions and improvements.

—The Newton Bicycle Club, once one of the famous riding clubs in the country, and one of the oldest that has held regular meetings, is talking of becoming again an active club, enlarging its membership, and having a regular club room. Applications from Newton riders will be received by the President, Abbott Bassett of Newtonville. The club held its regular meeting, Tuesday evening, at the residence of Mr. E. P. Burnham, and Paxton served the collation. It was decided to call occasional runs, to which unattached Newton riders will be invited to participate.

—Miss Thurston of the Free Library
leaves next Monday to attend the meeting of the Library Association of the United States to be held at Lakewood, N. J.
Some thirty members start from Boston at
a. m., and they are joined by the rest of along the route. The session lasts for three days, after which the members go to Washington, where they will be given a reception by the President, and after visiting the various libraries and Mr. T. Mormon, they go to Roanoke College, and Fortess Monroe. On their way home they visit the John Hopkins University at Baltimore.

—Some of the older residents have found a number of errors in the article on the early history of Newton, published some weeks ago. The Nonantum Hotel was never known as the Peacock tavern, and never had a peacock sign; Nonantum being its only name when used as a hotel. Mrs.
Rawson's school was not located in this block, but in the old Perry house on the corner of Williams and Centre street.
They also say that there were never more than a dozen stages going through Newton, instead of thirty. In gathering points of early history it is always difficult to get everything exact, when local traditions have to be relied upon.

—Mr. Luther Dana died at his residence on Kenrick Park, last Friday, aged 86 years. He had lived in Newton for many years, and was well known to the residents. He was the senior member of the firm of Dana, Hyde & Co., wholesale grocers of Boston, and retired from active business in 1870. For half a century he was a prominent member of Park street church, Boston, and retained his connection after his removal to Newton. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. John N. Chapman and Mrs. F. L. Skinner. The funeral services were held at his late residence, Monday afternoon, many being present from Boston and from Newton. Rev. Dr.
Wellman officiated and a quartet, consisting of Mrs. Hubbard, Miss Cleveland and the Messrs. Bacon, furnished music. The interment was at Mt. Auburn.

Boston Flower and Fruit Mission.

The "Newton Branch," will begin its work for the season on Tuesday, May 17, 1892. The young ladies will be in attendance every Tuesday and Friday from 8 to 9 o'clock a. m. at the ladies room of the depot for donations of flowers, plants,
fruits, fresh vegetables, jellies, and eggs,
which will be given to the sick and poor
in their homes, and in the hospitals, and medical dispensaries of the neighboring city.

Never does the good this charity accomplishes make itself so evident, as to those who go into the hospitals, and homes of the poor, with their flower baskets and refreshing fruits. The eagerness with which they are watched for at the hospitals is hard to realize, unless it comes within personal observation.

"They that can wander at will, where the works of the Lord are revealed, Little guess what joy can be had, from a cowslip out of the field; Flowers to these "Spirits in prison" are all they can know of the Spring.
They freshen and sweeten the wards,
like the waft of an angel's wing."
LOUISE JACKSON SMALLWOOD, Chairman.

Concrete Walks.

Newton's concrete walks are the admiration of visitors to the city, they are in such fine order and wear so well.
They have been laid for the past 16 years by Simpson Brothers, and this is recommendation enough. The firm are now ready to make estimates for those wishing work done on private grounds.

Furnaces Cleaned.

The time to have your furnace cleaned and put in order is when the first frost out for the summer. Furnaces will last much longer when treated in this way, and the work can be done promptly, as it is a dull season with the workmen. The Walker & Pratt company have capable men at their Watertown store, to attend to this business. See adv.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE LOWER BRANCH FAVOR REMOVING WATER BOARD'S PIPE YARDS.

A meeting of the Common Council was held Monday evening, Councilmen Lunt and Downs being absent.

They concurred with the action of the Aldermen at a hearing May 16 to petition for the widening of Washington street.

The ordinance relating to highways came down from the Aldermen, amended by striking out Sec. 29 relating to the removal of snow from sidewalks.

Councilman Bothfield, who originated the provisions in Sec. 29, in answer to the wishes of his constituents in Ward Seven, moved that the council adhere to its former action, and the motion passing it was followed by a motion, that President Roffe appoint a committee of three to act in conference with a committee from the Aldermen. The motion passed.

Councilman McGee presented a petition signed by Austin R. Mitchell asking for the removal of the pipe yard of the water board on Austin street. Referred to the water board.

Councilman Green presented a remonstrance against the erection of a stable on the land now occupied by the water board on Crafts street. The land was taken when Newton was a town, for a gravel pit and then for a temporary pipe yard for the use of the water board. The latter now proposes to erect a stable on this land for the accommodation of about fifteen horses.

Within the last five years some fourteen houses have been built in this vicinity, costing $5,000 and more, each, and the foundations for a house to cost $8,500 are now being laid very near this yard. The city has been benefited something like $125,000 in increased value of taxation in this part of the Ward within the last five years, and a stable in that vicinity will be very objectionable. The remonstrance was referred to the water board.

Councilman Degen presented a petition for a fire alarm station, and a police alarm box at Chestnut Hill, also a petition for concrete sidewalks on Summer street.

Councilman Knapp presented a petition for sidewalk near the premises of Franklin Harkins, Ward Four.

Councilman Green submitted a petition for gutters and repairs on Prince street.

Councilman Staples offered an order appropriating $825 for the purchase of ten hydrants to be placed in the old mains. The order was adopted. An order presented by the same gentleman that Chapter 74, laws of legislature, 1891, relating to the preservation of the public health in cities, was adopted.

Councilman Green reported, and the ordinance relating to the fire department and to street railways, was passed to be ordained.

The council adjourned to May 16.

THE NEW ELECTRIC ROAD.

THE PROGRESS MADE, AND THE PROSPECT FOR EARLY SERVICE.

The new electric line which is sooner or later to connect the north and south sides of the city is being rapidly pushed forward and a continuance of the energy which has so far characterized its progress, may see the entire line of road completed within the next two or three months.

Work commenced one week ago Monday on Walnut street, at the junction of Homer street, and the road has been built as far as the new houses near Griffin avenue, which distinguish Newton Highlands from Cary Cross, so called.

The rails are laid, the wires completing the electric current put in, and the placing of paving stones outside of the rails, completed.

The distance completed is about two thirds of a mile, and the progression end of the line is within one third mile of the Square, and the Boston & Albany circuit Road at Newton Highlands.

Most of the distance was covered last week, showing that the gang of 50 or more men now at work can do in that time.

A conundrum is yet to be solved as to when the work of laying the sewers in Walnut street will be finished, allowing the road to complete its Walnut street line from Newtonville to the Highlands. Work on the sewer has been retarded by the big ledge encountered opposite Bullough's pond, just below Lake View avenue, where the pipes had to be laid nearly 40 feet below the street surface.

Mr. French of the sewer department says they have got through the ledge and the greatest difficulty is yet to be encountered in getting past Bullough's pond. No estimate of opinion could be obtained as to the probable time which may be required to lay the sewer through here, as it will probably prove a very serious obstacle. Once through this spot, and the sewer can be rapidly pushed up Homer street to Newton Centre.

The present intention of the Newton & Boston Street Railway Co. as learned, is to complete the line between Newtonville, Newton Highlands and Upper Falls and as soon as the sewer is completed up Homer street to continue the tracks to Newton Centre. This will test the patience of Newton Centre citizens, where a location was first granted the electric road, but the delay is unavoidable when the sewer work is taken into consideration.

The contract provides for the completion of the road within 60 days, and with a larger force of men it could easily be accomplished, but even if it is completed in that time it is doubtful if residents of the Highlands or the Falls will ride on the new electric the first of July as many are anticipating.

The location of poles is still to be granted the company, if the trolley system of transmitting power is used, and some time will necessarily be consumed in erecting these and stringing the wires.

Tent Caterpillars.

The committee from the Newton Horticultural Society and the Newton Centre Improvement Association, who were appointed to offer prizes in behalf of the above societies and to award the prizes and to do all that was necessary in the matter, feel very much pleased with the way that the young people have entered into the competition and are very much elated at the results. A citizen of Newton, who is much interested in the work of exterminating the caterpillars, has offered the committee a sum of money to be divided in the following manner, to wit: A gratuity of 50 cents to every one who handed in to the committee a collection of 1000 belts or over and less than 3000; and 75 cents to each one whose collection amounted to 3000 or over, but who did not receive a prize. The total number of belts of Tent Caterpillar eggs handed to the committee was 121,608, and estimating 200 eggs to each belt it can be easily seen that Newton is to be congratulated on the grand results. The prizes are awarded to the following:

1st prize, Percy Barton N. C., $15, 16,363 belts
2nd prize, Chas. Broad, N. C., $12, 11,220 belts

The Hen Question.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

Our city board of health is to be commended for the wise and efficient measures they have adopted with a view of prohibiting the keeping of hens in the city of Newton. The members of that board have acted with a view to protect the public health. For a long time the health and safety of our citizens have been seriously interfered with by the keeping of hens. Those persons who have been engaged in the business have evidently been unmindful of the rights of their neighbors and of the effect which the business they were engaged in was having upon the health of the community. No one, of course, will claim that this business is necessarily a nuisance by reason of the filth incident to it, but the injury to health arises from the crowing of roosters and the cackling of hens. It is the opinion of most eminent physicians that many nervous diseases arise from disturbances during the hours of sleep. It is of the utmost importance that a person after retiring should be allowed to sleep without being disturbed until he is fully rested. This he cannot do if there is a rooster in the neighborhood which is liable to awake him at an early hour in the morning, and even if the rooster does not crow the consciousness that he is liable to crow tends to make the sleeper restless. Our board of health have had the wisdom and forethought to attempt to put an end to the injury resulting to health from this cause by providing that no one shall keep hens without first obtaining a license, and in case anyone objects to the license being granted, to refuse it. This is exactly as it should be, and the result of this order must inevitably be the prohibition of the business of keeping hens in this city.

I desire to commend the board so far as they have gone in this matter, and to urge upon its members the importance of the adoption of such other regulations in the same direction as may be necessary to protect the health of our citizens. It is the duty of the board of health to protect the citizen in the enjoyment of sleep, and to do whatever may be necessary to prevent any disturbance during the hours in which people are accustomed to devote to rest. I have never been able to see any good reason why my neighbor should be allowed to keep a canary bird, which commences to sing at an early hour and not only disturbs my rest, but that of my neighbors; or why my neighbor should be allowed to keep cats which indulge in a serenade underneath my window at two o'clock in the morning; or to keep dogs which bark at the least provocation during the night time; or parrots which are liable to disturb my rest in the early hours of the day.

It would certainly be wise if our board of health would at once adopt stringent measures with a view of prohibiting the keeping of all such nuisances which in any way interfere with the peace and enjoyment which every citizen is entitled to in his own home. They ought also to go a step farther in the same direction and prevent that greatest of all nuisances, the milk cart, which comes around before light in the morning, disturbing the rest of the entire neighborhood; and again, I can see no reason why hack drivers should be allowed to transport passengers through the streets in front of people's houses after ten o'clock in the evening. These carriages rumbling through the streets are liable to awake people, and in so doing affect to a greater or less extent the public health of the community.

Again, I would like to know if a citizen ought not to have some protection against disturbances caused by running steam and street cars after ten o'clock in the evening. I have been awakened many times by the noise of the cars late at night. The corporations which own and operate these cars are doing it for private gain, and why should they be allowed to disturb my rest in order to make money for themselves.

I fully concur with the board of health that no one has a right to keep roosters and hens, either for gain or pleasure, which disturb my rest by crowing and cackling, and I cannot understand why the same rule should not apply to hackmen, milkmen, railroad and railway companies carrying on business at unreasonable hours, to the detriment of the health of the public in order that they may enrich themselves. If the public will only give to our board of health earnest and cordial support it will result in the Garden City becoming a delightful place to sleep in and do much to remedy and cure those nervous troubles which have been prevalent in our city.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE WEST NEWTON WOMEN'S EDUCATIONAL CLUB.

Our club today closes the 13th year of its existence with this session. We have met together including this session, 13 times with an average attendance of about 100.

Early in the season the question came before the directors as to the wisdom of enlarging our number. The limit of 200 had been reached and so many were seeking admittance and many had been on the waiting list so long that it seemed advisable to take the matter into consideration. It was finally put to a vote in the club, and it was decided that twenty-five be admitted to membership. At the meeting of Federated clubs in Chicago next week, this question of the desirability of limitation of clubs is to be discussed, and doubtless many opinions will be expressed and ideas gained on this important subject. We have as usual contributed the amount necessary to support the scholarship in the Tuskegee Normal school and several letters have been sent to us by the grateful recipients.

Also on Xmas, barrels of book and cloth. There was a departure this year in the direction of the Institute at Hampton, the suggestion was made by Hon. G. D. Gilman at our New Year's reception that a scholarship be raised to encourage General Armstrong in his work. We were successful and one more colored girl anxious to be educated to help her people is our beneficiary. A letter from her was read by Mrs. Hardon recently, giving us a good idea of her mental capacity, and making us realize that the small amount of a scholarship is well worth the effort made in collecting it.

The Salvation of the Colored people lies in their education into good citizenship, moral and law-abiding. It is the work that must reach out a helping hand, they need the aid of the white people, may we not hope that with an increased membership we may increase that aid? At the twelve regular meetings of our club, twenty-nine papers have been read—twenty-three by our own members. This is a great increase over other years owing partly to a greater willingness of members to be called upon and partly by the subjects being divided and short papers being expected from those appointed. The annual outing papers were read by Mrs. Chapman on "Interlaken," Miss Cushman and Mrs. Jenkens on trips near home, Mrs. Webster on a Western trip and how she formed a club, Mrs. Hastings' historical paper on "The Salem witch trials," Mrs. Phipps brought for our enjoyment admirable water color sketches of places visited, lovely bits, at Marblehead Neck and in the country. At a symposium on crime, Mrs. Ranlett, Mrs. Burroughson, Mrs. Elder, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Abby Davis took part. The subjects were "Causes of Crime," "What can we do to prevent Crime," "The relation of Schools to the child," "How to deal with Criminals" and "the prevention of crime." "Public amusements in relation to crime," Jan. 4th for the first time since our organization the subject of Suffrage for Women, was made the subject of a paper. The opinion is so largely in favor of political equality and our membership being composed of our most intelligent women our debate was rather one sided. The affirmative was taken by our President, the negative by Mrs. Martin. The other speakers were: Mrs. Hastings on a purified and restricted ballot, Mrs. Luke Davis on former and now exploded ideas, Miss Amelia Davis on the justice of the suffrage, Mrs. Charles Davis, a birth-right suffragist, a daughter of a noble father and mother opposed to injustice in any form or towards any color, gave her ideas. April 12th two poets claimed our attention, Mrs. J. S. Crockett on Margaret Judkins Preston, with selections from her poems, Mrs. Raymond one of Emily Dickinson, Miss Porter read in selections. On our last meeting April 25th, Our City was the subject that interested all. Mrs. Charles Fisher, Miss Amelia Davis, Mrs. Hastings, Miss Shepherd, Mrs. Elliot, told of its history, its government, the judiciary, its police, and its industries. This record gives an idea of the work of our own members. Six afternoons we have listened to others. Mrs. Mary Clement Leavitt, the organizer and promoter of Temperance, who has travelled in all countries under the auspices of the World's Temperance Christian Union, came before us with her story of wonderful experiences. Mrs. Forman gave a lecture on George Meredith, of much force and earnestness and read selections with great dramatic power, Ellen Betrich told us of the women of Africa, Mrs. Noble, a Russian, working in the interest of the oppressed, gave a most instructive and interesting lecture. Mr. Porter told of the Ancient Landmarks of Boston, it is, we hope, to be told by another historian, how these ancient places were visited by a party led by Mr. Porter. Mrs. Lillie Chase Wyman recounted the story of the World's Temperance Christian Union, a special study, one a civil government, taking as its text book, John Fiske's civil government in the United States. This class conducted by Miss Amelia Davis, made the departure of a different leader, at each session, no papers were prepared, but each one was expected to have a knowledge of the chapter under discussion and to give intelligent answers to the questions asked. A class in Art was also formed and has met alternate weeks.

We have had some pleasant social occasions, our first meeting was a reception, at the home of Mrs. Dr. Crockett, who hospitably invited us, and who assisted in receiving the guests with Mrs. Walton. It was a pleasant afternoon and the ample rooms were crowded with friends old and new. Our New Year's Reception, was also largely attended. The church parlors, arrayed so tastefully and artistically, reflected great credit on the committee appointed. In the illness of the lecturer expected at the promtula talk on the South was arranged, Major Ranlett giving a most interesting talk on his army experiences, followed by Capt. Howard, Mr. N. T. Allen and Hon. G. D. Gilman, who suggested raising the scholarship fund for Hampton, which was so successfully accomplished. Later in the evening coffee and cake were served. One of our pleasantest occasions was the reception given the club by Mrs. Andrew J. Bailey of Newton at her lovely home, for entertainment the guests appeared in the form of an animated library, each representing some book. They were introduced by the author's name, and much amusement was caused by the efforts to identify the volume or story, "Snow Bound," "A tale of two cities," "Twice told tales," "East Angels," "A bow of Orange ribbon" appeared for those to read who could run. Many club courtesies have been extended to our officers the Presdent and Secretaries. The "Old and New" of Malden. The Winchester Woman's Club, the Woburn Club, the Women's Club of Melrose, the Women's Club of Worcester, the Wellesley Hills Club have most kindly invited your officers as your representatives and they have accepted or sent delegates. The interchange of hospitality is in accord with the club idea of mutual helpfulness and unity of purpose. The amount of work done by our own members, is most encouraging, may we not hope to go on, until sometime when each will feel a sense of duty in regard to making our meetings bright and lively, it is only by making the effort, that growth is produced. There is much latent talent here, which needs to be aroused, and it is the sincere hope of all who wish the good of our club that we get our inspiration from within, and not from without.

NEWTON CENTRE.

Farley, pianos, 433 Wash. St., Newton.

The Epworth League observe their third anniversary at the Methodist church, next Sunday, May 15.

The festival of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will be held in Associates Hall in the autumn, and active preparations are being made for this event.

The whist clubs of Newton Centre will unite for their final meeting on Wednesday evening, the 18th inst. Mrs. J. W. Parker of Lake avenue has kindly offered her house for the occasion, and it is expected that there will be about one hundred present. The entertainment is to be in charge of a committee of ladies from each club.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Clarke of Williams College, who were married on April 5, were given a reception by the Boston Association of Smith College alumnae, at the residence of Miss Brown, 76 Marlborough street, Boston, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Clarke, who was Miss Elizabeth Lawrence of this place, has been for some time an officer and a valued member of the association.

Mr. Stephen Green and family went on Monday to Thompson, Conn., to join in the celebration of the golden wedding of his parents. The event was a double wedding as a brother of Mrs. Green's, Mr. Hiram Arnold, was married at the same time. May 2, 1842, a very unusual fact may be noted in connection with the Arnold family that in all this half century not a death has occurred among the children or in the families of the children.

Mr. Moses Richardson, of the Vendome, Boston, is passing the month of May at the Woodland Park Hotel.

Mr. Joseph Lee has been chosen a member of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Hotel Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Clark, of The Oxford, Boston, are at the Woodland Park Hotel to remain until The Atlantic Hotel at Nantasket opens, when they will as usual remove there for the season.

Fifteen of the beautiful young ladies of Lasell Seminary, accompanied by Prof. C. C. Bragdon, took possession of the office of the Boston Globe last Saturday evening, and saw how a Boston daily paper is turned out.

Lasell Seminary has just sent to Berlin a draft for 200 marks, which is part payment for its subscription for a pew in the American church in that city, of which the well known Dr. Stuckenberg is pastor. Mrs. Stuckenberg writes that they are ready to accept. They have $20,000 in hand, and almost as much more promised. It is an undenominational enterprise.

A subscription coaching party is being arranged for June 17. The number to be limited to 140. The start will be made from the Vendome in trolley-bus and drags at ten past eleven and lunch will be served at Lee's Woodland Park Hotel, where a tennis tournament will be played, followed by a musicale and dancing, the party returning at seven. NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB. The Tariff is a Tax.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff, is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respective consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms, and communications of every kind whether coming from tariff reformers, free traders or high protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

Some time ago we referred to the issuance of proclamations declaring reciprocal trade between certain countries and the United States as a policy of the present government which was somewhat misleading, as it happened that the items, announced in the proclamation of the President, as admissible free of duty into the foreign country, were those which the said country had already upon its free list. The proclamation issued on the 1st of May, announcing that in reciprocity for admission into the United States free of duty of all articles enumerated in sec. 3 of the tariff act of 1890, the government of Honduras will, by due legal enactment, admit, free of all duty, from and after May 25, 1892, a list of articles which are the products and manufacture of the United States, is less misleading in this respect than some of the previous proclamations have been. But it contains none the less, a number of statements which fill the eye and ear as if they were of value, but have no force and effect in practical trade. These proclamations would be less open to suspicion if a classification was made, and it was said that such and such articles have hitherto been admitted duty free and will continue to be so admitted, while other specified articles, which have hitherto had a duty imposed upon them, will now have the duty removed. If this were done, the proclamations would have a less imposing effect; but they would be much more intelligible because they would then be entirely truthful in implication, as well as statement.

We have no wish to underestimate the advantages of trade with our Spanish-American neighbors to the south, although, as we have pointed out on past occasions, the opportunities for trade expansion are very much more hopeful beyond our northern than beyond our southern frontier. Still, the trade with Central America is not to be despised. In 1870 our imports from that district were less than a million dollars. In 1880 they had risen to more than $3,000,000, and within the last year or two have expanded to more than $8,000,000 in value per year. This has been chiefly due to the great increase that has taken place in the domestic use in this country of those tropical fruits and vegetables which we have had the good sense to admit duty free. This has led to the establishment of lines of transportation between the several countries and to the cultivation of a desire for American products.

Our trade with Central America has in consequence increased very considerably, that is, we now sell there each year more than $5,000,000 worth of our products—a very considerable gain, seeing that in 1880 our sales were less than $2,000,000. But although the United States is the great purchaser of the products of these Central American states, the merchants of the countries included in that group still continue to supply themselves very largely in the markets of Europe, for the reason, no doubt, that supplies can be obtained there at lower prices, for certainly so far as convenience in shipment is concerned we have at the present time opportunities far in advance of any other country.

In the bulletin issued last year by the bureau of the American republics at Washington, William A. Curtis, the director, said, referring to Honduras: "Hardware, silks and cottons are the principal articles of import into Honduras." If one will go over the list of our exports to Honduras in the year 1891, he will find that the largest single item in value is wheat flour, which, however, is not made free by the reciprocity treaty. The other large items of export from this country to Honduras are medicines, cotton cloth, wearing apparel, powder and explosives, boots and shoes, sugar and molasses, and beef products. All of these still continue to be dutiable. The one considerable item of export which will go free under the new reciprocity treaty is machinery of all kinds, including sewing machines and separate or entire sets of tools. Of these things were exported to Honduras in the year 1891 articles to the value of $75,024. That is, this one item forms so large a part of the concession granted by the reciprocity treaty, that all the other commodities combined that are now placed on the free list did not amount in the value of their exports in 1891 to $50,000.

The great bulk of trade between our own country and Honduras, so far as our exports are concerned, are entirely unaffected by this treaty. It would unquestionably have been of advantage to New England if the duty could have been taken from cotton cloth and boots and shoes and manufactures of leather—two concessions that would have been about equivalent in their effects to the entire list of concessions granted in the treaty. But Honduras has to depend—as almost all of these Spanish-American countries do—upon its customs taxes in order to raise its needed revenue, and as the people are not wealthy enough to spend much money upon imported articles of luxury, the needs of the government have to be supplied by exceedingly high taxes imposed upon the necessities of life. From rice, crackers, beans, bricks, marble, tar, iron tubes, iron ore, quicksilver, hops, etc., commodities that after May 25, we can send free into Honduras, no revenue has in the past been raised that amounted to anything, for the reason that the people have not shown an eager desire for these articles—hence they are placed upon the free list. But with the exception of machinery, which the manufacturers of Pennsylvania have had the shrewdness to have favored—as they have with most tariff things with which they are concerned—the reciprocity treaty does not materially enlarge our Honduras market. It is good as far as it goes, but it is not a compact that can form the basis of any large amount of public thanksgiving.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the gripe is Kemp's Balsam, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the gripe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balsam.

That Tired Feeling

Is often the forerunner of serious illness, which may be broken up if a good tonic like Hood's Sarsaparilla is taken in season. This medicine invigorates the kidneys and liver to remove the waste from the system, purifies the blood and builds up the strength.

The War in the Watch Trade.

(From the Philadelphia Times.)
The reasons for the war which has brought bankruptcy to makers and cheap watches to the million were thus explained to a Times reporter by Simon Muhr of Henry Muhr's Sons, itself a main factor in the watch trade, with its great building on Broad street devoted to the manufacture of cases and its ramifications in the general jewelry trade.

"You know," he said, "that there are two great watch companies in the United States, the Waltham of Massachusetts, and the Elgin of Illinois. They have both had eras of great prosperity and have accumulated large capital. These successes stimulated smaller companies which have sprung up and gone down again, all over the country. As soon as these smaller concerns get into a position to increase their product and begin to make a profit the large companies reduce the prices and knock the support from under the smaller concerns. In this way the Lancaster, the Cheshire, the Aurora, the Rockford and others have been reduced, and still others, like the Springfield, for instance, badly crippled."

"Recently there has been a reduction in the price of movements alone of 20 per cent, though there had been a sweeping reduction only a year ago. The smaller companies begin the cutting of prices. When they start up, in order to call attention to their product and make a market for it, they are obliged to sell below the prices obtained by the old companies, with their established reputations. Movements of the grade that Elgin and Waltham sell for $4.50 the new companies, such as the Trenton, sell for $3.50 or perhaps $3.50. If they asked the same price they would make few sales, as the dealers naturally prefer to handle the goods whose qualities are already widely known, even though the cheaper makes are meritorious and reliable. The larger companies permit this to go on until the production amounts to something; then comes another sweeping reduction. The prices now enable us to compete with anything made in Switzerland and open the market in any part of the world."

"Case-makers, too, have had some experience in the last year. Large companies have been encroached upon by the smaller, and the former have reduced prices to such an extent that cases are now made for less money than in Switzerland or in any other country. The Waltham company, which formerly made cases for itself, has given it up entirely. The cheapness in price and the expense of manufacture have been so disastrous that some manufacturing concerns have never paid a dividend, while others have been wiped out, capital and all. Gold cases are made to-day at prices never known before, and it is only the largest factories that can make a profit. It seems to be the ambition of the makers to work for quantity rather than reputation and profit. There is probably nothing that is made that is put on the market at less profit than gold watch-cases at the present time, as stock-holders in some of the watch-case companies are probably learning to their cost."

"The consumers have all the advantage. A good silver watch can be had for $6 to $10; a gold-filled for $8 to $20, and a solid gold for $15 to $50."

"How many watches do the factories of the country turn out in a year?"

"About 35,000 a week. You can multiply that by 52 and see the size of the figures for a year."

NEW IONS, 18, BOSTON BLUES, 14

FIRST GAME OF THE SEASON WON BY THE HOME CLUB.

The Newton Base Ball Club played their opening game of the season on Walworth's field, Saturday, defeating the Boston Blues by hard hitting in the last three innings, aided by several bases on balls. A sharp wind blew across the field, making good fielding very difficult and through chills the several hundred spectators. Newton had only five of her regular players on the field, and the absence of Howe, who was to have pitched, crippled her severely. The visitors secured a strong lead in the fifth inning by sharp hitting and good base running. The score:

Annual Meeting Bowling League.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Amateur Bowling League was held in the Parker House Monday afternoon. The question of enlarging the league was the main topic of discussion, and it was finally voted unanimously to increase the membership to not more than 40 clubs. No action was taken in relation to the division of clubs into circuits, that matter being laid over until the fall meeting.

It has been decided to make no changes in the pins or alleys. The gutters will be made uniformly 2 inches deep on a level at the frame.

The following officers were elected: President, Warren M. Hill of the B. A. A.; vice-presidents, L. Bailey of the Chelsea Club, W. M. Simpson of the Arlington Boat Club, Charles E. Goulding of the Vesper Club; secretary, W. W. Davis of the Norfolk House Casino; treasurer, Charles W. Loring of the Newton Boat Club; inspector of alleys, J. R. Carr of the Chelsea Club; committee on rules, W. J. Follett of the Newton Club, G. A. Smith, Casino and W. H. Lunt of the Melrose Club.

The following applications for membership were favorably acted upon: Jeffries Winter Club, East Boston; Highland Club of Lowell, Waverly Club of Hyde Park.

"I Am So Tired"

Is a common exclamation at this season. There is a certain bracing effect in cold air which is lost when the weather grows warmer; and when Nature is renewing her youth, her admirers feel dull, sluggish and tired. This condition is owing mainly to the impure condition of the blood, and its failure to supply healthy tissue to the various organs of the body. It is remarkable how susceptible the system is to the help to be derived from those purifying, building-up qualities which the body craves. Hood's Sarsaparilla soon overcomes that tired feeling, restores the appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, imports vigorous health. Its thousands of friends as with one voice declare "It makes the Weak Strong."

"Here's a man," said the New York policeman, "who is in such a state of intoxication that he sees double." Sees double, exclaimed the man in charge at the stationhouse, "Great Scott! what a pity we couldn't have had him at work on the census." [Washington Star.]

"A wolf in sheep's clothing"—the substitute offered by the "center" as being just as good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If you don't want to be bitten, insist upon having Ayer's Sarsaparilla, even if it is a little dearer. Depend on it, it will be cheaper for you in the end.

Newly-engaged Young Lady—"Do you think it's right for a girl to let the man she's going to marry kiss her?" Confidential Married Friend (with a sigh)—"Well, I suppose she might as well. She'll have it all to do herself afterwards."—Kate Field's Washington.

A man isn't good for much without a hobby, but his hobby ought not to be himself.

Something Like the Grant Monument Fund. "Papa, I'm getting up a subscription to buy a lovely dollar doll I saw in a window yesterday." "Well, my child, is your subscription nearly up?" "Oh yes, papa, almost; all I want from you is ninety-eight cents."—Texas Sittings.

"Constant trust gives constant strength," says a world renowned philosopher, but nobody great knows that that sort of philosophy doesn't apply at all to his business.

WIDENING WASHINGTON STREET.

Great interest is felt in the hearing before the board of aldermen next Monday evening on this important question, and it is expected that a large number of those most interested in the future growth and prosperity of Newton will be present and speak in favor of the project. Next to sewerage, perhaps, it is the most important question that has come before the Council, and if Newton is ever to be anything more than a city with narrow alley ways for streets, now is the time to make a beginning. The fact that the Boston & Albany will co-operate is a powerful reason for doing something at this time, when the cost will not be seriously felt by any one.

Some say that the necessity for widening is entirely due to the street railway, but this is not an exact statement, as without the street railway Washington street would still be in spots one of the narrowest streets in the city. We need one wide and handsome street in the city, where two teams can pass without scraping the paint off the hubs of both wagons, and there is no time like the present for securing this.

Let any one drive from Newton to West Newton and observe carefully the character of the buildings between the street and the railroad, and they will see that the widening of the street will not be a very expensive undertaking, and also that it will be of great advantage to the city to have this narrow strip of land on its principal thoroughfare taken care of. If it is not taken for a street it is bound to deteriorate as the years go on, and the class of buildings upon it will grow worse instead of better. The other side of the street contains now some handsome buildings, and making the street 100 feet wide will make the north side as valuable, to say the least, as both sides are now, and probably the valuation would so increase that the city would gain instead of losing by the transaction.

All who are interested in this great improvement ought to make a special effort to be present at the hearing, and have their influences weigh in favor of it. Unless it is shown beyond a doubt that the public approve of the project, the board of aldermen will naturally shrink from the responsibility.

The Assessors have begun their annual visitation in the different Wards, and are ready to listen to the views of property owners in regard to the valuations to be put upon real estate and other property. There have been a large number of new houses built the past year and many more have been started, so that a considerable gain may be expected in this respect. The city is constantly growing in population, and with the completion of the sewerage system, a larger growth than ever may be looked for. Nevertheless the lot of the assessors is by no means an enviable one, as they have constantly to pass upon questions affecting every land owner, and the majority of people do not feel over and above liberal when it comes to paying taxes. In the older settled sections, where property has not changed hands for many years, the decision of the assessors has to be accepted as there is no other way of fixing values. Their object is of course to assess no higher than the property will sell for, but real estate values are a variable quantity. Railroad stocks and similar property give the assessors something definite to go upon, as their value is determined by almost daily sales, but one piece of real estate may bring a high price, and another directly adjoining, and just as valuable as to all appearances, may go for much less, so that the assessors are often in a quandary. Property that is leased offers something definite, but in the case of property occupied by the owner, an outsider would conclude that all the assessors could do would be to mark up the assessment as high as the owner would stand, without too loud a protest, and let it go at that. When the property comes to be sold, then any mistakes can be corrected.

The changes that have occurred in the past fifty years in the nationality of factory operatives is the subject of an article by Carroll D. Wright in one of the magazines. The English succeeded the native Americans in the textile factories, they were in turn succeeded by the Irish, who were in their turn succeeded by the French Canadians, and these latter are now giving way to Swedes, Armenians, and according to the Boston Commercial Bulletin, by the Russian Jews, a large body of these having been recently shipped to the Vassalboro woolen mills. They came from the famine districts of Russia, and their habits of living are such that they will work for less wages than people of any other nationality.

Such an addition to our population is certainly not much of a benefit to the country, and it might be interesting for some of our social economists to study into the causes of this constant downward tendency in certain industries, when the protective duties have at the same time been mounting steadily upward.

The Common Council has made another effort to secure the passage of some ordinance in regard to the cleaning of sidewalks, and a resolution was passed Monday night for a committee of conference, and President Roffe has appointed Councilman Bothfeld, Greene and Weed as the committee from that board. There is no question that Mayor Hibbard is heartily in favor of such an ordinance, and if the board of aldermen should concur with the council he will appoint the best committee available, although the material is rather scanty. Outside of Alderman Sheppard, who would favor any kind of an ordinance designed to secure the end desired, and Alderman Churchill, who thinks all parts of the city should be treated alike and made to clean their walks, the rest occupy the position of Mark Twain in regard to his wife's relatives, where they have taken any position at all. Meanwhile the people are watching the contest with uncommon interest.

SOME of the residents of Ward One, precinct one, have just discovered that there is a probability of their having to go over to Nonantum to vote. As this affects all west of Jewett street, and north of the railroad, there is very vigorous remonstrance, and there is a likelihood of more as soon as the fact is generally known. The precinct takes in the west side of Jewett street, Walnut Park, Waban Park, a great portion of Morse Field, besides the part of the ward in the Nonantum district. It is even more inconvenient for the men doing business in Boston to go over to Nonantum to vote, than it is for Nonantum voters to come to Armory Hall, and if enough effort is made probably some change can be secured that would be more acceptable to all parties. Ward One has never been one of the slow wards to send in its returns, and many think the division into two precincts was unnecessary.

GOVERNOR RUSSELL's pluck in vetoing the vicious Connecticut railroad bill cannot fail to commend him to men of all parties, and his veto message leaves no loophole of criticism. That an increase of railroad stock should be sold at auction, instead of being granted as a melon to be cut up by fortunate stockholders, is the only equitable way is abundantly proved in the message, and one wonders by what arguments this bill was passed through the house and senate. The gift of stock to the Boston & Albany corporation produced such a scandal that it was not thought that such vicious legislation would be repeated. Fortunately Governor Russell is a man of courage, and was also sharp enough to see what would be the popular side on this question.

The Cottage Hospital now has 31 patients, as large a number as it ever had, and 14 nurses and pupils. There is urgent need for more rooms for the pupils and nurses, and more accommodations would contribute to the income of the Hospital as the nurses are in great demand for outside nursing.

PRESIDENT HARRISON seems to be unusually lucky in the men who are opposing his renomination. Quay, Dudley, Clarkson, Platt, and others equally notorious, would seem to show that the President ought to be loved for the enemies he has made.

TABLEAUX PHANTASMA.

THE Y. M. C. A. ENTERTAINMENTS A GREAT SUCCESS.

The entertainments at Eliot Hall, Wednesday and Thursday evenings attracted good sized audiences, and were very successful and pleasing. It was the first production of Prof. J. W. Sherman's "Tableaux Phantasma" in New England, and so many young people took part that a good deal of interest had been aroused among their friends, and the tickets met with a ready sale.

A matinee is to be given tomorrow afternoon and the closing performance in the evening. The entertainment consists of a series of mythological, military, classic, scriptural, pathetic and humorous tableaux with curious and interesting effects, one group appearing through another, by an ingenious arrangement of lights and shade effects, reminding the spectator of ghost stories and other illusions that were once deemed mysterious and unaccountable.

Prominent ladies of the city were patronesses and had given much time and care to help make the affair a success, so that a substantial sum might be added to the Y. M. C. A. treasury, and the large patronage of the first two nights shows that their efforts have met with a brilliant success.

Wednesday evening Mr. J. Wallace Goodrich was the pianist, and Mr. Carlyle Petersilia and Miss Howard gave two brilliant duets. Miss Annie Lawton, Mrs. Hibbard and Mrs. J. M. Niles sang solos, and Mrs. Hibbard and Mrs. Burns sang a duet. The stage was prettily decorated by Mr. Mansfield.

The young ladies who appeared were all in elaborate costume with Greek drapery, and hair bound in classic style, and many of the tableaux were very beautiful, one of the most popular series being the military scenes represented by the High school boys in costume, with Miss Mae Parks as cornetist, her fine playing adding much to the interest. The mythological tableaux were a series of pretty pictures, one dissolving into another in a mysterious way, and

27% Difference

The "Royal" the Strongest and Purest Baking Powder.

Whether any other baking powder is equal to "Royal," let the official reports decide. When the different powders were purchased on the open market and examined by Prof. Chandler, of the New-York Board of Health, the result showed that Royal Baking Powder contained twenty-seven per cent. greater strength than any other brand.

When compared in money value, this difference would be as follows:

If one pound of Royal Baking Powder sells for 50 cents,

One pound of no other powder is worth over 50 cents.

If another baking powder is forced upon you by the grocer in place of the Royal, see that you are charged the correspondingly lower price.

the young ladies taking part were Misses Grace Stevenson, Kate Eggleston, Clara March, Florence Elms, Clara Sheppard, Katherine Van Voorhis, Edith Gaffield, Mabel Gaffield, Mabel Potter, Carrie Buswell, Effie Hibbard, Daisy Whittemore, Nellie Tewksbury, Alice Davis, Laura Ballou, Emily Williams, Margaret Nickerson, Sara Bassett, Helen Grant, Ethel Harwood, Isabel Cole, Ethel Springer, Elizabeth Angier, Bessie Lancaster, Alice Angier, Mabel Bailey, Alice Brackett and May Fitch. The three Graces, Sappho and Night were among those which elicited most applause.

The pathetic series with Mrs. M. P. Springer as the bereaved mother, Miss Helen Grant as the angel and Miss Mabel Bailey as the child were excellent, with realistic scenic effects.

The crowning of the victors in the military tableaux by Miss Clara Bowers as Columbia was one of the most spirited representations.

The scriptural illusions consisted mostly of white crosses surrounded by allegorical figures, Mrs. Hibbard singing "Rock of Ages" during their production. The characters were Misses Alice Buswell, Maude Keller, Clara March, Harriet Holmes, Bessie Brown, Emily Custer, Bessie Holmes, Ella Nickerson, Agnes and Emily Williams and Leslie Grant.

The comic tableaux were some of them very amusing, especially Over the Garden Wall, sung by Miss Bowers and represented by Miss Cutler and Mr. Ballou, and Three Little Maids from School, sung by Frank Day, Misses Kate Emery and Harriet Holmes. Miss Alice Buswell and Joseph Goodwin were capital as mother and son, and the lawn tennis tableaux were very good.

The allegorical tableaux closed the evening with some beautiful pictures, representing War, Goddess of Liberty, Justice, France, Bartholdi's statue, and Peace, represented by Mrs. Day, Misses Grant, Pond, Bassett, Marion Mandell and Florence Brooks.

Thursday evening there was a change of program, introducing some new features besides many of the former ones. The Angels were represented by Miss Lucy Cobb and Mr. A. R. Wood, and the Spectre Bride by Miss Ballou and Mr. Balou. The classic tableaux were new, and those who took part were Misses Florence Brooks, Beatrice Springer, Helen Cobb, Mollie Pond, Lucy Cobb, Mrs. Sydney Harwood and Mr. A. R. Wood. The best wishes of many friends attend her, and the hope that the ardent desire "far countries far to see," may be happily gratified.

—Supt. Henderson of the Newton Street Railway, who was thrown from his wagon at Newtonville Square, last Friday morning, was more seriously injured than was at first supposed and has been confined to his bed ever since, with a prospect of having to remain there for some time to come. Besides being very badly bruised, there is an injury to the back, which is exceedingly painful and which will take a long time to recover from. Parties who witnessed the accident say that it was a wonder that he was not killed outright. President Parker who was with him was not injured, he not having been thrown out as reported. The cause of the accident was the sudden starting of the horse, being frightened by escaping steam from an engine of a train waiting at the station. The horse started to run northward across the square, and it was Mr. Henderson's intention to keep on Walnut street. Had he done so, the accident would have been prevented. Two ladies however, were crossing from the westward to the east side of the square, and they would surely have been run down, so that the only alternative was to have done as Mr. Henderson did do—turn his horse sharply to the westward and the sudden lunge of the wagon was what threw him out. Mr. Henderson begs to return his thanks to all the many sympathetic friends who have remembered him with flowers, delicacies etc., during his confinement, all of which were greatly appreciated.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON THEATRE.—"Monte Cristo" will be presented by Mr. Salvini at the Boston Theatre Monday. The star will be supported by Mr. William Redmond and a strong company and the play will be given an elaborate stage setting. Mr. Salvini is a great favorite in Boston. His dash and air of romance please the young ladies, and the men take pleasure in his career. Strong acting. The success of Salvini is well deserved. No man on the American stage today has struggled harder or worked more earnestly or more conscientiously or with a higher purpose in view, and it is eminently fitting that his labors should be crowned with success. The company supporting the young star is a very capable one.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Richard Golden will follow "Miss Helyett" at the Hollis Street Theatre on Monday night, May 16, when he will celebrate the 1000th performance of the delightful play, "Old Jed Prouty of Bucksport, Me." Mr. Golden will present on that occasion some very exquisite souvenirs, which will take the form of a delicately patterned silver piece of workmanship. Besides this handsome keepsake, the audience will be treated to the first presentation of the new and elaborate scenery from the brush of that eminent scenic artist, William Schaeffer, which will faithfully depict scenes in and around Bucksport. Mr. Golden has had every particle and every piece of scenery painted and designed for the celebration of his 1000th appearance as "Old Jed Prouty."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Another new play will be brought out at the Grand Opera House next week. It is a dramatization of that popular novel, "The House on the Marsh," by Florence Warden, and has been given the same name. The dramatic work is by Mr. Mervyn Dallas, who recently was a member of the Richard Mansfield company. "The House on the Marsh" had the remarkable run of 1474 consecutive performances in the cities of England.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—"The Junior Partner," Bisson and Carre's bright comedy, which had the distinction of receiving its initial production in New York city, instead of Paris, was given its first presentation in Boston at the Columbia Theatre, on Monday evening. The play has a reputation of a 150 nights' run in the Metropolis. The piece was admirably given by Mr. Frohman's company. "The Junior Partner" was preceded by the dainty, little one-act English play by Sylvania Lawney, "Love at Home."

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE.—Robert Mantell, the heroic young actor, announced as the next attraction at the Bowdoin Square Theatre. He will present four plays during his limited engagement. The repertory will be: Monday, "Monbars"; Tuesday evening and Wednesday matinee, "The Corsican Brothers"; Wednesday evening, "The Louisiana"; Thursday, "Monbars"; Friday, "The Corsican Brothers"; Saturday matinee, "Monbars"; and Saturday night, "The Corsican Brothers." Each play will be made a special production, with magnificent scenic mountings and effects. The star's well known popularity will be the chief factor in the success of the West End theatre at every performance, especially as the engagement is for but a single week. The Boston debut of the Lillian Durell Opera Company will be made at the Bowdoin Square Theatre on Monday week in Ambrose Thomas' opera "Mignon."

THEMONT THEATRE.—Next Monday evening, May 16, marks the initial presentation in Boston of Sidney Grundy's new comedy drama, "A Fool's Paradise," Mr. E. S. Willard appearing in the principal roles supported by Mr. A. M. Palmer's able company. In the small group of British dramatists, who at present hold public attention, Sidney Grundy is a prominent figure. In "A Fool's Paradise," he has taken a theme of great interest. A woman to whom the world has not been too kind, meets and falls in love with a young Englishman of good family, but no property. Subsequently, a very rich man offers her his hand and she marries him. Then she learns that her former lover who has become a Peer, is a friend of her husband, and she manages to have him invited to their home. Her idea is to again bring him to her feet, and meanwhile, she begins to slowly poison her husband with arsenic. The strongest situation of the play is at the very close of the play, when the wife, having been detected with a glass of fatally poisoned medicine ready to give her husband, is unmasked, and accused of her villainous intent. She denies that the draught is poisoned, and to prove her innocence, drinks the drug herself, as she bids her accusers good-night, and disappears—to die. The subordinate characters work out two love stories, wherein the comedy element finds expression. The dialogue is crisp and sparkling, and the action is brisk and pointed. The piece is now being given 125th night at the Garrick Theatre, London, where its success has been most marked.

Music Teaching 100 Years Ago.

In these days of ornate church music the following document is interesting as showing what was considered a sufficient knowledge of music for an organist in Christ Church, Cambridge, in 1781.

Cambridge the 20 of August 1781. This is to certify that I the subscriber this day have contracted with Jona. Simpson Esq. to teach Mr. Phillibrown to play a number of Psalm-tunes and other tunes on the organ on the following conditions: 1st. I am to receive the sum of Nine pounds Lawful money, of which one third shall be paid now and the two thirds when I have fulfilled my engagement.

2nd I promise to teach him to play the following Psalm-tunes, viz: All Saints, Old Hundred, and Chester all of long metre, Colchester, Plymouth, 34th Psal, all of common metre, Sutton and Little Marlborough, of short metre; Lenox and St. Helens of particular metre. I promise that he shall learn to play the above said tunes correct, easy and with such a choice of fingering that it may benefit him to study other tunes without my help.

4th I also promise to teach six different airs to the said Mr. Phillibrown of which he may make use on occasion of voluntaries.

HANS GRAM

We cannot all be wise, but we can all keep from pretending that we are.

"What do those letters stand for?" asked a curious wife of her husband as she looked at his Masonic seal.

"Well, really, my love," he replied encouragingly, "I presume it is because they can't sit down." She postponed further questioning. [Texas Sittings.]

There never was a man yet who didn't feel competent to go to the theatre and criticise the performance just as it should be criticised.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL MAP.

The public school map puts the American educational system in a striking form.

Thirteen million pupils are now enrolled in the public schools of the United States—that is, there are more than three times as many pupils as the entire population of the United States in 1800. The entire population in 1890 was 12,866,000; there is consequently a larger nation of children now in our free schools than the whole nation of sixty years ago.

These 13,000,000 public school pupils are one-fifth of our present population of 65,000,000. There are something over a million more in private and parochial schools. But it is this nation of our free school youth, this nation within the nation, that will be controlling the republic fifteen years from now. These "children of the states," imbued with our characteristic American spirit, will soon be the leaders of the people who are to solve the problems of the opening years of the coming century.

One-fifth of our population in the public schools means that the American idea is that childhood and youth shall enjoy a sacred immunity from labor while the preparation for life is going on. In all our states the age when children can be employed for wages during the school term is steadily creeping upward. The time is not far off when one-fourth instead of one-fifth of its population will be enrolled in the schools. Here is the place for state legislation to make rapid and sure strokes. When the children of a poor family are hired out for wages there comes an apparent relief to the family; but child labor invariably reduces the labor of adults. Raising the school age always operates to raise the wages of the men and women to whom labor belongs. In the states not yet awake to this the children who ought to be in school are with their little hands holding down the general rate of adult wages. If fifteen were made the universal school age, with strict penalties for hiring a child under fifteen during school hours, millions of toiling children would be added to the hopeful nation of pupils now in the public schools.

Who are the instructors of this vast democracy of youth? Three hundred and fifty-two thousand teachers are employed. One-third of them are men, two-thirds are women. The men are usually well trained. The proportion of trained female teachers is increasing year by year, as the normal schools send out their classes. Nevertheless, scores of thousands of these female teachers are untrained. Forty per cent. of all the female teachers teach for only one term! Think what that means. In the rural districts of many states teaching is a "job" to which almost any girl may turn. Careful examinations of teachers are not to be expected when the school fund is so penurious that the cheapest teachers are the only applicants.

The faults of the American public school system, however, are all on the surface and can easily be remedied. State superintendents and higher educators generally are giving to all the weaknesses discernible in our system their careful attention. They are determined that the new century shall open upon an educational plant as nearly without defects as progressive energy can make it.

The public school is our most distinctive American institution. It is this same public school which, more than race, has made the difference between this republic and the republics of South America. When the world gathers here at our 400th anniversary to scrutinize our life this, our proudest institution, will be pointed out as the clearest source of American greatness and enlightenment.

It is a very fitting thing that the celebration of Columbus Day, Oct. 12, be placed in the hands of the American public school. Through the school house flag movement, and the education in patriotism aroused by it, the schools of the republic have been grasping the significance of their relation to the life of the nation. As our 13,000,000 of public school pupils see committed to them the celebration of America's greatest anniversary they will receive a new and inspiring lesson in the responsibilities of public leadership which devolves upon the educated American.

In Peace.

How shall I serve my father's land?
There are no battles to be won,
No deeds that heroes might have done,
No lives to give at her command.

Nay, none of these—but lives to live,
Within, of gentle soul and pure,
Without, of zeal and courage sure,
For all the best that life can give.

And then to crown the finished span,
To honor country and her dead,
"Twere meet enough that he be said
He lived a true American."

What this Good Deacon Died of.

(From the New York Tribune.)

Nearly four years ago Dea Eliza Pratt, of New-Providence, N. J., died of cholera morbus after eating a hearty dinner, and his widow has placed a strange memorial of the event in the parlor. Under a large glass case is an enormous silver platter. On this platter, arranged in regular order, are portions of meat, vegetables, watermelon, cucumber, ice cream, pie, etc., molded in wax. They represent as nearly as possible, the exact quantity of each of these articles that the deacon ate the evening before he died. They stand on the platter in just the order that the real articles were consumed by Mr. Pratt. Scattered through the solids are globules full of wax, colored to represent the color of the deacon imbibed during the same dinner. Each wax imitation is perfect and looks as though it were a real piece of meat or portion of fruit. The quantity represented is enormous. On top of the glass case is a little arch made of solid silver. Above the arch is a silver figure of an angel blowing a trumpet. Suspended from the center of the arch is a tiny tablet of white marble, on which, in deep black letters, are engraved the following words: "This is what the deacon died of."

Cancer Can be Cured, and Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr. 75 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Boston, Aug. 26, 1890.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years' standing, it was cut out twice, by what they call eminent surgeons, at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not delay, but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart.

It is not what its proprietors say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that makes it sell, and wins the confidence of the people.

Friend—"I know you are a proud and happy father, and I've no doubt that baby is a regular cherub, and all that; but I don't see why you need hold your head so high." Young Father—"That's to keep from dropping asleep."—New York Weekly.

Miss Mattie A. Cobb of Providence, R. I.

Undoubtedly many diseases may be prevented if the blood is kept pure and the general health-tone sustained by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. When this is done, the germs of

La Grippe, Diphtheria
Pneumonia, Scarlet and Typhoid Fevers, Malaria, etc., cannot lodge in the system. After all such prostrating diseases Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found of inestimable value in restoring desired health and vigor, and purifying the tainted blood.

For example, read the following from Miss Mattie A. Cobb of Providence, R. I., and her mother.

Miss Cobb is a young lady of 18, a and is in the front rank in her studies in the High School. Her father is a well-known police officer:

"Messrs. C. I. Hood & Co.:
"I write to tell how much good Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Sometime ago I had diphtheria and was sick for a year afterward, being

Weak, Blind and Helpless
I used one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me real strong." MATTIE A. COBB, South Chester Avenue, Providence, R. I.

"As my daughter wanted to write how well she liked Hood's Sarsaparilla, I thought I would say a few words. I think it is the Greatest Blood Purifier

ever brought before the people. Some of my friends say 'go away with your medicine.' I said the same once, but since my daughter has taken

Hood's Sarsaparilla
My opinion has changed considerably." Mrs. Geo. N. Cobb, Providence, R. I.

HOOD'S PILLS do not weaken the system like other cathartics, but actually tone up and give strength to the patient.

BY EUGENE FIELD.

All day long they come and go,
Pittypat and Tippytoe;
Footprints up and down the hall,
"Playthings scattered on the floor,
Fingermarks on the wall,
Till-tale streaks upon the door,
By these presents you shall know
Pittypat and Tippytoe."

Now they riot at their play!
And a dozen times a day,
In they troop, demanding bread,
Only buttered bread will do,
And that butter must be spread Inches thick, with sugar too!
Never have I said, "No,
Pittypat and Tippytoe!"

Sometimes there are griefs to soothe;
Sometimes ruffled brows to smooth;
For I much regret to say,
Tippytoe and Pittypat
Sometimes interrupt their play
With an interminable spat;
Fie, oh, fie to quarrel so,
Pittypat and Tippytoe!

Oh, the thousand worrying things,
Every day recurrent bring!
Hands to scrub and hair to brush,
Search for playthings gone amiss,
Many a murmuring and hiss,
Many a little bump to kiss;
Life is indeed a fearful show,
Pittypat and Tippytoe!

And when day is at an end,
There are little dolls to mend;
Little frocks are strangely torn,
Little shoes great holes reveal,
Little hose but one day worn,
Rudely yawn at toe or heel!
Who but you could work such woe,
Pittypat and Tippytoe?

But when comes this thought to me;
"Some think that the childless be Stealing to their little beds,
With a love I cannot speak,
'Till they stroke their heads,
Fondly kiss each velvet cheek,
God help those who do not know
Pittypat and Tippytoe!"

On the floor, along the hall,
Ratily traced upon the wall,
There are proofs in every kind
Of the havoc they have wrought,
And upon my heart you'd find
Just such trade marks, if you sought,
Oh, how glad I am 'tis so,
Pittypat and Tippytoe!

All women desiring to be assessed for a poll tax should have their written request for such assessment in the form required by the act of 1889, ready for delivery to the Assessors when they visit the house where they dwell. Each request should be upon a separate sheet signed by the applicant with her name in full. Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, Trustees, or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such changes; and in default of such notice will be held to pay the taxes assessed, although such state has been wholly distributed and paid over.

The Assessors shall, from such statements or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate parts of such estates that are the interests of mortgagees and mortgagors, respectively, and shall assess the same. Whenever in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such Real Estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9, of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption from taxation upon the valuation of such property. Said returns to be made to the Assessors on or before June first.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors on or before the fifteenth day of June, and that the Personal Property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the Board, notwithstanding any verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.—Pub. AUSTRALIAN FORESTS.

The Vandals of New Zealand Are Cutting Down the Giant Trees.

The kauri pine is undisputed sovereign of the Australasian forest. No other tree can approach it in grandeur of proportion or in impressiveness when, as one of a clan, it holds its own stretches of country hundreds of miles in extent.
Perhaps the sight which the kauri grove presents to the eye is unequaled in the whole realm of nature. As the traveler gazes around him in the recesses of the forest he is impressed even against his will. To walk between those mighty pillars, smooth and dark as ebony, uniform in age and size, and buried in a perennial twilight and silence that the wildest storm only disturbs by the merest ripple of sound, awakens a feeling of awe.

Five miles upon miles they stretch into distance, in a majestic procession that follows every irregularity of the land, like some colossal temple dedicated to night or melancholy, the somber aisles full of an awful monotony and a solemn stillness. Like the Egyptian Sphinx, they ignore the lapse of time, preserving the same majestic calm and unvarying expression before the cataclysms which have altered the whole aspects of the globe, and before the social upheavals which have swept away civilizations as if they had never been.

The youth of the oldest kauri groves is shrouded in the mists of the past. But that they are very ancient is beyond doubt. They were mere saplings when the Pharaohs adorned the land of Egypt with imperishable monuments of their power, and were still slight and graceful when Solomon filled the east with the fame of his glory; they stood in all the pride of maturity when Hannibal crossed the Alps, and Rome entered on her victorious career. They have seen the splendid dawn of all the great empires of the world, and seen them set in gloom, when the canker of decay had sapped their very foundations.

But the kauri has now fallen upon evil days; its closing years are full of danger. It has survived to see the forms of life, long dead in the great masses of land, fade away before the vigorous fauna and flora of another order of things.
At no distant date it also, like the natives, the birds, the grasses, will have passed into the measureless oblivion from whence it came. In the presence of this venerable giant pine of Maori-land, the grandest representative of a primitive age, the colonial, a creature of yesterday, feels like a pigmy as he gazes on the solemn files on every side. As though ashamed of his own littleness
and painful weakness, he is possessed
only with the passion of destruction.

The weirdness inseparable from the very nature of a kauri forest is intensified by the total absence of animal life.
The contented droning of insects, the hum of the bee, the glad singing of birds, so distinctive of the mixed bush,
are never heard beneath the umbrageous canopy which excludes the radiant southern sun. The kauri reigns supreme in its own domain. Nor is there the enchanting diversity of ordinary bush—
the palms and the tree ferns, the shrubs and the prodigious wealth of beautiful parasites whose bewildering variety is unrivaled even in the torrid zone.

With the exception of a living carpet of delicate maidenhair, which attains a height of from five to six feet, and of ropes of creeper ferns which swing from tree to tree like fairies in the castle of a giant, the forest is altogether bare of undergrowth. In the woods of recent growth, however, vegetation is more luxuriant. The long tendrils of the climatis and rata connect trunk with trunk in garlands of white and scarlet bloom, and at their base flourishes an infinite variety of ferns, while here and there a graceful tree fern rears its silvery lined crown.

It is a curious sight to English eyes to see a group of young kauris standing dark, tall and erect against the pale blue and gold of the sky and the lighter greens of the background of the forest.
Like all the species, the dome is out of all proportion to the height. But their doom has been spoken. The ax of the lumberman and the whirr of the sawmill resound in the land and the earth
quivers with the shock of falling pa-triarachs. With the recklessness of the spendthrift the New Zealanders is spending his heritage, and before another fifty years have passed away this noble tree will be as extinct as the moa.—

The Care of Cut Flowers.

When you receive flowers from a florist and do not wish to use them at once,
if they appear fresh and their petals
"brittle," leave them in the box and put in a cool place, as in the ice chest, a cool spot in the cellar or out of doors. Do not make the mistake, however, of putting them out of doors unprotected from the wind and frost; either will shorten their lives. Should they get touched by frost immerse them in cold water for several minutes. If they have not been too severely affected they will revive under this treatment. Sometimes perfectly fresh flowers will droop their heads when placed in a warm room.
This is often caused by the stems being too long. By cutting them off a little and treating as suggested above they will soon revive.—H. H. Battles in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Cowardly Politician.

When a politician wants to carry favor with his constituents he humbly refers to himself as "a servant of the people," which he most decidedly is; so abject a slave in fact as to be an unmitigated coward. He dare not say what he thinks,
and votes one way when his conscience
bids him vote another.—Kate Field's Washington.

Manganin.

Manganin, which is an alloy of copper,
nickel and manganese, has remarkable electrical properties. Its resistance hardly varies at all even through a range of temperature varying from 15 degs. to 97 degs. centigrade. It thus becomes a superior metal for the construction of artificial resistances.—New York Times.

231 Cubic Inches is the United States Standard Gallon.

You don't get it in all gallon cans of paint. We think you ought to get full measure for your money. We know that it pays us to put 231 cubic inches of paint into every gallon we sell. It also pays us to use pure linseed oil, the best we can buy, and to use turpentine and a turpentine drier. In other words, to manufacture a paint that we can sell to a man a second time. He may not know what a good paint ought to contain, but he does know that when he sees Chilton on a can of paint, he can say to his neighbor "there is the paint you want,"
give him reasons for his choice, and prove his reasons by his experience.

A fool and his money soon part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of Scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him.—Editor Journal and Courier.

The man who called sarsaparilla a fraud, had good reason; for he got hold of a worthless mixture at "reduced rates." He changed his opinion, however, when he began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It pays to be careful when buying medicines.

"I know the world is growing better, dear,"
I said, responsive to my wife's assertion that sinners were increasing every year.
And he said, "I see all efforts at conversion."

"I see the old clothes man I yonder said
With proof that men are giving up bad habits."

The Best Remedy
In this world, says J. H. H. of Syracuse, N. Y., is Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, because my son, who was partially paralyzed three years ago and attacked by fits, has not had any symptoms of them since he took one bottle of the remedy. I most heartily thank for it.

Nervous Prostration, Sleeplessness, and Weakness.
West BROOKTON, Quebec, Oct. 1, '90.
The "Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic" I ordered was for a young lady of my household, who was almost useless to herself and others, owing to nervous prostration, sleeplessness, weakness, etc., etc. To-day she is quite a change. The young person is much better, stronger, and less nervous. She will continue to use your medicine. I think it is very good.

—The choir of St. Paul's church is preparing for participation in the festival service of the Massachusetts Choir Guild to be held next Tuesday in Emmanuel church, Boston. Several rehearsals have been held in Boston and it is said the music promises to be uncommonly well rendered.

—At the Strawberry Festival previously announced to take place at the Congregational chapel on the 25th inst., one of the attractions will be the opera, "The Professor at Home," with Mr. Ayer as the Professor, Miss Manson the Prima Donna, Miss Logan, the servant Annie, and Mr. Clark, the Tax Collector, also songs by Mr. Pennell and Mr. W. E. Ryder.

—The pupils of Miss Mary L. Stone, for eight years organist at the Congregational church here, gave a musicale at the residence of Mr. A. F. Hayward on Monday evening. The house was decorated with plants and flowers and presented a bright and attractive appearance. That Miss Stone's pupils would give evidence of proficiency in their work, was only what was expected by those who know her method of instruction, nor were they disappointed on this occasion. The conscientious training in technique which has formerly characterized the playing of her pupils, was particularly noticeable in this recital. A taste for the best in music had been cultivated was evident from the choice selections which the pupils rendered. Where all performed their parts so creditably, it seems invidious to mention names without allusion to every pupil. However, it goes without saying, that those who frequent Miss Stone's musicales have learned to anticipate with pleasure Robbie Dresser's organ and diaphanous touch, something really unusual, and also Miss Helen Hardwick's discriminating and sympathetic rendering of classics in music. Miss Marion More played with much good taste and expression, as also before Mrs. Ethel Tucker. Hayward and Mr. A. E. Pennell assisted Miss Stone's pupils at the recital. Mrs. Hayward's singing was charming, as usual, and her voice appeared to special advantage in the duet with Mr. Pennell. This was the occasion of Mr. Pennell's first appearance here as a musician. His singing was received with enthusiasm. The recital of this place are to be congratulated on the coming among them of such an accomplished tenor.

St. Mary's. The interment was in Calvary cemetery, Waltham.

—The last meeting for the season of the Ladies Sewing circle connected with the Methodist church will occur next Wednesday afternoon. In the evening supper will be served and a short entertainment given for the enjoyment of the guests.

—Nothing would be more of an accommodation to the thousands of summer visitors to Echo Bridge than the proposed stairway from Ellis street to the top of the structure. The electric cars which will soon be running here will emphasize such a demand.

—In another column is an article in reference to the new electric road. Everyone here is possessed of an idea that the cars will be in operation July first but the probability of such a piece of good fortune, not only to the citizens whom it will benefit but also to the road, seems very slight, with the sewer yet uncompleted.

—Mr. George H. Osborne was very pleasantly surprised at his home on High street, Tuesday evening by about twenty of his associates in Echo Bridge Council, R. A. with their friends. Mr. Osborne was presented with a handsome roll top desk of quartered oak and the evening passed pleasantly in the usual social way.

—The Independent Order of Good Templars of this village is doing some good work. Candidates are being initiated almost every Thursday evening. Wilson; secretary, W. R. Morton; guide, J. Hopkinson. After installation ice cream and cake were served. —It is rumored here that Mr. A. C. Wiswall, proprietor of the A. C. Wiswall mills, is soon to remove to New Hampshire, where he will be engaged in the same industry.

—The death of George William Mills of this village occurred last Sunday night. Deceased had been from a very youthful age, entirely helpless, even the organs of speech were affected from a very severe sickness. The funeral took place from St. Mary's church, Wednesday afternoon, and burial at the church yard. The entire sympathy of the community is felt for a surviving widow, from whose death has unexpectedly taken away a husband, daughter and son in a comparatively short time.

—Mrs. Sallie Case, residing on Rockland street, Wellesley Hills, received her friends and neighbors informally last Saturday afternoon upon the occasion of her 99th birthday. The aged lady, a only sister of Mr. John Sawyer, a prominent resident of Wellesley. She is a woman of marked literary tastes, bright and vivacious, and in the enjoyment of excellent health. Her well rounded life has been devoid of special incidents, much of her time having been given to home duties. She has a very retentive memory, and takes great pleasure in recalling events and characters of persons of long ago. It is her intention to live to celebrate her centennial anniversary, and she looks forward to that occasion with many pleasurable anticipations.

For Memorial Day.

The Rev. Father Callanan of St. John's church, Newton Lower Falls, has the honor to have given the first invitation to a Grand Army Post to attend memorial services at a Catholic church in full uniform as an organization such an invitation has been extended by him to Chas. Ward Post 62 of Newton for May 29, 1892 and accepted.

A most talented and distinguished speaker will entertain Chas. Ward Post and its associate members and friends, May 29, 1892 at 7 p. m. in the Congregational church West Newton. A cordial invitation to the public is extended.

The associate members of Chas. Ward Post will join the mounted escort of Capt. A. M. Ferris, Chief Marshal for Memorial Day. A fine display is anticipated.

On the coming memorial day the citizens of our city are again given an opportunity to show their appreciation of the honored dead; and their loyalty to the living soldiers of '61 and '65. As Lincoln said at Gettysburg "We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground, the brave men living and dead who struggled here have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. It is for us the living rather to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that we highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain." Your cooperation and your charity will be needed more in the future than in the past. They need your presence on this day with sympathy and with liberal hands to furnish flowers that tender hearts may decorate the last resting place of these noble dead. Newton Citizens hold front rank in every good work, may they outdo themselves on this our Soldiers' day.

A NEWTON CITIZEN NAMED.

MR. J. R. LEESON TO STAND FOR 3D DISTRICT COUNCILLOR HONORS.
The Republicans of Newton will ask the Republicans of the 3d councillor district to honor them by nominating a Newton citizen for the executive council,
says the Boston Herald, to succeed Hon.
Ephraim Stearns, who declines re-election.
This is said to be the first time Newton has presented a candidate for the Republican nomination, and his claims will doubtless receive due consideration. At the urgent solicitation of friends, Mr. J.
R. Leeson has consented to allow the use of his name.
Mr. Leeson is one of Newton's most respected citizens, and no man is better known or more highly respected among the business men of Boston. He was one of the organizers of the Home Market Club, and has contributed much to the success of that organization.
As one of the most active and efficient members of the Boston Merchants' Association, he has done good service toward improving the postal facilities of Boston and the administrative tariff bill.
As president of the Newton Republican committee and member of the finance committee of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, he has done his share for the success of his party, while as president, and one of the largest contributors to the Newton Cottage Hospital, he has displayed a large-minded and liberal philanthropy.
He has never before been willing to accept a political nomination, and his friends feel that his election will be an honor to the district and the council.

Young Men's Christian Association of Newton is pleased to acknowledge the valuable assistance by the ladies of Newton, and especially the co-operation of Mrs. A. S. March, Mrs. E. M. Springer and the board of patronesses, as well as a large corp of participants in Tableau Phanta-smas who rendered the entertainments artistically, socially and financially, a pronounced success.

We do not remember the time when anything has appeared upon the Eliot Hall platform to compare in artistic beauty with Tableau Phantasmas, nor has any entertainment of late years been offered so satisfying to the public taste, and so strongly appealing to the social appetite as the companies in Eliot Hall, last week, where entertainment and entertainment were gathered as one large social party, all feeling as though each deserved the other's thanks for the evening's pleasures.
We are glad to announce a pecuniary success which has added between three and four hundred dollars to the treasury of the association, a ready use for which will be found in extending the advantages of the association among Newton's young men.
A desirable lot of land has been leased in the rear of the Association room, and work has already begun on it to put it into shape for outdoor sports. It will prove an attraction and a benefit. Per order of the directors.

ATHLETIC CLARK, Clerk.

THE ALMSHOUSE.

STORIES OF ABUSE OF ITS INMATES DE-NIED.
There has been a great deal of talk the past few days relative to the condition and management of the almshouse.
It is alleged that the inmates have been improperly treated by the warden and the matron, and that they have not been provided with sufficient food. Some of the inmates claimed that they had been struck and a painter employed at the institution, just now undergoing repairs, said that he saw Mr. Whitton, the warden, knock a man down.
Mr. H. C. Daniels, chairman of the almshouse committee, says that the stories of alleged cruelty and starvation were absolutely groundless. Much of the talk he says was that of the painters employed on the job who were angered because of the discharge of one of their number. The inmates had had unusual privilege under the former management and with the appointment of the present warden and matron a new order of things was instituted in the interest of the city and in accordance with business principles. This occasioned much dissatisfaction, and gave rise to complaints from the inmates.
Mayor Hibbard believes that the stories
have been circulated by parties offended with the introduction of business methods at the almshouse.
The city authorities will make a thorough investigation of the case.

Macon Railways Bought by G. W. Morse.

The contest over the street railway system of Macon, Georgia, has resulted in favor of the Boston claimants. A judicial sale has just taken place and George W.
Morse of Newton purchased for the Boston Syndicate. Macon is the third city in Georgia in population and growing rapidly.
It is well adapted to street railways.
All these roads will now be consolidated and re-equipped with the latest and best type of electric apparatus.

Citizens of Newton!

Attend the hearing at City Hall, Monday evening, May 23, on the raising of the B. & A. Railroad through our city. See to it that every street, now ending at the south side of the tracks shall be extended to Washington street under a suitable arch or bridge. Some are so provided for in the R. R. Company's plans, but not all. Putnam street in Ward 3 must go through.
Look to your wards. REX.

the model summer resting place on the ton people who have visited it in former agement of Miss M. Daniel, the coming that the table will be beyond criticism.

—James Shepherd, a painter, 30 years old, and unmarried, residing on No. 356
Washington street, was found dead in bed at 7:15 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been suffering from rheumatism all winter, but said he did not wish a doctor. Medical Examiner Mead, who was called, decided that death was probably caused by rheumatism about the heart.

—The "Tableaux Phantasmas" are now to be given in Waltham, for the benefit of some of the local lodges. The Saturday afternoon and evening performances at Eliot Hall last week, were attended by very large audiences and were very successful. The hard work done by the committee in charge has resulted in a handsome sum for the Y. M. C. A., besides giving the people of Newton some very pleasant entertainments.

—The wooden building on Centre street,
known as Howes' block, has been sold,
through the agency of W. Savage to Isaac S.
Parsons, at a price which is not stated, but said to be a good one. The property consists of the three-story wooden building containing stores and offices, and about $500 feet of land. The four tracking of the railroad some years ago greatly injured the property, and the elevating of the tracks will probably necessitate its wiping out.

—The following music will be used in the service at Eliot church next Sunday evening, May 22. The choir will be assisted by Mr. Ivan Morawski, basso:—
Organ Prelude. Wagner
Agnethem, "While the earth remaineth." Louis
Bass Solo, "Lord God of Abraham." Mendelssohn
Anthem, "Watchman, what of the night?" Sullivan
Hymn, "Now the day is sinking." Keschel
Festival Te Deum. E. flat. Buck
Organ Postlude. Fugue in A minor. Bach

—The Epworth League held their monthly business meeting at the Methodist church Wednesday evening. An entertainment followed, consisting of cornet solo by Miss Parks, a song by Miss Lawrence and a very amusing and instructive paper by Mrs. Stephenson on the work of the league the past year. A supper followed, after which an address of welcome
by the president of the league was given by Rev. Dillon Bronson, and his sister, to which Rev. Mr. Bronson replied.

—Mr. Oscar Pike, for a number of years baggage master on the South Framingham accommodation train making his final return trip to Boston through this city toward the midnight hour or to be exact, according to schedule time, due here at 11:17
p. m., was promoted to the position
of conductor and makes his initial trip
Sunday evening. He was a former resident and for the past few years has acted as press messenger, handling the newsletters of the Newton correspondents of Boston papers. He is a popular railroad man and his numerous friends here extend congratulations and good wishes.

—The Newton Street Railway is being congratulated on all sides at being the first in this section to put into service a veritable "Parlor Car," this being a fitting name for it as compared with others ordinarily used. That the "Combination" is a decided success is attested by the crowds that patronize it daily and no two happier men can be found than Conductors Mc-Donald and Kilroy, who have charge of the car on the day and evening trips. It is a car just adapted to ladies use and the way they through it and the smile of satisfaction that is seen upon their faces as they sit down upon the luxurious cushioned seats, is ample evidence of appreciation. This car alone has carried on a single day over 800 passengers, which will increase rather than diminish as the season advances and the riding becomes heavier. In order that there may be nothing to mar the pleasure of its patrons, Superintendent Henderson has issued orders forbidding smoking or spitting upon the floor of this car and requiring conductors to use every effort to keep the rear platform for passengers getting on or off, and to allow no intoxicated or disorderly persons to ride.

For Memorial Day.

There will be the usual procession on Memorial Day, Col. L. F. Kingsbury being
Chief of Staff and Capt. H. W. Downs adjutant general, with a long line of aids.
The column will form on Walnut street,
as usual, and the Crescent band of Waltham will furnish music. The Clafin Guards, Sons of Veterans and High School battalion will do escort duty. The route will be up Walnut street to the Cemetery where the memorial services will be held, after which the procession will reform and march by way of Beacon, Center and Vernon streets, to Farlow Park, when dress parade will close the exercises.

The Post will attend memorial services, Sunday, May 29th, at St. John's church, Newton Lower Falls, at 3 p. m., by the invitation of the pastor, Rev. P.
A. Callanan. The comrades will assemble at the Engine house at Lower Falls,
at 2.30.
Sunday evening the Post will attend
a memorial service at 7 o'clock, in the 2nd Congregational church, West Newton.

Commencement Week.

Prof. J. M. English presided at the anniversary exercises of the Backus Historical Society in Chapel Hall, Tremont Temple, on Monday, at 10.15 a. m. Dr. F. W. Bateman was elected secretary pro tem. A paper on "Holland and the Early Baptists and Congregationalists" was read by Rev. W. W. Everts of Haverhill, who asserted that the Congregationalists received their polity from the Dutch Ana-Baptists, but they did not get religious liberty, as they came to America and persecuted the Baptists. He showed how religious liberty was established in Holland through the Ana-Baptists, who presented William the Silent with a large sum of money in 1572 for the purposes of carrying on the war against Spain. William asked what he might do in return for such a gift, and his donors requested that if Holland gained her independence he should proclaim religious liberty. This he did, and it was the first step toward religious liberty in the world; therefore the speaker regarded the terms Ana-Baptist and reformation as synonymous. While religious liberty was enjoyed for more than a decade of years in Leyden, before they sailed for America, the colonists did not practice it upon arrival here.

And this paper, written by Rev. C. M. Bowers of Clinton, D. D., and read by the president, revealed some interesting characteristics of "Early Boston Baptist Preachers," among whom were Rev. Drs. Sharp, Malcolm, Ide Stowe, Neale and Hague. The members have been trying to collect money for the erection of a monument to Rev. Isaac Backus of Middleboro, a revolutionary preacher who labored for free thought, and so far have got but $250.

Rev. Philip S. Moxom started a subscription list for the needed $250 more, and the other pastors pledged their names for certain sums.

At 2.30 o'clock the examination of the junior class in essays on old testament subjects was conducted at the institution by Prof. O. S. Stearns, followed at 3.30 by the examination of the elective class in the Gospel of John by Prof. E. D. Burton, and at 7 the examination of the elective class in rapid reading of Hebrew by Prof. Brown.

On Tuesday examinations were held all day, and on Wednesday at 1.30 the class meeting took place.

The address to the alumni was delivered by Prof. George Bullen, D. D., at 4 p. m., whose topic was "Preaching, a Distinctive Characteristic of Christianity." He compared Buddhism and Mohammedanism, with the Christian religion, stating that while in the former the preaching element is lacking, it is a marked characteristic of the latter.

The Christian belief, he said, is founded upon truth, which can bear the light of publicity, and for that reason the preacher occupies so important a position in the Christian church.

Remarks were also made by Rev. C. M. Bowers, D. D., of Clinton, Rev. N. E. Wood of Brookline and others.

A meeting of the trustees of the institution was held prior to the exercises in the church, and organization perfected as follows: E. C. Fitz, president; F. A. Smith, treasurer; Rev. B. A. Greene, secretary.

Rev. Mr. Pidgeon of Philadelphia, who had been called to the chair of New Testament Greek, having declined, President Hovey will take his place for the present. Prof. O. S. Stearns, who has resigned from the chair of Old Testament Hebrew, was elected professor emeritus, and will continue his duties until his successor is chosen.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—A unique entertainment comes to the Hollis Street Theatre next week with the usual matinee in the shape of the eminent prestidigitateur, Herrmann, aided by Mme. Herrmann. The principal part of Herrmann's entertainment consists of rare and all startling phenomena, to which his own original and collective brain has given existence. His work seemingly sets at naught all natural laws. It is replete with mysticism, and those occult deeds ordinarily ascribed to the redoubtable "Prince of Darkness." Yet everything is simply done, and Herrmann frankly disclaims any supernatural agencies. The remainder of the combination is composed of a lot of unexceptionally clever people. "Strobelika," his latest illusion, is said to be really a wonderful trick. "The Slave Girl's Dream," a poetic and allegorical illusion, "The New Black Art" and other mystic novelties comprise next week's program.

BOWDOIN THEATRE—The first appearance of the Lillian Durell Opera Company at the elegant new Bowdoin Square Theatre on Monday evening, May 23, is taking on important proportions and promises to assume the character of an ovation. The sale of seats has already indicated that there is a wide-spread interest in this movement to put forward a competent company of Boston singers for the patronage of local music lovers, and the choice of Lillian Durell as the prima donna has undoubtedly had much to do with attracting attention to Manager Charles A. Atkinson's enterprise. The brilliant romantic opera of "Mignon," by Ambrose Thomas, has been selected for the first appearance of the Lillian Durell company.

The principal singers will have the support of a chorus of forty carefully selected singers from the church choirs of Boston and vicinity, with an orchestra of thirty men, all under the experienced operatic conductor, S. F. Fanciulli of New York. The opera will be put upon the stage with every attention to scenic and costume effects. "Mignon" will hold the stage at the Bowdoin Square Theatre all the week, beginning the 23rd inst., with the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—"The Junior Partner" continues on its triumphal course and the audiences at the pretty Columbia are limited, only by the capacity of that house. It is given by almost identically the same company as in New York. The one addition to the Boston cast is jolly, winsome May Irvin who recently joined the Frohman force. The play is intensely amusing. Every character seems to fit like a glove, and the entire company into its rendition with an interest and vim, that cannot fail of success. "The Junior Partner" is now preceded by a new curtain raiser, a dainty comedy bit called "Twenty Minutes Under an Umbrella." Both pieces will be seen until further notice.

TREMONT THEATRE—Rehearsals have begun at the Tremont Theatre of "Puritanism" or the Earl and the Maid of Salem," the comic opera which Pauline Hall will appear in at that house during the summer. A chorus of fifty pretty girls has been selected, and a company of only the best material will be given the various roles. Rather a strange coincidence figures in this connection. During Miss Hall's earlier experiences on the Opera Stage, Mr. C. M. S. McLellan the author of "Puritanism," was dramatis editor on a prominent paper in New York, and through his very severe, though able criticisms an acquaintance was formed which has resulted in Miss Hall commissioning Mr. McLellan to write an entirely new opera for her. The Tremont will give their summer attraction every opportunity for great success.

THE STREET WIDENING.

The hearing on the proposed widening of Washington street was remarkable for the unanimity of sentiment among the large number present. Men were present from all sections of the city, and not a voice was raised against the project, while from the applause that greeted every speaker, the whole assembly showed their approval.

The only question raised was in regard to the payment of the cost, ex-Gov.
Clafin thinking that it should be assessed upon the whole city and others
thinking that the north side property ought to be assessed for the whole amount. Probably a compromise between the two would be the most satisfactory, but the main thing now is to have the street widened, and let all other questions wait.

As one of the speakers said Newton has not a single decent street. All are narrow and give a "cheap and nasty"
air to the city, which ought not to be the case with a city possessing the wealth and the many natural attractions of Newton, with its numerous handsome estates. Over in Waltham they have a beautiful main street, which is a monument to the forethought and liberality of those who laid out that city. They provided for the future, and the result is one of the handsomest thoroughfares in the vicinity of Boston. Brookline has already perceived the importance of having handsome streets, and the result of such a liberal policy is seen in the attractions it possesses for the many men of wealth and prominence who are making it their home.

It is time that Newton awoke to the importance of this question, unless it desires to be left far behind in the race.
The city is bound to grow and the character and extent of its growth depends largely upon the City Government taking broad and liberal views of the street widening questions that are to come before it from this time on. There seems to be no doubt now that Washington street will be made a hundred feet wide, and the sooner the work is done
the better it will be for the city.

WATERTOWN took very liberal action on the sewer assessment question, this week, and voted to assess the whole cost of the sewers upon the town, a certain sum to be included in the general tax levy every year. The owners of property have to pay for the cost of making connections and a fee for entering. This is a very satisfactory settlement of a question that has agitated many towns and cities and as the whole town is benefitted
by the sewerage system, the Watertown people decided that it was only fair to have the town pay for it. Such a settlement of the question would not be a bad
one for Newton.

NEW SEWER LAW.

The following act has been passed by the legislature and signed by the governor:—

SECTION 1. The city council of any city, except Boston, on a town in which common sewers are laid under the provisions of sections one, two and three of chapter fifty of the Public Statutes, or a system of sewerage is adopted under the provisions of section seven, of said chapter, may by vote establish just and equitable annual charges of rents for the use of such sewers to be paid by every person who enters his particular sewer into the common sewer and may change the same from time to time. Such charges shall constitute a lien upon the real estate using such common sewer, to be collected in the same manner as taxes upon real estate, or in an action of contract in the name of such city or town.
Sums of money so received may be applied to the payment of the cost of maintenance and repairs of such sewers or of any debt contracted for sewer purposes.

SECTION 2. Any city or town which is entitled to assess upon real estate the whole or a part of the cost of laying,
making, maintaining or repairing common sewers, under section four, seven or eight, of chapter fifty of the Public Statutes, or under any special act, or under section one of this act, may, in cities
by vote of the city council and in towns
by vote of the legal voters thereof, at a meeting duly called, determine that such assessments shall be made by two or more of the methods provided in said sections or special acts, and may determine what part of the expense or estimated average cost shall be paid by each of the said methods.

SECTION 3. In any city or town in which common sewers have been laid and a part of the expense thereof has been assessed upon the real estate benefited thereby, the mayor and aldermen or selectmen, or the board whose duty it is to make such assessments, may extend the time of payment of assessments upon estates not built upon, when requested by the owner, until built upon, or for a fixed time provided that interest shall be paid not less than said city or town pays upon any loan for sewer purposes before the time it was made; and in such case

the assessment shall be paid within three months after such estate is built upon or after the expiration of such fixed time.
If any assessment is invalid by reason of error or otherwise, the same may be abated or re-assessed. The owners of estates or parts of estates not liable to assessment or not in fact assessed, may use the common sewers for the disposal of their sewage from said estates or parts of estates, on paying such reasonable sum as the mayor and aldermen, selectmen or board having control of the sewers shall determine, but not otherwise.

SECTION 4. The mayor and aldermen of any city, and the selectmen of any town,
in which common sewers have been laid,
may lay, make and maintain particular sewers from common sewers to the street line and particular sewers so laid shall be the property of the city or town. The owner of any estate benefited by such particular sewer shall pay to the city or town the cost thereof, and for the permanent privilege of using the same, such reasonable sum as the mayor and alderman or selectmen may determine; and said sum may be fixed at the estimated average cost of all such particular sewers within the territory for which a system of sewers has been built or adopted. Said mayor or aldermen or selectmen may, if requested by the owner of any estate so to do, construct a particular sewer from the street line to any house or building and charge said owner the actual cost thereof and may make rules and regulations for the construction and use of all particular sewers, and may impose penalties not exceeding twenty dollars for their violation.

SECTION 5. Where estates abut upon more than one street or way, assessments for sewers based wholly or in part upon frontage shall be assessed upon the frontage upon one such street or way and upon so much of such other street or streets as is not exempted by the board whose duty it is to make the assessments; and such board may exempt from assessment so much of the frontage on such other street or streets as they deem just and equitable.

SECTION 6. Section eight of chapter twenty-nine of the Public Statutes is hereby amended by striking out in the fourth line of said section, the word "twenty";
and inserting in place thereof the word
"thirty" so that the clause as amended shall read as follows: "Debits incurred in constructing sewers within not exceeding thirty years."

SECTION 7. Any city which has issued bonds or other evidences of indebtedness for debts incurred in the construction of a system of sewers whether under the general law or under any special act, may issue bonds, notes, scrip or other evidences of indebtedness for the purpose of replacing or refunding such bonds at any time before they become due, provided such bonds shall not be made payable at a time more than thirty years from date of issue of the bonds so replaced or refunded; and provided further that this act shall not be construed to authorize any city or town to create a larger total debt for sewer purposes than such city or town is otherwise authorized by law to create.

SECTION 8. Any city except Boston, and any town which has laid out or shall lay out common sewers, but has not prior to the passage of this act actually made and collected assessments upon real estate benefited thereby, may, if the city council of such city or the legal voters of such town so vote, adopt any or all of the preceding provisions of this act, and of chapter fifty of the Public Statutes, and thing in any special act to the contrary notwithstanding.

SECTION 9. Any city except Boston, and any town which adopts or has heretofore adopted a system of sewerage and which has not actually laid assessments for the cost of such system, shall pay a part of the expense of laying, maintaining and repairing the common sewers, to be determined by the city council of cities and the selectmen of towns, provided that the part to be paid by the city or town shall in no case be less than one quarter of the total cost of such system. And the amount required to be raised annually
by taxation as a sinking fund under chapter twenty-nine of the Public Statutes or in amendment thereof, for the purpose of extinguishing debts incurred for the construction of such system, shall be estimated upon only so much of such debts as is so determined to be paid by the city or town, provided that if, after expiration of two years from the date of incurring such debts, the amounts received annually from assessments are not sufficient to create a sinking fund that will extinguish at maturity so much of such debts as is so determined to be paid by assessments, then such city or town shall raise annually by taxation a further sum sufficient to meet such deficiency in the preceding year.

SECTION 10. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

ROYAL

IS THE

Best Baking Powder

The Official Government Reports:

The United States Government, after elaborate tests, reports the ROYAL BAKING POWDER to be of greater leavening strength than any other. (Bulletin 13, Ag. Dep., p. 599.)

The Canadian Official Tests, recently made, show
the ROYAL BAKING POWDER highest of all in leavening strength. (Bulletin 10, p. 16, Inland Rev. Dep.)

In practical use, therefore, the ROYAL BAKING POWDER goes further, makes purer and more perfect food, than any other.

Government Chemists Certify:

"The Royal Baking Powder is composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances."

"EDWARD G. LOVE, Ph. D."

"The Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public."

"HENRY A. MOTT, M. D., Ph. D."

"The Royal Baking Powder is purest in quality and highest in strength of any baking powder of which I have knowledge."

"WM. MCMURTRIE, Ph. D."

THE CLOSING EXERCISES.

GRADUATION DAY AT THE NEWTON THEO-LOGICAL INSTITUTION.

The 67th anniversary exercises of the Newton Theological Institution were held yesterday morning in the Baptist church, Newton Centre.

The auditorium was completely filled,
many former graduates of the seminary being among those present.

The chancel was tastefully decorated,
a solid floral bank being arranged in front of the pulpit.

The order of exercises was as follows:
Music, mixed quartet; prayer, Rev. Dr.
Alvah Hovey; singing, quartet; addresses
by members of the graduating class,
"Enthusiasm in the Ministry," William Franklin Arrington; "Liberty the Ulli-mate Result of Progress," Arthur Damrell Chandler; "The Bible a Means for the Development of Character," Sylvester Everett Frohock; "The Unchanging Elements in Theology," Prescott Ford
Jernegan; "Restrained Righteousness," Henry William Oldknow Millington;
"Principles of Reform," Charles Louis Seasholes; "True Patriotism the Safety of our Country," Mark Thompson; "The Grounds for the Observance of the Lord's Day," Henry Barnes Woods.

After the reading of the addresses, a selection was rendered by the quartet,
followed by the presentation of diplomas
to the graduates by President Hovey, the address to the class by Prof. Burton of the institution and the benediction.

The concluding exercises in connection with anniversary week were held in Associates' Hall. The principal feature was a social meeting of the alumni, preceded by a collation to visiting guests.

President Alvah Hovey, D. D., president-elect, Rev. Dr. King of Pawtucket, R. I., gave remembrances of 30 years in the ministry.
Rev. Dr. Bakeman of Chelsea spoke of the Newton Theological institution—its needs and possibilities of the future. Rev.
Albert Greene of Lynn took for his topic
"The Development of Character." The Newton Theological Institution, and short addresses were contributed by Rev.
Mr. Pope of Newburyport and Rev. Dr.
Downey, missionary to the Tagelus, India.

During the past year the institution has received the benefit of several small legacies. There is a movement on foot to raise an additional endowment of $500, 000 by subscription, and the success of the project seems assured.

The fund is needed on account of a depreciation in investments and the increased number of students making a demand for new buildings. The plan is proposed to erect a new library building with necessary offices in the near future.

The additions to the faculty, to provide in part for resignations, have not yet been fully determined. Rev. Rush Reed of Portsmouth, N. H., has been elected to an assistant professorship in the interpretation of the New Testament. Prof.
E. D. Burton has resigned the chair of New Testament interpretation to accept a professorship in the new Baptist Theological University in Chicago, and Dr.
O. S. Stearns has resigned the chair of Old Testament interpretation.

The latter has taught in the institution 25 years, and for 13 years prior to his services as a professor in the seminary was pastor of the Newton Centre Baptist Church.

The vacancies will be filled during the vacation.

The remainder of the exercises are given on pages six and three.

—Gen. Hull Lodge A. O. U. W. conferred the degrees on two candidates, Monday evening, and have ten more awaiting medical examination for their next meeting.

—The venerable aunt of Mr. Charles H. Brown of Winter Hill is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. Bradshaw. Notwithstanding her great age, she does plain sewing very neatly.

—The Newtonville Universalist Sunday school was well represented at the first anniversary of the Sunday school union held in the Shawmut avenue church, Boston, Wednesday afternoon.

—A Strawberry Festival will be held at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, May 25th, at 8 o'clock. A musical program will be furnished. Strawberry, ice cream and cake will be for sale.

—The new quartet at the Universalist church, commencing next Sunday, will consist of Miss Clara L. Bowers, soprano; Miss Emerson, alto; Mr. H. V. Pinkham, tenor; Mr. F. K. Bodwell of Boston, bass.

—The sudden death of Mrs. Walter Grant of Crafts street, so young and so lately married, demands deep sympathy for her bereaved husband and her parents and family friends. The burial was at Rockland, Me.

—Bowling so far as tournament games are concerned, is over for the season, yet the cranks cannot refrain from having a go at the regulation pin and the alleys at the Newton Club will be in use more or less during the summer months.

—Superintendent Henderson has so far recovered from his recent accident as to be able to partially resume his duties at the office, but is not in condition to do any outside work. He is receiving the congratulations of his many friends on his narrow escape from injuries which might have laid him up for months.

—Noranbega tribe, I. O. R. M., worked the adoption degree Tuesday evening. After the exercises of the work, a social hour was enjoyed. The local tribe had as its guests a large delegation of members of Kenegankemitt tribe of Natick. A collation was served by Bradshaw.

—Quite a delegation from this place attended the Young People's Conference on Tuesday held at Natick, and an interesting essay was read by A. Eugene Bartlett, subject, "The work of the young people of the Universalist church." An essay was also delivered by Rev. Ira A. Priest.

—A union meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Methodist, Congregational and Universalist churches will be held Sunday evening at 8.15 in the Congregational church, subject, Eternal Things, Reference, II Cor. 4:18. Leader, Mrs. L. H. Goldthwaite of the Universalist society. All are welcome.

—It is said that betterments will be assessed for the widening of Washington street on abutments 1000 feet each side, but it is only rumor as the matter is yet in the germ state and is to be shaped in the future. An estimate of the value of the real estate required for the improvement by a local agent of experience is $200,000 aside from the land and buildings in the squares.

—Mr. Ed Rumery's horse, attached to a light rig, broke away from a hitching post Monday afternoon, running down Walnut street at a rapid clip and jumping over the fence on the F. S. Rollins estate tearing down a portion of it. The animal brought up in Mr. Rollins' barn and strange to say the horse was only slightly scratched and the carriage and harness were unharmed. A broken bridle was the principal damage.

—A resident who has wrestled unsuccessfully with the problem, suggested the establishing of a first-class restaurant for family patronage. It is believed that one could be made to pay and that there are numerous people who would prefer to take their meals away from home, if the surroundings and fare were agreeable, rather than to suffer from the poor service and abuse of the typical nineteenth century domestic.

—A portion of ex-Gov. Claflin's estate, south of the High school, is to be sold at once and immediately and others later. The tract of land comprises about ten acres in one of the best locations in the city. The lots will be offered for sale at prices ranging from $3000 to $5000, and will contain between 7000 and 10,000 feet each. Messrs. J. C. Fuller and French have full particulars, plans, etc.

—An alarm was rung in from box 242 Saturday evening for a incendiary fire which destroyed a barn owned by Mrs. Michael Sheehan on Crafts street, besides damaging her house, adjoining, to an extent of $200. A cow, calf and a number of hens were burned with the contents of the barn consisting of a quantity of hay, feed, garden tools, etc. The total damage is estimated at about $900. The house and barn were insured. It is the second serious loss believed to be occasioned by a fire bug in this vicinity.

—The report of the annual meeting of the Guild will be given next week; the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Geo. T. Hill; vice-presidents, Mrs. B. D. Morehouse, Mrs. D. S. Simpson, Mrs. H. H. Carter, Mrs. J. A. Priest; secretaries, recording, Mrs. Iola Martin; corresponding, Miss M. W. Hackett; treasurer, Mrs. Geo. A. Cooke; auditor, Mrs. Geo. Wallace; directors, Mrs. Hallantyne, Mrs. G. B. Macomber, for 4 years; prebent board of directors, Mrs. Chas. W. Leonard, Mrs. Chandler Holmes, for 3 years; Mrs. S. F. Brewer, Mrs. Geo. F. Kimball, for 2 years; Mrs. Wm. J. Towne, Mrs. W. L. Chaloner, for one year.

—Mr. Max Fishacher, counsel for Mr. George Tewksbury, said that the charge against him was without foundation. When the case came up in the Boston Municipal court it was made so clear that Mr. Tewksbury was not guilty of the charge, that upon a request for a continuance by the officer prosecuting the case, because of the absence of Conway, the man who, it was alleged, received the check from Mr. Tewksbury, the court allowed the latter to go on his own personal recognizance without bail. When the case comes up again, his counsel says, there can be but one result, an honorable discharge. Mr. Tewksbury's honesty has never been questioned before, and his friends are very glad that his innocence of the charge has been so clearly established.

—The Dark Places of Boston." This is the heading of several posters seen in the city the past few days. The meaning of this is that there will be a union meeting of the Universalist, Methodist and Central churches next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Central Congregational church. This meeting is under the auspices of the Union Rescue Mission of 34 Kneeland street, Boston. This Mission, although young, has been remarkably successful. Mr. Wm. H. West, superintendent, is a man particularly gifted for his position. The Mission not only seeks to reform men in heart but also gives their hands something to do. A broom factory in connection with the Mission has been established and nearly 100,000 brooms have been made within the past twelve months. The Mission is also a home for the homeless. This idea of reforming men, providing a home and setting them at work is one that must meet the approval of every thoughtful person interested in city problems. Mr. West will briefly sketch the working of the Mission and will be followed by several redoubtable men who will tell the story of their rescue. Mr. Geo. M. Fiske of Auburndale is president, and on the board of directors will be found the names of some of Boston's leading pastors and business men. Among them Dr. L. B. Bates, Dr. A. H. Plumb, Dr. A. J. Gordon, Mr. G. H. Durrell of Brown Durrell & Co., Mr. E. L. Tead, president of Exchange Bank, Dr. J. B. Bell and others.

—Prospect lodge of Waltham worked the second degree at the meeting of Newton lodge 92, I. O. O. F. last evening. The third degree staff of Newton lodge will exemplify the work at Milton Lower Mills, Monday evening next, at home, Thursday evening, and at Waltham in the lodge room of Gov. Gore lodge, Friday evening.

—A meeting was held in Odd Fellows hall, Monday evening, for the purpose of forming a Rebekah lodge. Mr. H. C. Wood presided and thirty ladies interested in the project were present. A committee was appointed to canvass and to arrange the preliminary details of organization. Another meeting will be held soon to consummate the plan.

—Mr. T. E. Stutson, who is playing a leading part in Barnett, "1492," at the Globe Theatre, is to be given a send off Tuesday evening by the officers and members of Dalhousie lodge, F. & A. M., who have chartered seats immediately in front of the stage. The Masonic delegation will be made up of 100 gentlemen, residents of the Newtons.

—A section of land, containing 100,000 feet, owned by the Brackett heirs and located at the corner of Elm and Webster streets, is to be put up into house lots and sold at a moderate cost, ranging from $1000 to $1500. The property has been known for years as the "West Newton common." The land, which is very level and desirable, is on the line of the Newton & Waltham street railway, and the sale of the lots has been placed in the hands of J. C. Fuller & French. To make the lots available a new 40-foot street will be laid out, extending from Elm street to Oak avenue.

—The Andrew patent combination street car, a very successful innovation, was introduced Saturday afternoon on the line from Newton to Waltham. It can be used as a closed car with glass sides, or as an open car with slat curtains, which roll automatically into the cornice of the car. Its seats are like those of a steam railroad car, and, for comfort and safety, it was pronounced by Saturday's party a substantial advance over the old pattern. The party, in charge of Mr. G. B. Bolton, treasurer, assembled at Newton at 2 o'clock and rode to Waltham and back again in the new car. At Waltham a generous luncheon was served at the Hotel Crescent, after which there was a pleasant series of brief speeches by practical street railroad men and others commending the new departure.

—The proposed cutting up of the West Newton common on Webster street, into house lots raises the question of where the boys are going to have a playground in this ward. It has been for years the scene of athletic sports, and is the only approach to a public park in this ward, where games are permitted. It is admirably located for a playground and ought to be preserved as such, as the time is coming when land for the purpose cannot be obtained. If some public spirited citizen would only take hold of the matter, the money could be raised, and all future generations of boys in the ward would reverse him as a public benefactor.

—The hand engine "Nonantum" in its new dress will be ready June 1, and possibly may make the appearance here on Memorial Day. The "Chauney," formerly of Westboro, used by the Newton Veteran Firemen's Association last year in the league tournament, has been sold to the Hyde Park Association. The coming tournament of the New England States' Veteran Firemen's league promises to be quite an event. There is some talk of holding it in this city. One of the features of the league is a benefit for the families of deceased members, providing an immediate relief after death. Two Newton families have had benefits during the past year, the amount in each case being about $85.00.

—At the Prohibition Caucus, held at Nickerson's store, Saturday, May 12, the following were chosen delegates to the state convention to be held at Worcester, June 2: W. H. Partridge, Mr. Park, W. L. Howell, N. B. Bixland, C. W. Sanderson, Mr. Ball, C. W. Davidson, C. C. Bradford, G. Lyman Snow, J. B. Chapin, Miss E. P. Gordon, Mrs. M. A. Cole, F. E. Davidson, Geo. E. Mann, Henry Snow, W. W. Cole, Herbert Locke, H. A. Sherman, N. H. Emerson, N. C. Pike, Jos. H. Howes, H. A. Inman, Levi Parker, E. F. Kimball, S. H. Houghton, Rev. W. M. Lyle, Mrs. Richard Rowe, Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, Rev. W. H. Cobb, E. D. Cullen, C. W. A. Braden, James Cutler, Luther Paul, Mrs. L. Paul, Mrs. Kate L. Stevenson. Delegates were also chosen to the Congressional, Councilor, Senatorial, County and Representative Conventions.

—Rev. William Rice Newhall, former pastor of the State Street Methodist church, Springfield, and also formerly pastor of the Centenary M. E. church of this place, and Miss Josephine M. Merritt, daughter of Senator C. C. Merritt of Springfield, were married Wednesday at the home of the bride on Thompson street. Rev. Dr. William Rice performed the ceremony and only a few immediate friends and relatives were present.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Whall celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage at their residence, Evergreen avenue, Wednesday afternoon and evening. They received from 3 until 5 and from 8 until 10 o'clock. Guests were present from the Newtons, Boston and vicinity, and the happy couple were the recipients of the customary congratulations. There were presented with numerous gifts, including $50 in gold, pretty and ornamental articles, a handsome marble clock and many floral offerings from their friends. The evening was spent informally in singing the reading of an original poem written by a Newton woman, and the usual social festivities, an agreeable feature being a generous collation served by the hostess. Mr. Whall has resided in Auburndale for the past 10 years, having come from Boston, where he lived for 40 years. Starting as a boy in the employ of P. H. Field in 1837, he entered the firm at the age of 21 and remained until the remarkable period of 40 years. He then went into the leather business under the firm name of Whall & Mansfield, the concern dissolving at the end of three or four years. He continued alone until 1872, when all was swept away in the great Boston fire, and after a few years he retired from active business.

He is known throughout the State and especially in Lynn, in which city his firm had purchased over a million and a half of goods.

Lasell Notes.

The evening with the humorous caricaturist, Mr. Frank Beard, Thursday May 12, was as satisfactory as possible. Those who know his power will not need to be told how amusing or how beautiful were the pictures and how apt the jokes. Every body seemed to be well entertained, and the seniors under whose auspices he came, went off each with a big roll of charcoal paper with one of the sketches upon it.

Saturday afternoon a large company from the Lasell Battalion went to see the High School Drill at Brookline, by invitation of their Drill Master, Major Geo. Benyon. The Lasell Battalion has been drilling on the lawn in preparation for the Competitive drill which comes off next week.

Saturday evening a few were at the Wellesley Glee and Banjo Concert.

Monday forty pupils took the annual trip to Salem to visit the points of historic interest in that historic town. Miss Jennie Arnold, one of the pupils, with her brother, met them and took them to the house of her father, Mr. Frank T. Arnold, of Peabody, where they had been invited and where a very nice and ample lunch was served to the whole party.

The Competitive Military Drill, by the Lasell battalion, will take place next Monday afternoon, May 23. The Dress Parade will be upon the lawn.

Mrs. Louie Baldwin Powers, vocal soloist and Mr. Mart Dow, impersonator, artists well known to the Boston public, appeared at Lasell Seminary, last evening, May 19, and gave a grand entertainment under the auspices of the Lasella Club. The entertainment was highly satisfactory.

Quick Reconstruction.

The new process for artificial teeth devised by Dr. Chase of Newtonville is proving highly satisfactory, and is a great advance over the old methods.

Until one understands the matter it seems too much to believe that one may visit the dentist, have on a useless or painful tooth, or any number up to a whole set, and leave in a few minutes with substantial and comfortable new teeth in place of those removed, and with so natural appearing as to create no suspicion that they are "false teeth." And yet, such we are assured the fact. Sets thus inserted five years ago have clearly demonstrated the superiority of this method.

There is no waiting whatever for "gums to shrink, no unspeakable toothless condition debarring one for days, weeks or months from business or society," and there is actually less discomfort than from the usual practice.

All classes of dental operations are skillfully and thoroughly performed by Dr. Chase at reasonable prices. Special attention is paid to the preservation of the natural teeth, and the treatment of oral diseases. Office and residence 303 Walnut street.

The Third Councillor District.

(Boston Herald.)

The statement that Mr. J. R. Leeson will be a candidate for the Republican nomination in the 3d councillor district next fall, to succeed Hon. Ephraim Stearns, who declines a re-election, is satisfactory, as indicating that one good man will have his name up for election. Mr. Leeson is an able, progressive business man. His views on tariff legislation have been in the main out of harmony with those which we have advocated, and on this account we have more frequently brought into contest than agreement with him. But we have found him to be a man willing to carry on an argument in a fair manner, and, what is more, one not so blinded by interest or prejudice as to pervert the merits of sound arguments, even when these told in opposition to some of the positions which he and his party were endeavoring to sustain. The executive council is a body which might be entirely suppressed with benefit to our state government; but so long as it exists, it is well that its membership should be made up of men of discretion and ability, and those who know Mr. Leeson will admit that he is fairly entitled to be ranked in this class.

G. A. R.

The Memorial services to be held Sunday evening, May 29th, at 7 o'clock, at the Second Congregational Church, West Newton, are to be of an unusually interesting and impressive character, and our citizens will no doubt show their interest by a large attendance. In addition to the music, and other exercises, an oration will be delivered by Major Wm. H. Hodgkins, now Mayor of Somerville. Major Hodgkins entered the service from Charlestown as a private in the 36th Regiment Mass. Volunteers, serving in this regiment to the close of the war, in the famous Ninth Corps, and rising to the rank of Major, being distinguished for service in the staff of General Hartman at the capture of Fort Steadman. He is known as one of the best Army speakers; was the orator at the dedication of the Hartman Memorial at Harrisburg, Penn., last year, and is always in demand at the reunions of the "boys in blue." The Waltham and Watertown Posts will attend, also Sons of Veterans and High School Battalion.

NEWTON THEOLOGUES.

BACCALAUREATE OF REV. ALVAH HOVEY,
D. D., AT NEWTON CENTRE.

Rev. Alvah Hovey D. D., president of the Newton Theological Institution, preached the baccalaureate sermon to its graduating class in the Baptist Church Newton Centre, Sunday morning. He took his text from Romans, xiv; 23. "And whatsoever is not of faith is sin." He commenced by saying:

In studying the New Testament we encounter problems not easily solved. But this should occasion no surprise. Any book vital enough to move mankind with saving power must deal with such problems. For the real universe, whether material or spiritual, is full of them. They emerge in every branch of physical science. They arrest our progress in psychology. They nestle in almost every fold of metaphysics. We cannot look at nature for evidences of the existence of God without meeting them. The special problem to which I invite your attention is this:

What is the relation between law, human knowledge and personal duty? God's moral law is not only holy and good, but also forever the same. In this respect it is like its author, the Father of Light with whom is no variableness or shadow from turning; like the principle of gravitation, which holds the planets in their paths; like all the forces of nature, which are free from caprice.

For we do not live in a chance world. All material things are connected, coordinated, regulated. They work together, though not by their own wisdom or choice, and we know what to expect from their action. Physical forces are not one thing today and another tomorrow; one thing for this man and another for that. They abide the same, because order is the law of the universe. They also abide the same, as we humbly believe, that we may be able to learn what they are, to trust them and to help one another by joint effort in turning them to the highest account for the common good.

And the same is true of moral law. It is perfect and immutable. Do not suffer yourselves to think of it as a sliding scale of duty, meekly adjusting itself to the different conditions of men, demanding a part from one and the whole from another; a half-hearted service from this man and a whole-hearted service from that. God's character is of moral excellence. It is the standard for all moral beings, for saints and angels, for sinful men and demons. Right is right throughout all the universe, and wrong is wrong in heaven and earth and hell. To be right, one must be in harmony with God, and any disagreement in moral temper with him is sin.

Our knowledge of the moral law is imperfect. A glimpse of that law is revealed to us by the natural working of the conscience. It does not reveal itself completely, but it does assure men of its existence and of their duty to acquiesce themselves with it. They know in part, and even partial knowledge puts them under conscious obligation to turn aside now and then from their flocks and herds, and they examine this celestial light, this burning bush, out of which comes a message from the living God.

But alas, men are not content to know the full meaning of God's law. They have sinned, and do not wish to be reminded of their transgression; or, they desire to commit sin without fear, and therefore abide in ignorance.

There is such a thing as sinful ignorance, an ignorance which is due to a sinful neglect of truth within reach, and so, in turn, these come to be sinners of ignorance. "The one prepares the way for the other."

Let no one imagine he can lower the standard of righteousness, or diminish his obligation to be holy in heart and life by neglecting to study the law of God. For that law, as we cannot too often repeat, is perfectly adapted to our moral nature, and obedience to it is indispensable to our welfare.

We need, however, something more than this law, holy and good as it is. We need forgiveness, and help, and these are given to us through Jesus Christ; forgiveness, because we have failed and do fail to keep the perfect law and grace that we may learn and obey it with ever increasing delight.

Our knowledge of God's moral law is progressive. In its simple nature, nothing is more transparent than this rule for holy living.

Love to God and love to man, pure, rational, beneficent good will, kindled into practical vigor by ever opening spheres of service, is the one thing proper by this law.

Given a perfect law, which represents the very mind of God, and is adapted with infinite wisdom to the moral nature of man, what is one who misunderstands the meaning of that law in a case that requires immediate action to do?

IS IT HIS DUTY TO BREAK THAT LAW by doing what he erroneously believes to be required? In his simple nature, nothing is more transparent than this rule for holy living.

Paul does not answer the question, what is one who misunderstands the sense of God's law in a case that requires immediate action? But he does answer the question, is it ever right for one to do what he believes to be wrong? and he answers it with a decided negative.

Indeed, he goes so far as to affirm that it is wrong for any man to perform an act of whose rightfulness he is in doubt. Given a holy law, perfectly adapted to the moral nature of man, commanding just what he ought to do, and forbidding just what he ought not to do, and a moral being subject to that law, who for lack of knowledge or of previous consideration, honestly misinterprets it, what ought this moral being to do in a case which calls for immediate action?

Our answer is: He ought to do what he believes to be prescribed by the divine law; what he believes to be right.

The only way for a man to preserve what is really highest in his God-given nature is to do every moment what he is convinced he ought to do, and trust to the mercy of God for pardon when he mistakes the path of holiness.

Addressing the graduating class, President Hovey said:

Permit me to impress upon your hearts the duty of preaching these truths, as well as others, to men of this generation.

First, that sinners must be saved, if at all, by divine grace through faith in Christ; second, that believers in Christ must reverence and love the law of God in order to grow in grace, for that law is a copy of the divine will, an outflowing of the divine nature; third, that believers in Christ must do all in their power to ascertain the meaning of God's law; fourth, that Christians must respect the convictions of one another, and indeed, of every human being.

Conscience is to be honored, even when its decisions are thought to be erroneous. This is but one application of the rule: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do even so to them." With charity to all, but with deepest reverence to Christ and his word, you are to go among men bearing the lamp of truth, and trusting that by divine help your path may be that of the just."

Domestic Science Lends A Hand.

There is another new and important factor in cooking. Many articles need a crisp touch, or something to make the other ingredients more harmonious, and it is not every cook who can turn out the best quality for all cooking. It is right here that the danger lies. The housekeeper thinks she cannot afford the best grade of an article, and yet fancies she must have that article at all hazards.

Lard and pork have been standbys so long, and there are so many places where they seem to be necessary, that their quality is important. Still under the very best possible conditions the grease is unhealthy, and its faults cannot be overlooked, and yet fancies she must have that article at all hazards.

Cottolene is a preparation which comes into the market to meet just this need. The product is made of cotton seed oil and best sugar, and is as healthy as lard, and looks like it except in color, which is creamy.

Cottolene is made in preparation, is used in place of lard or butter in cooking. For frying it is unsurpassed, as a rich brown color is easily secured. There is not the least suggestion of extra fat, but a crisp fine finish, very pleasing in fish, cakes, fried cereals, oysters, or clams.

A peculiarity of this preparation is that while food seems rich there is no fatty taste to disturb digestion, and for this reason it has been very popular wherever used. The popularity of Cottolene is due to the skillful handling and preparation of a new element in kitchen economy, by a firm of large resources, which offers only the purest and best for home consumption.

It is determined to maintain a high standard in the interest of their customers, and the pure food laws of which they are firm adherents.—Mrs. Marion A. McBride in Cottage Heart.

Cancer Can be Cured, and by Dr. James H. Solomon, 73 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on the lip of seventeen years' standing, it was cut out twice, by what they call eminent surgeons, at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and now I have now it had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not delay, but to go at once and be cured completely as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart.

Why is HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

Such a great success, and why is it impossible for other Sarsaparillas and blood purifiers to compete with this great medicine? Because

No Other blood purifier gives as much medicine for the money as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No Other Sarsaparilla has the careful personal supervision of the proprietor in all the details of its preparation, as has Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No Other Sarsaparilla has the merit to secure the confidence of entire communities and hold it year in and year out, as has Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No Other produce from actual cures such wonderful statements of relief given to human suffering as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No Other Sarsaparilla possesses the Combination and Process Peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and which makes Hood's Sarsaparilla in curative effect Peculiar to itself.

No Other Sarsaparilla combines economy and strength as does Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the only preparation of which can truly be said, 100 Doses $1.

No Other effected such remarkable cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla, of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, blood poisoning and all other blood diseases.

No Other Sarsaparilla has equalled Hood's Sarsaparilla in the relief it gives in the severest cases of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Bilelessness, Heartburn, and other stomach disorders.

No Other Sarsaparilla comes Tired Feeling, Restores the Appetite, and "Makes the Weak Strong," like

Author of "Economic House-keeping," Editor of the Department of Practical House-keeping in the LADIES' HOME COMPANION, &c., &c.

To N. K. FAIRBANK & CO.,

I am satisfied that Cottoline is a perfect substitute for lard, and is very superior to it for all cooking purposes. Biscuits made from it are much lighter, pie-crust more delicate and not so greasy as that made from lard. Oysters, Croquettes, &c., fried in it reach the perfection which cooks desire to have them—brown and dry, and free from grease. Cottoline can be used in fine cakes instead of butter where lard would injure their flavor. I think Cottoline more healthful being so much less greasy and consequently more digestible.

Other testimonials to the same effect come from all the most celebrated writers and the highest authorities upon cooking, for example:

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills. They should be in every home medicine chest.

I was troubled with constipation for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical. Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

Insomnia is fearfully on the increase. The rush and excitement of modern life so tax the nervous system that multitudes of people are deprived of good and sufficient sleep, with ruinous consequences to the nerves. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

THE PLAYERS.

THEIR SIXTEENTH SERIES A BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

"The Players" gave a varied and attractive entertainment to their friends, Monday and Tuesday evenings, and the City Hall was filled both evenings—as usual.

A word should be given to the orchestral part, by the Players' orchestra, which was even more delightful than usual, which is saying a good deal. The Overture from the Hasty Pudding Club Theatricals was a very popular feature, kindly loaned for the occasion by the author, and was heartily enjoyed.

Three plays were given each evening, which made a pleasant contrast, and gave occasion for some very attractive scenery.

The first was "After Thoughts," a little sketch full of sentimental anguish and gloom, in which Miss Annie P. Call took the part of the fascinating widow with romantic ideas of friendship. Mr. G. R. Pulsifer was the young man who had been formed by his fair friend, with whom he is more or less in love, and Miss Bertie O. Burr was the maid. The hero had in some unexplained way become engaged to a young girl, and the play gave the parting scene in which the widow urges him to be true to the maiden. The bitterness of the "After Thoughts" was well depicted and the scene closes in gloom and the heroine alone in tears. Miss Call showed a marked improvement upon her former efforts. The excellence of the acting called forth enthusiastic applause and the curtain had to be raised again and again.

The second piece was in marked contrast, and the title alone of "The Mouse Trap" led the audience to expect something very amusing. Miss Louise G. Dietrick was the young widow afraid of a mouse, and Mr. E. C. Burrage was her suitor and heroic defender. The scenes were very comical, the points excellently brought out, and the audience laughed and applauded till they were tired.

The closing play was "Dunduckey's Picnic," which never came off, although the hero had what might be called a picnic in his misfortunes and heroic struggles to get started. Miss Georgiana M. Harris was the obliging landlady, whose zeal for her lodger's welfare was only equalled by her excellent make-up, and her "howl" (linguistic). Mr. P. P. Cheney, Jr., had the title role, and made an excellent old bachelor, although his efforts to join the picnic party were constantly interfered with. His dancing brought down the house, especially the dance with landlady. Miss Marguerite Dietrick was the self-willed niece, whom her uncle had just got rid of by marrying to Mr. Cornelius Walker, and both were excellent in their numerous misunderstandings and bickerings. Mr. E. W. Spurr, the youth with poetical tendencies had a marvellous make-up, in a suit of the gloomiest black, his well chalked face being surrounded by an aureole of fiery hair, and his exits and entrances were dramatic in the highest degree. It was a very clever imitation of the famous Paderewski. Mr. Severance Burrage was the leader of the band hired from an excursion steamer, whose music alone proclaimed the fact, and he was assisted by Messrs. Joseph Pyffe and Victor Kimberley. It was altogether one of the most amusing and best presented comedies the Players have given, and the whole entertainment was brilliantly successful.

Don't do it.

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am as well as can be expected. Sulphur Bitters is a great foe to doctors.—George Bastett, N. Y. C. and H. R. Railroad.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the grippe is Kemp's Balsam, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balsam.

Nearly everyone needs a good spring medicine, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is undoubtedly the best. Try it this season.

The Wonderful Success

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier entitles it to your confidence. No other preparation has such a record of cures of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Blood Poisoning, or other blood diseases. To try it is to know its merit. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A fool and his money soon part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of Scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him.—Editor Journal and Courier.

Longevity? I should say Longevity did run in the family," said Mrs. Spriggins. "Why John was six feet two, Bill was six feet four, and George had more longevity than any man I ever see. He was six feet seven if he was a foot."

All alone,

both in the way it acts, and in the way it's sold, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for women.

It acts in this way:

If you're weak or "run-down," it builds you up; if you suffer from any of the painful disorders and derangements peculiar to your sex, it relieves and cures. It improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores flesh and strength. For all functional weaknesses and irregularities, it's a positive remedy. Hence,

It's sold in this way:

It's guaranteed to give satisfaction, in every case, or the money paid for it is refunded.

—The new mail box will be an "unsightly object" near the new depot; it will be an "eyesore," so say the Boston & Albany Railroad, and that is why they refuse to allow the box to be put up at the depot to accommodate the people of Newton Centre who contribute a large proportion of their income from the circuit. A mail box will be unsightly, will destroy the beauty of the station! How about the cinder sidewalks over which ladies have to pick their way carefully to avoid ruining their clothing, while every other station in Newton of its size has concrete walks! Newton, West Newton, Chestnut Hill and Brookline all have a mail box at the depot. Is this consistency? Postmaster Ellis has proposed to place the box on a post opposite the depot, where it will be much more convenient than the place first suggested by the railroad officials, at the steps by the Institution avenue bridge.

—Don't forget the Strawberry Festival at the Cong. Chapel on Wednesday evening 25th inst. The ladies consider themselves fortunate in securing the services of Miss Rose Bacharach of Chicago, a reader of great merit, and Miss May Newman, the Gipsy fortune teller from Topeka, Kansas. These with the operetta and solos announced last week will furnish a first class entertainment.

—A public hearing has been granted the citizens of Newton Highlands and vicinity before the Board of Aldermen on next Monday evening, May 23rd at 7.30 o'clock, at City Hall on the granting of location of poles, and system to be adopted for the Electric Railway. Many of our citizens feel that the overhead system should not be adopted on account of disfiguring car streets and endangering life.

—Mrs. A. J. Gordon of Boston addressed a large audience on Tuesday evening at the Cong. Chapel, on the Social Side of Temperance. She defined temperance as the moderate use of that which is good and as total abstinence from that which is bad. Drinking liquor, she maintained, is bad because drinking demoralizes the individual and also the community. She urged that liquors be abolished as medicine, from the sideboard and from the pantry, as home is the right place for educating a right sentiment on this subject, and parents by the proper education of their children, should guard the child from the drinking habit. She alluded to two temperance hospitals—one in London and the other in Chicago—in both of which the percentage of those discharged cured was remarkable, but in neither of which had liquor or wines been used in their Materia Medica.

—The funeral of Mrs. Sarah B. Putney the beloved wife of Mr. A. B. Putney of the Newton School Board, was held at his residence on Monday afternoon and was very largely attended. The services consisted of introductory prayer by Rev. Amos Harris, Scripture Reading and Remarks by the Pastor, Rev. George G. Phipps, with prayer by Rev. S. S. Matthews of Boston. The quartet aided in the services by appropriate selections, one of which was an exquisite theme from Rosini adapted to the favorite hymn of the deceased, "He Giveth His Beloved Sleep." Flowers were substituted for crape at the door and an effort was made throughout the entire service to conform to the wish of the released sufferer that sadness and grief should not prevail in the spirit of the occasion, but rather quiet cheerfulness and joy. The Pastor therefore dwelt mainly upon the thought of his sweet, pure, loving life merging in the realities of heaven. The quotation from the Pilgrims Progress concerning the departure of Christiana and her entrance into the gate "with all ceremonies of joy" was felt to be most apt and appropriate. Mrs. Putney has been a most devoted wife and mother, and in spite of physical frailty, to the very last maintained a loving enthusiasm for all that is best in this life, while confidently joyous in hope of the Better Land. Every memory of her, who for years has been a most constant and loving sister in the church, unusual in her character and tempered is touched with light as from the Home Serene. Her Star of Hope and Peace and Love was indeed the morning Star obscured only by the brightness of the Eternal Day. The sympathy of the entire community goes out tenderly to the afflicted household; but for her only rejoicing is felt, that after long and patient suffering she has been freed from the pangs of "free where the ransomed have trod."

—Owing to a misunderstanding between the deacons of the Baptist church and the Y. P. S. C. Endeavour Society there was no meeting last Wednesday evening, yet there were quite a number of the young people gathered near the Post Office, but upon finding there would be no meeting they quickly repaired to the Ladies Sewing Circle entertainment at the Methodist church.

After a brief entertainment of music and reading, a welcome was extended on behalf of the League by Miss Alma Sears, one of the vice-presidents, pledging the pastor their support in the work of the League for the coming year, and presenting him with an envelope containing a substantial token of their appreciation and wishes. THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

GRADE CROSSINGS, STORAGE BATTERIES AND OTHER IMPORTANT HEARINGS.
Both branches of the City Council were in session Monday evening, and a great crowd was in attendance.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

The first hearing was before a joint session, and plans and profiles of the proposed alterations in the grade of the B. & A. tracks, and the streets which cross the same were submitted.

Mr. King said that no provision was made for Putnam street, which he thought should be extended to Washington street. There was no opening into the main street of the city between Prospect and Highland streets.

Mayor Hibbard said that the board had looked over the ground in the afternoon and were of the opinion of Mr. King, that the extension should be made and would so recommend.

Mr. T. M. Clarke sent in a remonstrance in regard to Allen street, which was to be lowered 3.5 feet, which would make the street too steep for use, or for drainage, for the sole reason that the B. & A. might save some gravel, and the embankments to be built would be so close to his houses as to damage them.

Mayor Hibbard said the board had felt that the grade should be raised at this point and would so recommend.

Mr. Tilton protested against Greenwood avenue crossing being moved, which would be a great inconvenience to those who used it, and they would have to go nearly 800 feet further to take the electric cars, and about 100 feet further to go to Newville. He hoped to change would be made and represented the wishes of other residents on that section.

Lowell street, Mayor Hibbard explained, would be extended to meet Murray street.

Bellevue street would be left unchanged except that the grade of the road would be raised two feet. Richardson street would be re-opened and as to the tunnel the board would recommend that it be made a street, instead of merely a way for foot passengers.

St. James street would be re-located 670 feet east, and at the present bridge there would be a way for foot passengers under the tracks. This had been presented the greatest difficulties of any of the intersecting streets.

Mr. Burt said he appreciated the difficulties, but he hoped there would be something different from the old tunnel, which was hardly a credit to the city. He would like to know what the arrangements were, and also in regard to grade of Nonantum street, where it entered Washington street.

City Engineer Noyes said the foot way under the tracks at St. James street would be better than the old tunnel. There would be about six steps down on one side, and an entrance at grade on the other.

Mayor Hibbard said to have St. James street cross under the tracks would entail an excavation of twenty feet, which would not be desired by the abutters.

Mr. King asked about the style of the bridges.

Mr. Noyes said they would be plain truss bridges, with trusses above, the bridge itself not being over three feet thick, without braces or other appearance of a bridge. No stone arches would be used.

Mr. Carroll asked about the approaches to the station, whether they would be by a grade or by steps.

Mayor Hibbard said that the board had no information on that point, but he had found the officials of the road very willing to do what the people of Newton desired, in every way they could.

Mr. Carroll thought it would be easy to grade up to the level of the tracks at Newtonville and West Newton, at least for foot passengers.

The hearing was then closed, and the joint convention dissolved.

LIQUOR LICENSE AT NONANTUM.

Nonantum turned out in force to attend the hearing on the question of granting a 6th class liquor license to W. F. Grace & Co.

Councilman Forkall said he was requested to present the case of the remonstrants who protested against any more liquor licenses being granted in that section. They had two drug stores now, enough to supply all needs, and it was a moral wrong to have another one. He had seen children intoxicated in that village, and the people there desired to raise their character instead of lowering it, and make it correspond to the other villages of Newton. They did not want another place for the sale of liquor forced upon them. They had no objection to Mr. Grace, but they hoped that their plea for their families and their homes would have weight with the board.

Mr. More, Mr. Galway, Mr. J. J. Boice and Mr. Wm Jones also made strong protests against any more liquor licenses being granted to that section, and said it was easy enough now to get liquor there, without adding anything to the present facilities.

Mr. Jas. Briston appeared in behalf of the petitioner, and said that those who knew him, and the major portion of the citizens and taxpayers of that section, would support the license granted. He had gone to a good deal of expense in fitting up his store, had secured a skilled pharmacist, and as a matter of justice and fair play the license should be granted. He would obey the law and the remonstrants were chiefly representing certain organizations. One drug store in Ward One was none too much, when you consider the number in the other wards.

The hearing was then closed.

STREET RAILWAY HEARING.
The next hearing was on the location of street railway poles in Newton Highlands, although it took a much wider range and branched off into the subject of storage batteries; nearly all of the Highlands was present.

Mayor Hibbard said the matter of power to propel the cars was beyond the board, as it had granted the company the right to use electric power by any method.

Alderman Hyde read from the permit granted to the company, which granted either method, and required that a plan of location of poles should be filed and approved by the board.

Mr. Joseph R. Smith of Newton Highlands said he was surprised at the statement. He had been present when the location was under discussion, and had asked what method would be used and was told that that would come up later, then the right to lay tracks was alone under discussion. As the permit contained the clause that no poles should be set except as authorized by the board, and also that the board could order the removal of all poles, he still thought that the question of motive power could be discussed and that after the statements made to him and others, they had a right to be heard.

President Parker said the Newton & Boston company had been given the right to use either, and they had chosen the trolley system, and had made contracts involving some $50,000. It was unfair now to reopen the question.

City Solicitor Slocum was called on and said the board could refuse to approve any plan presented.

Mr. Smith said he had appeared and was referred to this meeting, when he wanted to discuss the adoption of the storage battery system. He wanted to enter a protest against the trolley system, as it was for the interest of Newton not to unnecessarily disfigure its streets. He was amazed at the evidence he had discovered within the past three days as to the successful working of the storage battery system. The president of the Newton & Boston company had stated before the board that he intended and expected to use the storage battery system.

President Parker said what he had said was that he was looking into the system with a view of adopting it, if he was satisfied it was best to do so.

Mr. Smith said he had got a different impression. Besides he had found that the Milford & Hopedale storage battery cars were working to the satisfaction of all. Cars had run every day last winter and four gentlemen of Newton Highlands had been over that road this day, and could tell of its success. There was none of the noise made by the trolley cars, they carried any load, went up any grade, and the people there said the cars were now completely satisfactory. The president of the road knew, however, that if storage batteries were a success on one side of Newton, he would have to use them soon on the other.

Mr. S. B. Jones said he had understood from the first that storage battery cars were to be used, and the residents on the west side of the city had been under that impression. The company had made a definite promise, and why did not they keep it.

So much applause followed this that Mayor Hibbard said he should have to close the hearing if it was repeated.

President Parker said the Newton & Boston company were not responsible for the promises made by the Garden City company. It was a different company, with different stockholders and officers.

Mr. Jones said the company had practiced deception from the beginning. The company said they would use the storage battery system if it was successful. We rode over the Milford road today, and found it a complete success, and a committee of the board would find it so. He would like to know what other considerations had influence, and as tax-payers, the citizens of the Highlands thought the board ought not to grant the trolley system on its principal streets.

Mayor Hibbard said that if the board granted it, it was because in their judgment it was best to do so.

Mr. Heustis was called on and said that he had asked at a former hearing, of the officers of the trolley road, if they intended to use the storage battery system and Mr. Keller had said that they did.

Mr. Parker said it was a question of dollars and cents with the road.

Mr. Usher, representing the Milford & Hopedale road, said his road had begun fourteen months ago, and in the last year, they had run 36,000 miles, and made 6000 round trips. Their cars had never broken down, which could not be said of the trolley cars, or failed to come back with their own power. He did not come here with a view to business, but because of the absurd story that had been told. He recognized Mr. Parker's motives. He was president of a railway that had $25,000 in trolley stock and $63,000 in equipments, that would be useless if storage batteries were adopted. The only fault he found was in his trying to force the trolley system on the city, and the storage battery system.

He could present testimony from the head of the Engineering Corps of the U. S. Army, from the head of the Scientific department of Harvard, that storage batteries were a success. He knew the experience of the Thomson-Houston company, when they began with their mile of level track at Crescent Beach and worked day and night to keep their cars in repair and running, so as to induce Lynn to adopt the system. But his road had not such expensive repairs or such a force of workmen. His cars had run a year with less than $100 in repairs to cars, and the Newton road had spent $32,000 in repairs to cars the past year. Mr. Usher gave at length figures showing how much cheaper his cars were run than trolley cars, and their successful operation.

Mayor Hibbard asked if Mr. Usher recalled the visit of the board last fall, when they found that they could walk faster than the cars were run.

Mr. Usher said that the company were not offering its cars then, but waited until the system had been perfected, and then they were admitted to be a success, and gave details of the written proposition he had made Mr. Parker, by which his company would furnish ten fully equipped cars for $40,000 or $4000 each, while his trolley cars cost him $7000 each, and the company which represented the city would guarantee to run his cars and the system. He had only one operating in Sioux City, and it was such a success that it had been voted to adopt the system there.

Mr. Lyman Ross spoke of his visit to Hopedale and the successful operation of the cars.

Mr. Samuel Shaw said if storage battery cars were what was claimed, Newton ought to have them. The board should be careful of the interests of the city and should be held to a strict account. Valuable franchises in the streets were given away too freely.

Mayor Hibbard said the board were not neglectful of the interests of the city. They had visited Milford three different times and felt that Mr. Usher even did not want them to adopt the system.

Mr. Usher said that his system was now perfected and they were willing to guarantee it.

President Parker said Mr. Usher had made his company a proposition and the directors had carefully considered it, but had decided that it was not for their interests to adopt it. One great objection was that the open cars, with each facing each other, which would not be popular, and as the profit a road made was from the summer patronage they had felt that this was a grave objection.

Mr. Usher said his cars would seat 60, while Mr. Parker's cars only seated 40. The hearing was then postponed to Monday evening, June 6th, at 8:30 o'clock.

RIVER STREET CAR TRACKS.
A hearing was then given on the question of rescinding the order for the removal of the tracks on River street from the side to the centre of the street.

Messrs. McIlwain, Cox and two others objected, and Thomas Magne favored rescinding, as he wished River street put in good condition as soon as possible, and now the highway committee have an appropriation and are ready to go to work upon it. The objectors, he said, have other motives than the good of the street, and only want to cause trouble for the road. The hearing was then closed and the regular business of the board was taken up.

The board then went into executive session.

Common Council.

President Roffe presided at the meeting Monday evening, and Councilmen Downs, Lunt and Weed were absent.

Hearings on the introduction of common sewers were granted residents of Brooks avenue, Clarendon, Edinboro, and Knowles streets, Maple Park, Norwood avenue, Regent and Ripley streets.

Messrs. Judkins, Boyden and Lathrop opposed placing a sewer through Edinboro street, claiming it was not a necessity, there being only one occupied house on the street.

A hearing was opened on the proposed widening of Beacon street to 100 feet, but no one appearing, was promptly closed.

Papers from the aldermen were passed in concurrence.

The School Board.

The mayor presided at the meeting of the school board, Wednesday evening, and Messrs. Lawrence, Hornbrook, Hale and Mrs. Davis were absent.

The board went into executive session soon after assembling and unanimously re-appointed all the school teachers for next year.

With open doors an order was passed that the High school term close Tuesday, June 28, and the primary and grammar Thursday, June 30. The sum of $12,033.32 was appropriated for the current month and the following text books were adopted for use in the primary and grammar grades: The Young Folks Cyclopedia of Persons and Places, The Young Folks Cyclopedia of Common Things, Poetry and Prose for School Days, Graded Selections for Memorizing, Poetry for Home and School, Memory Gems in Prose and Verse, Excellent Quotations for Home and School, Whittier's Child Life.

Dwyer were appointed sewing teachers on full time at a salary of $480, and Sarah Ayles on half time at $240.

Truant officers were appointed as follows: Winslow J. Fisk, John W. Howe, George Linn, Chas. Tapley at an hourly compensation of cents fifty for actual service.

The report of the superintendent of schools was in reference to the question of temperance as taught in the public schools, a matter which he was requested by the board to investigate. He advised procuring a suitable teacher for conducting this branch. If a fit person is employed to organize and direct the work included in the term nature study, such action would result in enriching the program of primary and grammar schools in a most beneficial manner. Temperance teaching would drop into its natural place, a position in which it would have organic connection with the other lines of instruction. He accordingly recommended that the committee on text books and course of study be instructed to consider the advisability of employing a special teacher in this branch.

He also recommended that the study of German begin one year earlier in the High school.

Orders were then passed referring the report to the text book committee.

The master of the High school was authorized to procure clerical assistance at not more than $8 per week, and Mabel A. Langley was appointed an unassigned teacher at a salary of $500.

ALEXANDER M. FERRIS, Chief Marshal.

Official: H. W. Downs, Adj. Gen.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical. Clarence L. Huff, Biddford, Me.

"The flowers that bloom in the Spring" are not more vigorous than those persons who are not cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The faded Elixir Vite could scarcely impart greater vivacity to the countenance than this wonderful medicine.

I Was Disgusted
with the learned doctors after swallowing their costly medicine in vain for over a year for the relief of catarrh in my head, when I cured myself by using six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. My wife is now taking it for nervous debility.—Abner Carter, Parker House, Boston.

Handsome Versus Homely.
Who is that thin, pale, dried-up lady that we just passed, Clara? Why, that is Mrs. Suow. Well, there, what a change; when I saw her last, her skin was so soft and maddly looking, it's no wonder I could not know her. Why has she produced that lowly complexion? I heard that she took Sulphur Bitters, the great Blood Purifier, and now would not be without them.

It is no longer "good company manners" not to have any choice or preference when asked by the host at dinner to nominate something.

For Scrofula
"After suffering for about twenty-five years from scrofulous sores on the legs and arms, trying various medical courses with little benefit, I began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and a wonderful cure was the result. Five bottles sufficed to restore me to health."—Bonifacio Lopez, 327 E. Commerce st., San Antonio, Texas.

Catarrh
"My daughter was afflicted for nearly a year with catarrh. The physicians being unable to help her, my pastor recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I followed his advice. Three months of regular treatment with Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills completely restored my daughter's health."—Mrs. Louise Kelle, Little Canada, Ware, Mass.

Rheumatism
"For several years, I was troubled with inflammatory rheumatism, being so bad at times as to be entirely helpless. For the last two years, whenever I felt the effects of the disease, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and have not had a spell for a long time."—E. T. Hansbrough, Elk Run, Va.

THE TAX ON CRUDE MATERIAL.

AN ESTIMATE OF WHAT IT COSTS THE COUNTRY.

(Edward Atkinson in the Boston Herald.)

The farmers and cotton growers of the country have recently been trying to find out what is the matter with their markets, and they have demanded more money. The depression in the price of farm products and the difficulty in the sale of the excess lie at the bottom of this demand for more money, and have exposed us to the dangerous agitation of the silver question. What the farmers require is a more open and wider market and a readier sale of the excess of their products, which they can only secure by removing the obstruction to the import of the means of payment with which the world is waiting to meet their needs.

Again, our manufacturers are subject to great fluctuations. Why? Because their possible home market is very largely among the farmers or among those who supply the farmers with tools and implements, or who move the products of the farm from the field to the consumer. More than one-half of the domestic demand for the manufactures of this country rests upon the ability of the farmer to buy the goods, the ability of the farmer to buy manufactured goods depends upon his ability to sell his excess or surplus of products for export to foreign countries, indirectly the stability of the market for all products depends upon the free export of our surplus.

The revenue derived from the crude materials which are necessary in the processes of domestic industry has formed but a small part of the excess of our revenue which has been applied to the purchase of our bonds long before their maturity. It could all be spared at the present time without the loss of revenue being felt in the slightest degree. I am of the profound conviction that the indirect injury to manufactures, agriculture and commerce is as great as the revenue in mere money. That is to say, the revenue of about $14,000,000 which the government receives from taxes upon crude materials which are necessary in all processes of domestic industry, may have cost us $700,000,000.

In other words, I think that no one can deal with this tax in its ratio to profits—in its obstruction to exports or in its pernicious effect in every direction, without reaching the conclusion that the cost of the revenue secured by the government upon wool, pig iron, coal, ore and a few other crude articles, has been a fold the amount of the revenue that the government has secured. This cost consists in privation of commerce through the effect of this apparently petty tax and in the disparity in the cost of domestic manufactures heretofore demonstrated.

The total revenue derived from the articles classed as crude products necessary in our domestic manufactures in the last fiscal year was $14,000,000, chiefly from wool and other fibres, coal and iron. The direct effect of this tax in maintaining the cost of the material of our manufactures above that of other countries, I cannot put at less than the entire cost of the conduct of this government, including salaries or over $300,000,000. The indirect effect of this, and other taxes, upon the import of the products of other countries, which are their only means of payment for our products of agriculture, cannot be computed. It deprives us of what might be the profits upon agriculture and commerce, which may come to $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 more. Who can tell? The evil can never be measured until it is removed.

In a previous number the statement has been submitted of the depressing effect of similar taxes upon the domestic industry of Great Britain in 1842. Sir Robert Peel and those who supported him in the abatement of these petty taxes upon materials, had little comprehension of the prospect that would ensue as soon as they were removed. An income tax was twice levied for limited terms of three years each, to make up for the expected deficiency of revenue, which it was assumed would ensue from the removal of this tax, gave such an immense impetus to British agriculture, commerce and manufactures, that the income tax in each instance the income tax becomes a surplus. The import of dutiable goods increased, and the revenue thereon increased more rapidly than the abatement had diminished it. The income tax itself also yielded a far greater sum than its promoters anticipated, because the incomes subject to tax were so rapidly developed by the increasing prosperity of the country.

We shall never know in this country how much hurt has come to us from these malignant taxes on crude materials until one or two years after they have been removed.

The Board of Health.
The board of health met Tuesday afternoon in the aldermanic chamber with the mayor in the chair.

The time of the board was entirely taken up in hearings and a large number of petitioners and remonstrants were present to be heard.

The first hearing was on the petition of Mr. F. A. Houdlett of Washington street to keep hens.

Complaint had been made against Mr. Houdlett's hens by residents in his vicinity and the board had given him leave to withdraw, but upon request of the petitioner this hearing had been called.

Mr. Houdlett said that his house faced Washington street, his land comprising some 30,000 square feet of land running back toward Tremont street. There is a clear open valley through which a brook runs at the rear of the premises and here the hen house is situated near the brook. He had been a poultry fancier since 1887 and until recently had kept his birds on farms in the country.

The house at present occupied by the fowl was built at some expense being lathed and plastered with concrete floors. The perches are cleaned and fresh loam placed in the houses every day and the houses entirely cleaned out every few days. An enclosure confines the birds and it was hard to see how they could cause complaint. The birds are very valuable imported stock and as a taxpayer and citizen of Newton he believed he was claiming nothing beyond what he was entitled to by right. The first that he knew of the complaint against his premises was when his license was refused.

He presented a letter from Dr. R. A. Reed, whom he asked to visit the poultry house, in which that gentleman said the house was expensively built and scrupulously clean without the slightest odor, and he could not see how it could be prejudicial to the public health.

A paper signed by eleven of his neighbors, whereas the remonstrance contained only three names, was presented by Mr. Houdlett in which they requested the granting of the license.

Twenty six birds are now in the house, but after July first the family are away the birds will be sent to some farm until about October.

Mr. Reuben Ford of Waverley avenue, one of the remonstrants, protested because of the detriment to the property in the vicinity. He thought property would depreciate in value with a poultry yard in the vicinity, and then the cool breezes in summer came from the direction of Mr. Houdlett's hen house, and each year the air would become more contaminated. There were only a few property owners on his petition for a license.

Mr. John D. Barrows said the hens never had been an annoyance but thought they would be sometime in the future.

Mrs. C. W. Hall objected for sanitary reasons. Her son had been quite ill and she thought it was caused by the hen house. Her physician had said it was not wise to have hens so near.

The hearing was then closed.

A hearing on the application of Mr. Whittemore of Brighton Hill to keep fifteen cows closed, no remonstrants appearing.

Hearings were then granted the following parties who had been ordered to make sewer connections.

Edwin F. Brooks, Brooks and Elmwood streets.

Granville Fuller, Washington street.

Charles Stevens heirs, Washington street, Charles E. Stevens appearing.

Welthea A. Merritt, Nonantum street, Benj. Merritt appearing. Mr. Merritt said he contemplated making radical changes in the house and wished to remain out of the sewer until the alterations were made. The city granted him privileges in the premises which he wished to explain.

Mr. Wiswall and Agent French were appointed to confer with Mr. Merritt and report at the next meeting.

Mrs. Margaret Daniels, Washington street, Tabler.

Louis A. Hall, Elmwood street, was granted three months time to enter connections.

E. P. Tuttle, Jefferson street.

Sarah E. Trowbridge heirs, Washington street, S. W. Trowbridge appearing.

H. B. Coffin, Elmwood street, Tabler.

G. W. Bush, Elmwood street. The board voted to visit his premises on their next field day.

Nellie V. Walker devisees and Harriet H. Walker, Nonantum street, Chas. J. Brown appeared. Granted until October first to connect.

Thomas Pingree and Geo. J. Thomas, Avon Place, Judge J. C. Kennedy appeared.

Mercy M. Whitman, Centre street, S. P. Whitman appeared.

The board adjourned to Tuesday evening at 7.15 o'clock.

Cancer Can be Cured, and by Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr., 75 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years' standing. It was cut out twice, by what they call eminent surgeons, at intervals of six years, after being cut each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not to delay, but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

JOHN HALLAHAN,

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the grippe is Kemp's Balsam, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balsam.

Decoration and furniture become to houses what clothing is to persons. Everything grows old, and in a few years is out of fashion and ridiculous. As there is nothing so old as an old hat that is only a couple of years old, so in household furnishing, nothing appears so much out of the style as the style that has only been recently abandoned.

A Cheap Paint is an Expensive Paint. You want to buy 20 gallons to paint your house. You find a paint that is 25 cents per gallon less than the Chilton. You can save $5. Let us see. The cheap paint you will find contains one-tenth of a gallon less paint than the Chilton, has water in it, and is deficient in body and cannot be made to cover the same amount of surface within one-fifth. Because the cheap paint is short one-tenth in measure, you must buy 22 so-called gallons to get what you want, 20 actual gallons. Now your cheap paint will not cover within one-fifth the same surface. You must therefore buy four more gallons. This makes 26 gallons of cheap paint.

How about the $5 you were going to save. Boston or New York.

STORAGE BATTERIES.

There is always a yearning after the deal, in all well-regulated communities, and this explains why the storage battery system of moving street cars is always regarded with so much favor. Newton Highlands wants all the good things and made a great demonstration before the board of Aldermen, Monday evening, in favor of the storage battery system. In spite of its claiming to be one of the most wide-awake sections of the city, the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company appears to have got ahead of the Highlands, which fact called out many expressions of surprise and disapproval.

Whatever may be said of the storage battery system, and it is certainly the ideal system, the board of aldermen in their visits to the backwoods where Milford is located, were not favorably impressed with what they saw, as they reasoned that Newton people when they rode wanted to get somewhere, and preferred a swifter mode of conveyance than walking. For this reason they gave the Newton company its choice of motive power. Even Mr. Usher did not seem to claim that at the time of the aldermen's visit this system was a success.

This was only a very few months ago, and even if the system is as much of a success now as is claimed, the system can hardly be said to have passed the experimental stage. It has only one small line of railroad on which it is employed, and one car in a far western city. Possibly if the Newton company were bold enough they might take hold of the system, but they say they prefer a system that has been thoroughly tested, even if it is more expensive. It would be very fortunate for Newton if we could have storage battery cars, that would make as good time as others, and do away with the noisy trolley cars and their disfiguring poles and wires, and it is to be hoped that Mr. Usher has got hold of a successful system and has so perfected it that its merits will show for themselves. Nevertheless the trolley system has such a lot of interested capital and interested stockholders behind it, that any storage battery system will meet with the most determined opposition from interested parties.

The hearing is adjourned to Monday evening, June 6th, when the storage battery advocates hope to call out every one interested and prove beyond a doubt that the system is a success. They hope to make it lively for all parties and from the sharp-shooting Monday night, there is no doubt they will succeed in making it interesting.

"Onoqua," Miss Francis C. Sparhawk's new book is just issued by Lee & Shepard in their "Good Company Series." It is an interesting story of life among the Indians and altogether too true to nature to be very creditable to our government and its treatment of these wards of the nation. Any one who desires to see an exhibition of the spoils system in its worst form should read the doings of the Indian agents in this volume, the men appointed to office for their service to some politician, and whose only idea of their duty is to make as much out of the office as possible, before another administration turns them out and puts in a new set of hungry men, to systematically rob the Indians. Another interesting feature of the book is the description of the Indian youths who are sent away to the various schools to be educated, their experiences, and the result of this education upon their after life. Miss Sparhawk has spent a good deal of time at the Indian schools and much of this portion of the book is probably founded on facts that came under her own observation. All who read the book will be interested in the story and most will see the deeper meaning sought to be conveyed, and the necessity of a more humane and civilized method of dealing with these descendants of the genuine first families of this country.

The proposed location of a city stable on Crafts street, has called out vigorous protests from all the property owners in that vicinity, and it is hardly probable that the city will take such action. The vicinity of Crafts and Watertown streets has been developed by the building of an attractive class of houses, until now it will compare favorably with any section of the city, and more houses are planned. What was only a few years ago vacant land and of little value is now assessed for about $150,000, and the city can not afford to place any obstacle in the way

The Argument Used

BY the makers of the second-class baking powders to induce the dealer to push them off on Royal consumers is that they cost less than Royal and afford the dealer much more profit.

But you, madam, are charged the same price for them as for the absolutely pure Royal, which is perfectly combined from the most highly refined and expensive materials. The lower cost of the others is caused by the cheap, impure materials used in them, and the haphazard way in which they are thrown together.

Do you wish to pay the price of the Royal for an inferior baking powder, made from impure goods, of 27 per cent. less strength? If you buy the other powders, insist upon having a corresponding reduction in price.

of improvement, especially as a syndicate has been made up to buy the city lot, at any reasonable price. There are plenty of locations where a city stable would not be objectionable.

Atchison's Reorganization Completing.

Boston—Five years ago the present financial management of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe R. R. Co. came into power. An expenditure of more than $100,000,000 had been made by the previous management for the building of extensions and new lines, but when the balance sheet was struck net earnings were found to be not only under dividend expectations, but one third less than actual interest charges, while floating debt and needed physical improvements had pressed the company.

The new directors and their banking associates carried the company for a year and brought forth a scheme of financial reorganization which has ever since been considered a masterpiece. It proposed in brief that $12,000,000 of charges be divided upon the basis of making one-third optional to pay according to net returns and improvement requirements of the company. For this $4,000,000 of optional interest $80,000,000 [5 per cent] income bonds were issued to the bondholders.

It was immediately seen that there was a defect in such a plan—an uncertainty as to the necessity at that time of the uncertainties of the future—and that there remained open the temptation to rival or speculative railroad interests to purchase control of the property and develop the stock at the expense of the holders of the income bonds by putting all the net earnings into improvements.

The Co. now proposes—what could not have been proposed before—to cure the one defect in the reorganization plan, and make provision for improvements upon capital account for present mileage for several years to come. It will substitute a second mortgage 4 per cent bond for the present income 5 per cent bond, but present income bondholders will get 2 1/2 per cent this year, and at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent for the 15 months from July 1 next, then 3 per cent for one year, 3 1/2 per cent for the next year, and the regularly established rate of 4 per cent thereafter; in effect, making the present income bonds into 4 per cent mortgage bonds with 2 1/2 per cent declared upon them payable Sept. 1 next, but waiving in the aggregate during the next three years 3 per cent of their fixed 4 per cent annual interest.

As a 4 per cent mortgage bond is far superior to a 5 per cent income bond there is no ground for complaint from the holders of the incomes, and stockholders, while being benefited by the reduction from 5 per cent to 4 per cent in the charges ahead of them, have the credit of the company placed upon such a basis that they can improve their property during the next 4 years by the proceeds of $20,000,000 of the new 4 per cent bonds; and when the property has thus been improved, there will be no more interest charge than at present between the stock and the first mortgage bonds. Meanwhile the road will be paying but a graduated scale upon the second lien increasing after 1893 by only $400,000 per annum.

The details of this amendment to and completion of Atchison's great reorganization plan have been worked out in a masterly manner and will be read from the official advertisement of the company, published today, by all investors in railroad properties as well as by the 20,000 or more directly interested in the shares and securities of this great western railroad property.—Boston News Bureau.

Silver Chestnuts to Hurt the Farmers.
During the past two years we have seen the farmers, under the lead of a lot of refuse politicians, making a spectacle of folly of themselves throughout the west and south—demanding the impossible and absurd, and with no prospect of getting anything but the dangerous and destructive. Everything that the farmers were baited with at first has been dropped, and the whole strength of their movement is now turned toward pulling the silver king's chestnuts out of the fire, in the form of free silver coinage—a measure which if it is passed, will surely hurt the farmers most of all.—Dr. Hoskins in Vermont Watchman.

Elevating the B. & A. Railroad.

To the Editor of the Graphic.

There seems to be considerable complaint that the hearing last Monday evening was rushed through so hurriedly. It seemed to be taken for granted that the plan proposed was the best for all concerned, and while discussion was invited, no one seemed to know what objection was expected. Further consideration leads me for one, and I fancy many are of a like mind, to object positively to having any less than 14 feet in the clear, under any of the bridges crossing the streets. This is especially necessary in Ward 3 where the street grades are steep south of the railroad. The proposed 13 feet headway in that ward is insufficient, for teams have been measured in our streets 12 or more in height, and moving either up or down the hill, even 14 feet will scarcely suffice for them to pass easily under the elevated road as planned. We do not begrudge the other wards having as they do, 14 feet clear, but as this elevating is for all time to come, no mistake should now be made, in fact, must not be. A few thousand dollars more or less additional cost for a railroad, should not be allowed to stand in the way of having the elevation satisfactory to our citizens, now and hereafter. I do not write in the interest alone of Ward 3, but of the whole city, and I suggest a thorough discussion with each of our aldermen, and promptly too, that they may find their constituents are a unit in demanding this change in the plan as at present drawn. The aldermen and President Brewster are expected to meet early next week to discuss the plan.

So act quickly and decidedly. Another advantage could result from the 14 feet space, and that is that the streets, except Washington, Walnut and Centre, could be spanned by handsome stone arches instead of iron bridges. While their first cost would be greater, they would last forever, require no painting and but infrequent repairs, would be much stronger and safer for the trains, horses would not scare under them as under bridges, and there would be no rumbling of the crossing trains. Arches could be made an ornament to our streets, the bridges, never!

HENRY F. KING.

West Newton, May 26, 1892.

General Grant's Declining Days.

I once heard, with reverence and with misty eyes, the story of General Grant's return from the last brief journey he ever took from the cottage on Mount MacGregor. The general had a favorite walk, one which with him never varied, and frequent repairs, would be much stronger and safer for the trains, horses would not scare under them as under bridges, and there would be no rumbling of the crossing trains. Arches could be made an ornament to our streets, the bridges, never!

Rimbach with his exhibition on the Phonograph, rendering a delightful program. The committee (Bros. R. C. Bridgman and H. A. Bridgman) are to be congratulated in having secured so novel and pleasing an entertainment for the members and their friends.

—In our issue of April 15th there appeared, under the head of Newtonville items, one which has since been thought to be a reflection upon Miss Rosetta M. Webster and, from her point of view, we have no doubt it was calculated to cause her annoyance and, possibly, some ridicule. It was published, however, without her knowledge and it did refer to her and it would be the farthest from our purpose, in the conduct of this paper, to lend our columns to anything of this sort. We want to say publicly that we have no reason to cause Miss Webster any pain or trouble and take pleasure in explaining what was unintentionally published as above.

—At a special meeting of the Newton Club, held Saturday evening, it was voted to authorize the treasurer, Mr. J. W. French, to borrow on first mortgage for the new clubhouse the sum of $25,000, payable in five years, with interest at the rate of 4.2 per cent, per annum; also to issue $25,000 in bonds secured by the second mortgage. Messrs. Austin R. Mitchell and Frederick Johnson, trustees, the principal of which has been subscribed by members of the club. It was also unanimously voted that each member of the club be invited to contribute at least $10 toward furnishing the new clubhouse, and a committee was appointed to arrange details and receive subscriptions. Two amendments to the bylaws were reported by the executive committee and laid over under the rules. It was voted to adopt cherry and white as the club colors, cherry lettering on a white ground. Other routine business of an unimportant nature was transacted. It is expected that the new clubhouse will be ready for occupancy Sept. 1.

—There was a very large attendance at the Congregational church on Sunday evening in connection with the service of the Union Rescue Mission on Kneeland street, and the audience was deeply interested to the close of the service. After reading of the scripture by the pastor and prayer by Rev. Mr. Jackson of the Methodist church, the meeting was given into the hands of the genial superintendent Mr. William West, whose work among poor, fallen humanity of our great city has yielded such large returns for good, for nearly a year he bore the responsibility of this Mission personally but now he has strong and earnest helpers, as Geo. M. Fiske, the president, F. E. Davidson, vice president, together with Oliver Durrell, treasurer, an able corps of directors give courage and force to the grand work. The exercises opened by prayer and a brief outline of the work by Mr. West, followed by song and personal experience related by men redeemed through its influence. The meeting was conducted just as if they had been at their Kneeland street home. About $200 was subscribed and after remarks by Mr. Fiske and a solo, exquisitely rendered by one of their number, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Ira Priest.

—Some sleepy old fellows held a siesta early Tuesday morning 'mid solemn surroundings, suggesting spooks and uncanny visitants. They had been to Milton Lower Mills in a 4-horse barge, at least that was the point of destination. Where they went and what experiences befell them seems now to be a profound mystery.

—The W. C. T. U. met as usual Tuesday afternoon, and it was pleasing to see so many members present. Mrs. Burrisson read a paper upon "The effects of Alcohol on the human system." Mrs. Waters read extracts from "The final address of Henry Somerset, before the British Women's Temperance Association." Mrs. Leighton and Mrs. Mason were appointed delegates to attend the Middlesex County Quarterly convention to be held in Stoneham, June 9th.

—The parish of the church of the Messiah desire to offer Madame Jarley their warmest thanks for her kind services in their behalf. It would be difficult to repeat her many witicisms, but the continued laughter and evident appreciation of her audience must have been very gratifying to her. The Telephonic messages between her and the queen and other notables were a charming and spicy feature of the evening. The "vagers" were most true to nature and must have cost the old lady much care to transport. The English are to be envied if the b-a-u-tiful faces in wax which she presented to us are a fair sample of Albion's lovely dames. We wish her a happy return to her native soil and God save the Queen who lent us even for a short while so charming a personage.

—Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Crockett observed informally the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding Monday evening at their residence on Washington street. They received with their son, Dr. Eugene Crockett, from 7.30 until 10 o'clock, standing in the parlor in a recess banked with tall palms. The apartment was tastefully decorated for the occasion, cut flowers being arranged on the mantels and the room garnished with apple blossoms. Words of congratulation were spoken by the guests comprising a company of about 200 ladies and gentlemen, and the more substantial evidence of regard were not lacking. The Doctor and his estimable wife receiving numerous compliments and articles of value, to be long treasured by them as souvenirs of a happy event in their lives. —A delegation of 100 members of Dalhousie lodge attended the presentation of Mr. Barne's comedy success, "1492" in the Globe Theatre Tuesday evening and gave Mr. T. E. Stutson an ovation. His appearance was greeted with a perfect storm of applause and he was the recipient of many bouquets. The comedy was a most brilliant and successful one. The local amateur organization of which he is a valued member. Mr. Stutson has had flattering offers to enter the professional field and has already secured a strong hold upon the affections of the audience by his public by his clever work in comic roles.

—About 200 ladies and gentlemen assembled at Knights' of Honor hall last Monday evening, the occasion being the second Ladies night given by Triton Council No. 1, R. C. Condin, D. G. R. acted as master of ceremonies. The entertainment opened with a piano selection by Miss N. G. Linahan. Mogan rendered several selections including a sextette from the opera "Robin Hood." Vocal selections were rendered by Miss M. Barry and Miss S. Carroll, and Mr. Traverse of Waltham favored the audience with comic songs. Readings by Miss M. Duane and Mr. M. J. Green were among other features and Mr. Edward Fry, the popular humorist, kept the audience in a continuous flood of good humor. Each number on the program was encoored. Then followed a collation after which dancing was enjoyed until 12.45. Among the guests present were W. H. J. Smith, D. D. G. R. and lady of Waltham. The whole affair was a success and reflects much credit upon this enterprising Council.

Davis, assisted by the Amphion Quartet, the Orphean Club of the seminary, and some well known artists from Boston and vicinity, will give a concert in the gymnasium of Lasell Seminary on Thursday evening, June 2nd, at 7.45 o'clock. A very fine program is promised. Admission 50 cents, proceeds to be in aid of the Church Music Fund. A large audience is expected.

—The Sunday morning service at the Methodist church, will be unusually attractive and interesting, by having somewhat the character of Memorial Day service. The music will be appropriate and well worth hearing. Some pretty decorations also will add to its patriotic character. Subject, "Our Flag, its Origin and Significance." The Amphion Male Quartet and the chorus choir will render some patriotic music. Friends are invited.

—Mr. W. B. Atherton was quite painfully hurt Saturday morning in alighting from a train to speak to a gentleman. As he stepped from the car a young girl running in an opposite direction came in violent collision with him, the force being so severe as to knock both of them down. Mr. Atherton's face and nose received the shock, arriving in town he consulted a physician, who found some of the small bones of the nose fractured. The young lady, whose name we did not learn, was badly bruised and one side of her face is still black and blue.

—A most enjoyable service was that held in the Methodist church last Sunday morning. In addition to the excellent music rendered by the Amphion Male Quartet and chorus choir, a sermon was preached upon "Songs and hymns of the Church," showing their spiritual origin and the deep character which characterize the authors of many of our familiar hymns. The preacher was Rev. G. H. Griffin of Springfield, Mass. Mr. Griffin has a daughter who is attending the seminary, and beside this he is a personal friend of Mr. Bishop. In the evening Rev. Mr. Griffin spoke again at the union service of the Methodist and Congregational churches, in the Congregational church. Next Sunday morning there will be preaching by the pastor, Rev. T. W. Bishop, and in the evening a Christian Endeavor rally, in which Rev. F. E. Clark, D. D., founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, will speak. All friends are most cordially invited to attend the services at 7 o'clock. The Young People's Orchestra will furnish the music.

A Leap Year Quandary.

"Of course, Miss Guipure," said Mr. Cashmere, tenderly, as he let his hand lie unresistingly in hers, "I fully understand that you have asked me to be yours, but because I am rich and popular, but from a genuine affection you have for me. But before accepting your proposal finally I have one question to ask."

"What is it, dearest?" she inquired, as she folded her strong arms about him.

"What is it?"

"I would like to know," he hesitated, "if after we are married you are to be Mrs. Cashmere or am I to be Mr. Guipure?"—Detroit Free Press

GRACEFUL GIRLISH FIGURES.

ANNUAL COMPETITIVE DRILL OF THE LASSELL BATTALION.

The annual competitive company drill of the Lassell Battalion took place in the seminary gymnasium at Auburndale, Monday afternoon.

The girls wore blue serge skirts, ankle length, Norfolk jackets, with leather belts, knots of white ribbon at their throats and on their heads, atop of feminine frizzes and braids, the regulations blue cartel cap, with "L. S. B." in silver monogram on the front. The officers wore the shoulder straps marking their rank, and had stripes of gold braid down the sides of the skirt, and gold buttons on the jacket front and sleeves. They went through their evolutions with precision, eliciting bursts of applause from the visitors, the heartiest of which came from the school regiment officers. These visitors came from Malden, Somerville and from Chauncy Hall, and among them was Col. Waterman of the school regiment.

After the company drill there was a competitive drill for medals, two of which were offered. Twenty-five girls competed in the first trial, in the second it was narrowed down to 10, and the last eight took part. It was close work between the eight, who were:

Miss Tupper, Stillwater, N. Y.; Clara Eddy, Bay City, Mich.; Lillie Tukey, Omaha, Neb.; Bessie Phelps, Scranton, Pa.; June Hoyt, Seattle, Wash.; Alice Andresson, Omaha, Neb.; Julia Anderson, Taylorville, Ill.; Lottie Appel, Denver, Col.

A sword drill was given by the officers after which was dress parade and awarding of the prizes. The dress parade was the prettiest scene of all. The gray of the sky, through which the sun was struggling, the green of grass and trees, the gay colors of the flags and guidons, and the dark blue dresses of the girls made an effective combination.

The battalion formation of the day was: Acting major, Capt. Milliken; acting adjutant, Lieut. Spaulding; acting sergeant, Sergt. Phelps; captain company A, Capt. Shepherd; captain company B, Capt. Medsker; captain company C, Lieut. Gilman; captain company D, Lieut. Bragdon.

Company A—Captain, Bessie Shepherd, Auburndale; lieutenant, Sybil Taylor, Auburndale; first sergeant, Clara Eddy, Bay City, Mich.; second sergeant, Bessie Phelps, Scranton, Pa.; first corporal, Louise Whitney, Bay City, Mich.; second corporal, Mary Miller, Bay City, Mich.

Company B—Helen Medsker, Kansas City, Mo.; Belle Bragdon, Auburndale; Julia Anderson, Taylorville, Ill.; Mary Tukey, Council Bluffs, Ia.; Lillie Tukey, Omaha, Neb.; Florence Ray, Ottawa, Ont. Company C—D. Milliken, Decatur, Ill.; Carolyn Gilman, Marshalltown, Ia.; Lottie Eddy, Bay City, Mich.; Lottie Appel, Denver, Col.; Evelyn Mason, Auburndale; Mollie Taylor, Toledo, O.

Just before the dismissal of the battalion the prizes were awarded as follows:

Best drilled company—Company A, Capt. Shepherd.

For competitive drill, silver medals—First prize, June Hoyt, Seattle, Wash.; second prize, Alice Andresson, Omaha, Neb.

Cheers greeted the announcement of the prize winners. The company that won the colors, the girls who took the medals, the judges, Maj. Benyon and Mr. Bragdon, as well as Chicago, because that was the home of Miss Dorothy Chapman, who took the prize for the best gymnasium work of the year. All these came in for a share of the applause.

And if the cheers were given in soprano and were a little less in volume than those the visitors were accustomed to hear, they were no less hearty, nor were they given with less good will.

The Raising of the Railroad Tracks.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

As I was unable to get to City Hall last Monday evening in season for the hearing on the above question, I would like to say a few words through your paper. I believe the raising of the tracks as proposed will be an incalculable damage to our city. 1st on account of the unsightliness of the embankment, whether masonry or slope. It was said at the hearing on the question of opening the tract of land between the railroad and Washington street (an improvement which certainly should be made) that the railroad would build a grassed slope for their road bed, which would look very nice in connection with the proposed improvement. It would look so, if well kept about five months in the year, and for seven months would be an inevitable disfigurement.

This embankment would shut off the south side of the track from any good view of the Washington street improvement, and would thereby render it of very much less value to the city. This embankment would also shut off to a considerable degree, the free passage of air, and of view, which is now possible, between the sections laying from 500 to 1,000 ft. on each side of the track. 2nd the passage of trains over a raised track will produce more noise than over a sunken one, and this noise will penetrate the houses to a much greater distance on each side. 3rd Let anyone stand by the track where the ground is dry and see what a cloud of dust is raised by a passing train. This dust raised upon a road bed ten feet or more in the air, must necessarily be carried by the wind a much greater distance than it could be if raised in a cut, and is likely to prove a serious annoyance and damage all along the road. 4th The impression made upon people passing through our city over an embankment track will be most unfavorable. They will not understand perhaps the real reason for this embankment. They will naturally attribute it to the usual reasoning, that the land is low and an embankment necessary. It will give a large section of the city a sunken look; on the other hand if passing through a cut, passengers would naturally suppose it was necessary because the land was high.

It is doubtless desirable to separate the grades, but it should be done by lowering the tracks, which would to a very great extent abate instead of increasing the annoyance of noise and dust from passing trains, and place the railroad and its work as much out of sight as possible. I am told that there are no engineering difficulties whatever in the way of this plan. It is in every way possible. The idea has been spread abroad however, and carefully cultivated, that this cannot be done. That the raising of the tracks is the only practical way to separate the grades. It is doubtless the choice of the railroad company, but the people of Newton should consider with great care the practical points involved, for this change when made will be for all time, and there can be no after remedy. GEO. M. FISKE, Auburndale, May 25, 1892.

If ever a man feels like "a poor worm of the dust," it is when he suffers from that tired feeling. Ayer's Sarsaparilla removes this depressing physical condition and imparts the thrill of new life and energy to every nerve, tissue, muscle, and fibre of the whole body.

As you like it, Gray and faded whiskers may be changed to their natural and even color—brown or black—by using Buckingham's Dye. Try it.

It is curious that although the use of forks has not spread all over Europe, yet the savage F-je Islanders have long had table forks in use. At a time when almost all of northern Europe was destitute of the article, these people, the most cruel and most ingenious of all the natives of Polynesia, used forks in conveying to their mouths dainty morsels of puakabai-aya (log pig), as they called cooked men.

Rather risky—the offer that's made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Risky for them. For you, if you have Catarrh, it's a certainty. You're certain to be cured of it, or to be paid $500. That's what they offer, and in good faith—they cure you, or pay you, no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing.

But—is it so much of a risk? They have a medicine that cures Catarrh, not for a time, but for all time. They've watched it for years, curing the most hopeless cases. They know that in your case there's every chance of success, almost no chance of failure.

Wouldn't any one take such a risk with such a medicine?

The only question is—are you willing to make the test, if the makers are willing to take the risk?

If so, the rest is easy. You pay your druggist fifty cents and the trial begins.

Perfectly Well.

FILLMORE, Dubuque Co., Ia., Sept., 1889. Miss K. Finnigan writes: My mother and sister used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for neuralgia. They are both perfectly well now and never tired of praising the tonic.

It Was Indeed a Miracle.

I wish to state what a wonderful benefit Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has been to my brother, who has suffered from rheumatism since 1888 and has not been able to do work of any kind since that time. He has tried all kinds of patent medicines and different doctors of skill, but without benefit, until he took the Tonic. He has continually improved since, and I will say, and hundreds besides me who have seen him since his sickness, that it was indeed a miracle to see him restored to health.

—There was a pleasant surprise last week for Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mills on the 25th anniversary of their marriage. The son and daughter with many friends called quite unexpectedly with kind wishes and other evidences of good will.
—By a recent change in the time table of the B. & A. R. R., the last train for Boston leaves Newton Centre at 10.21 p. m. instead of 10.27, as formerly. This difference of six minutes has already been the cause of severe and uncomfortable, though amusing experiences.
—George Libbie, son of O. L. Libbie, died Sunday after a short illness, aged 15 years. The funeral was held Tuesday, Rev. T. J. Holmes officiating. There were many flowers and his class mates in Miss Buckman's room sent fifteen white pinks tied with white ribbon.
—The Crescents will play on Walworth's field, May 30, at 9 a. m., with N. H. S. '90. This is the same club which played the Crescents a short time ago and had an exciting contest. The home nine has been greatly strengthened lately, and it should be encouraged by a large audience.
—Mr. Edw. P. Caldwell, who has been with Abram French Co. for the last five years, left for Duluth, Minn., Monday, to fill a responsible position in the same line there. Mr. Caldwell began with the firm mentioned above, at the bottom of the ladder and has risen step by step until now he leaves his position of salesman to become the manager of a large grocery business in Duluth.
—Edward R. Speare, son of Hon. Alden Speare, who last year won the tennis championship of Boston University, will represent the Newton Boat Club, of which he also holds the championship, in the Saturday matches of the Interclub League. His "form" this season is very much improved and he has thus far found no difficulty in defeating R. C. Thomas of this place, who is believed by many to be second only to Fred Hovey in this city. Mr. Speare will also meet representatives from Bowdoin, Maine State, Amherst and Dartmouth Colleges and Colby University, in some inter-collegiate contests during the early part of June.
—A singular coincidence in the humdrum routine of human existence is the manner in which five Newton Centre B's and two lawn mowers have gone into an engagement. Mr. B. No. 1 sent a lawn mower to be repaired by Mr. B. No. 3. Mr. B. No. 2, also sent a lawn mower by Mr. B. No. 4, to be repaired by Mr. B. No. 3. Mr. B. No. 3 had finished the work required, B. No. 4 called and took away a machine for B. No. 2, so say Messrs. B. 3 and B. 5. Now when B. No. 1 sent for his grass cutter it was found that B. No. 3 by mistake had sent the mower to B. No. 2 by B. No. 4. Therefore when B. No. 4 was next seen by B. No. 3 he was asked to return the mower given him by mistake, but B. No. 4 denied taking a mower away. Result: B. No. 3 and B. No. 5 say B. No. 4 took the mower belonging to B. No. 1, to B. No. 2. B. No. 1 is at present without a mower. But B. No. 2 has not received any mower from B. No. 3, the where is B. No. 1's mower, the mower belonging to B. No. 2 still being so tagged at the store of B. No. 3.
—The managers of the Newton Base Ball Association are pursuing a remarkably vigorous policy toward securing the most generous opportunities for the lovers of the sport this season. They have shown great enterprise in securing first class home dates, and until the middle of July at least there will be games for Saturdays and holidays on the home grounds. Wednesday's field, Hyde Park nine, will cross bats with Newton in a good, old-fashioned contest. From back in the sixties a game with the Hyde Parks has never failed to arouse the interest and enthusiasm of the base ball community, and it is safe to say that Newton has never been better represented than she will be next Saturday, when she faces her great rivals. Everyone must attend Memorial Day. Two great games, in the morning at 10.30 and in the afternoon at 4. If the weather allows, the field will be packed, but the audience will find accommodations. Twelve hundred seats and arrangements for a hundred carriages back of centre field have been provided for the public convenience. The price of seats will remain at fifteen cents each, and the carriages twenty-five cents each. We wish the Newton nine the most distinguished success in all these contests, and hope that their Memorial Day tribute will decorate the fair name they have with three well-earned wreaths of victory.
About fifty men gathered at Associates Hall, Tuesday evening, in response to the invitations of a postal card which read as follows: "If you believe in widening Beacon street to one hundred feet from the Boston line to Newton Centre, you are invited to meet others who agree with that plan, at Associates small hall, Pleasant street, Newton Centre, Tuesday evening, May 24, at 8 o'clock." Avery L. Rand presided, and H. H. Read was chosen secretary. Those present were mostly young business men, and there was a notable absence of real estate speculators. The belief was strong that the proposition, if carried out, would benefit not only Newton Centre, but the Highlands, Upper and Lower Falls, Waban, Auburndale and other parts of the city. Remarks in favor of the plan were made by W. B. Young, E. H. Haskell, Cyrus Baker, Charles Everett, B. E. Taylor, William W. Noble, Charles C. Barton, Frank Edmands, George E. Gilbert and Charles S. Davis. The petition addressed to the city council contains more than one hundred names, and a committee of seven was appointed to take proper measures for having the matter represented at the hearing, which will take place June 6. In opposition to the Beacon boulevard extension a petition has been sent into the city council, signed largely by the residents of South and Ward streets, asking that South street from the Boston line to Ward street be widened to seventy feet. This does not provide for an electric car reservation which is believed to be essential to successful rapid transit.

—The hour for the Cantata, "The Plow," to be given in Lincoln Hall on Thursday evening, is eight o'clock. There will be boating songs, swinging songs, flower songs and waltz songs rendered by a chorus, assisted by the following soloists: Mrs. J. H. Smith, daughter of Newton Centre, Miss Wetherbee, Miss Stevens, Miss Berry, Mr. Philip L. Brickett, Mr. E. J. Hyde, Master Stevens. A special feature will be a hoop-drill by young misses. Refreshments will be served before and after the Cantata.

—This spring a pair of blue birds had built their nest after many consultations and much loveliness in a box in Newton Highlands. They hatched their nestlings and were busy in the sunshine and rain providing for their needs. One day the screams of the blue birds attracted attention. Some English Sparrows were attempting to drive them from the home. The blue birds contended vigorously for their rights, but the sparrows were stronger and right gave way to might. Three or four hours later three young blue birds were found cold and dead on the ground, and the old birds were nowhere to be seen. The next morning the English sparrows were busy building in the box from which they had driven the blue birds.

—Perhaps never before in Newton Highlands was such an interest manifested in a public question as the one relating to the system to be used in propelling cars on the new electric street railway. The large barges left here at 7 o'clock on Monday evening containing about seventy-five gentlemen, to attend the hearing before the mayor and board of aldermen at City Hall, Mr. J. H. Smith, president of the Newton Centre street railway company, explained the system in a very clear manner and proved that the system was not only a success, but that it had been offered to the new railway company to be used on streets at a much lower cost than the trolley or overhead system with an ample guarantee as to its practical working. A strange feeling existed that if our principal streets are to be used for street car purposes we should have the best system invented. The hearing was postponed until June 6, when our citizens will have another chance to be heard.
